CHICAGO PLANT MAKES ALCOHOL OF WASTE GASES

Research Gives Area New Industry.

MAKE CHICAGO THE FIRST CITY IN THE WORLD

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Industrial alcohol is being made in the Chicago area from what used to be waste products of the petroleum industry. A permit was issued yesterday by E. C. Yellowley, district head of the federal alcohol tax unit, to the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation for the manufacture of industrial alcohol in the $10,000,000 plant it recently has completed at Whiting, Ind., near the Standard Oil company's plant.

Chemists in the industrial laboratories say the process yields ethyl alcohol which is chemically identical with ethyl alcohol made from grain. The synthetic alcohol is made from gases created in the cracking process of producing high grade gasoline. The alcohol is used as a solvent in industry and as anti-freeze mixture for automobiles.

Two Alcohol Plants Now.

Four or five years ago the corporation began making alcohol for industrial use by the same process in its plant at Charleston, W. Va.

The announcement directed attention to the increasing commercial use of the products of the research laboratories, especially in the growing application of synthetics to plant life.

With fruit ripened by gas, the sprouting time of bulbs and seeds changed by chemicals, the blooming of flowers controled by artificial stimulation, the industrial chemists are seeking to roll the seasons backward and forward. And the depression period seems to have seen the greatest advance.

Research During Depression.

During the depression the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation, just as did the great oil companies and others, kept its research laboratories going full tilt. As a result, where in 1929 it was marketing twelve major compounds, it now offers more than five dozen chemical compounds.

Ethylene, the "magic gas," is perhaps one of the smaller activities, but it has been gaining in interest to fruit growers and consumers. The ancient Chinese ages ago ripened hard pears in rooms filled with the fumes of incense. More recently, fruit raisers years ago knew that matured green fruit could be ripened by fumes from a kerosene stove.

About a decade ago, in 1923, Prof. R. B. Harvey and associates, at the University of Minnesota, and scientists in the federal bureau of chemistry isolated the gas which caused the ripening and coloring of the green fruit.

Brings Out Real Color.

It was ethylene, a colorless gas of faint, pleasant odor. This gas speeds the natural coloring process by breaking down the green pigment, or chlorophyll, allowing the natural colors of mature fruit to appear.

Thus, when exposed to the fumes of ethylene, a green tomato turns red all over, a green banana yellow. Also, the chemists say the ethylene destroys, by oxidation, the bitter element in unripe fruit and increases the sugar content by speeding up the action of the "enzymes" which change starch into sugar.

The technicians say the process enables producers and handlers of fruit to watch the market and put the product out in its ripened state at the most opportune time. Some agencies in Chicago and other central markets for several years have been using the process in the ripening of bananas and tomatoes. During the depression a marked increase in its use has been noted.

Speed Vegetable Ripening.

Fruits or vegetables are treated in closed chambers or in refrigerator cars while in transit, or even in tents in the orchards by small operators. In Florida, Texas, California, and Arizona for several years some citrus growers have been able to color their fruit in four to five days, although some samples may take two weeks. It is not always necessary to carry the ripening all the way through. Citrus fruit can be given a start and the full coloring left until the fruit is in transit or in storage.

A carload of bananas, it is said, can be ripened for less than a dollar. Celery is being blanched by the gas process. Pineapple canners have been using the process to get uniform raw material.

DANISH PRINCE AND INGRID OF SWEDEN TO WED

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 15 [Friday].—(AP)—The "love match" engagement of Princess Ingrid, second daughter of Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, and Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark and Iceland was officially announced today.

The date for the wedding was not immediately announced.

Prince Frederik arrived from Copenhagen yesterday. Although rumors were widespread that his engagement was imminent, court circles refused to confirm the reports "until the proper moment," even requesting Swedish newspapers not to drop any hint of the romantic tidings.

Outstanding in her charm and beauty in a family noted for many beautiful princesses, the golden haired Ingrid is 24 years old.

She inherits from her grandfather, King Gustav, a keen love of sports. Brought up with four brothers, she always has been fond of tennis, motoring, dancing, and riding.

Frederik, at 36, is tall and handsome. He is a great-nephew of the late Queen Alexandra and a second cousin of the Prince of Wales.

The crown prince had been engaged in 1922 to Princess Olga of Greece, a sister of the Duchess of Kent, but the match was broken off after six months.

Rintelen Gets Life for Nazi Plot in Austria

VIENNA, March 14.—(AP)—Anton Rintelen, once powerful in Austria's affairs of state, was convicted of high treason by court martial today and was sentenced to life imprisonment for the part he played in the Nazi putsch of last July 25, during which Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was assassinated.

Announcement of the sentence was followed by reports that troops had been rushed to Styria in anticipation of a Nazi revolt in reprisal. The reports were promptly ridiculed in official circles as "pure inventions."

Although physically frail and worn, the former minister to Rome chatted cheerfully with his counsel as a crowded courtroom awaited the verdict. He had denied the charges against him, but emphasized that his policy had been one of reconciliation with Germany.

Admits Case Imperfect.

A wan smile came over his face when the black robed justice, flanked by high army officers, pronounced the sentence. Then he looked lonely and distressed.

Although the prosecutor frankly admitted there was no documentary evidence to show Rintelen's connection with the revolt against the government, the military court found no difficulty in arriving at the conclusion that he had plotted.

Many Nazis are convinced it was Rintelen who let them down. He did not appear at the chancellery when Nazis announced over a seized government radio station that he had succeeded Dollfuss as chancellor.

"Played Ends Against Middle."

One prominent Nazi observed: "He played both ends against the middle. He will have to take what he gets."

The Nazi putschists were left at the chancellery they had seized without a leader as a result of Rintelen's failure to appear as allegedly arranged.

The court's verdict said Rintelen clearly approved the putsch plot, "which became known to him," and of "placing himself at the disposal of the ringleaders" as a prospective new chancellor. He thus "conspired with others in what proved to be a serious internal and foreign peril to the state and tended to provoke uprising and civil war."

James (High Heels) Kirby Marries for Third Time

Springfield, Ill., March 14.—(AP)—James R. [High Heels] Kirby of Petersburg was married tonight to Miss Alice Copelin of Rochester. Kirby, a former state legislator, won his nickname some years ago when he introduced a bill that would prohibit the wearing of high heels by women. It was Kirby's third wedding, his previous wives having died.

POSTPONE ROBOT HOP TO HAWAII; WEATHER IS BAD

Oakland, Cal., March 15 [Friday].—(AP)—Adverse weather conditions early today caused postponement of an ocean test flight by the government's robot-controled radio compass plane after the ship had been loaded with sufficient gasoline to carry it the 2,400 miles to Honolulu.

The postponement was announced by Capt. Clayton Bissell after other official sources had stated the plane would probably hop about 4 a. m., Chicago time, for Honolulu in a test of equipment designed to make ocean flying as foolproof as possible.

Meantime the United States weather bureau had determined weather conditions at sea were not so favorable for radio compass flying as was desirable, and the flight was then postponed for this morning at least.

Post Poises for Flight.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—(AP)—Wiley Post arrived at the Union air terminal tonight, scanned weather reports, and said there was a possibility he might hop off on his transcontinental nonstop stratosphere flight to New York tomorrow morning.

U. S. TO REMAIN ALOOF FROM ALL CUBAN TROUBLE

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state, tonight reiterated to troubled Cuba and the world that the United States would not intervene "directly or indirectly" in island affairs.

Restating this administration's Latin-American policy before the intercollegiate council, Welles, former ambassador to Cuba, apparently took the opportunity to put at rest rumors that this government might step in to bring order on the island.

"The solution of their difficulties lies now in Cuban hands," Welles said.

"When any people has suffered economic prostration coincident with a political dictatorship, and the dictatorship is overthrown by popular uprising, it is almost inevitable that for a period of time that country will pass through varying stages of political unrest. That is what occurred in Cuba."

U. S. COURTHOUSE CROWDED AS TAX DEADLINE NEARS

With the deadline for filing income tax returns fixed at midnight tonight, clerks in the office of Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, had their busiest day of the year yesterday handling huge crowds before special desks in the rotunda and on the second and fifth floors of the federal courthouse.

Total collections from Jan. 1 to the close of business yesterday were $12,034,000, as against $9,963,260 for the corresponding period last year. There have been 54,600 taxable returns filed to date, as compared with 57,000 filed during the same period in 1934.

WILLIAMS URGES CURB ON NRA AT SENATE HEARING

Says Greater Power Perils Business.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—NRA will destroy private business in America if its powers are extended beyond mere control of minimum wages, maximum hours, and obvious fair trade practices, S. Clay Williams, retiring head of the National Industrial Recovery board, warned the senate finance committee today.

S. CLAY WILLIAMS.

Williams asked that congress continue the NRA so that it can go on regulating child labor, minimum wages, collective bargaining, and maximum hours, which, he claimed, are "branded as a group of things that have the general support of public opinion in this country."

NRA should not, however, be allowed to go too far in the regulation of prices and unfair trade practices, which are in a twilight zone, Williams warned, lest the entire business structure pass under government control.

Sees No Stopping Place.

"If the government goes further than to eliminate certain abuses conceded by all, then I don't think there is any stopping place this side of turning the whole thing over to government regulation, in which I have no faith," Williams declared.

"If you go farther than that you are getting close to abandoning the business system which, regardless of how bilious it may have been in 1929, gave this country the highest standard of living in the world," he cautioned the committee.

Business could never afford to pay for the "mistakes of persons in government bureaus" under any system of government regulations, Williams declared. His warnings came after several senators on the committee had inquired about NRA price and profit policies.

Speaks Also as Industrialist.

Williams, large, dark complexioned, and unruffled, answered a rain of questions from the senators in a soft southern drawl. The millionaire NIRB chairman, who is resigning to return to his presidency of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company, spoke frequently as an industrialist rather than as an NRA official.

"The public will fare better in the long run to leave as much as possible to business, the government going in to prescribe rules only for objectives or practices to be eliminated," he advised the committee. "The government should go in only so far as to serve its own aims, to protect labor and conserve the purchasing power."

"Do you believe we should have a system of limiting profits?" one of the senators asked Williams.

Leave It to Competition.

"Leave all of that subject to competition except as there may be withdrawn from that competition certain things such as wages and hours," was Williams' reply.

On this score Williams stressed particularly that NRA must retreat from attempts to regulate prices. Such attempts have plunged the administration into great difficulties and raised serious questions, he admitted.

"The drift in the NRA is away from maintaining any price but toward open prices, making them public within the industry and among those dealing with the industry," Williams told the committee.

DIET THREATENS POLICE SQUAD TO EASE TOILING CAR

It looks as if some Chicago detectives may have to go on a diet unless the price of gasoline is lowered.

This developed last night when Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan called in members of six squads and demanded to know why they weren't getting more miles per gallon out of their squad cars.

"You, for instance," he said to Squad 46, "you're only getting 7 miles a gallon instead of the normal 12 or 13 miles."

"It's that half a ton load, chief," explained Ed Tussey, the chauffeur, "I weigh 210 pounds myself, and then there's Fred Knott at 275, John Hanrahan at 260, and James Fitzgerald, grossing 250 pounds. What do you expect a car to do?"

The chief made no specific demand for a diet, but intimated that "something" would have to be done.

Mrs. Daiches Drops 3 Suits; Gets $67,500

Mrs. Belle T. Daiches, widow of Eli Daiches, slain advertising executive, has agreed to settle for $67,500 her three suits against several individuals and the advertising agency of which her husband was the head, it was revealed yesterday. Her suits now pending involve a total of about $342,000.

Daiches was shot to death a year ago March 3 as he rode in his auto at 55th street and the outer drive.

Judge John F. O'Connell in the Probate court, where disposition of Daiches' estate is pending, gave his consent to the settlement yesterday. The agreement was outlined to the court by Attorney Isaac B. Lipson for Mrs. Daiches and Charles Aaron for the defendants in the civil actions.

Shares to Be Resold to Firm.

In consideration for signing a contract to drop the suits, it was revealed, Mrs. Daiches will receive 210 shares of the capital stock of the Thomas M. Bowers Advertising agency, 304 South Wabash avenue, of which Daiches was president. Mrs. Daiches in turn will sell to the company for $67,500 these 210 shares and two shares which she owned previously.

One of the suits to be dropped by agreement seeks half the assets of the advertising agency, involving an estimated valuation of about $162,500. This includes half of the $300,000 insurance on Daiches' life, paid to the Bowers agency as beneficiary. Dropping of the suit also will lift an injunction issued by Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein, tying up the assets of the agency.

File Dismissal Plea Today.

The attorneys announced that they will appear before Judge Epstein today to ask dismissal of the action.

Named in the suit were Louis J. Weitzman of New York, chairman of the board of the advertising agency and principal owner, and Irving and Leon Weitzman, partners in a south side bakery chain and brothers of Louis.

Other Suits Seek $180,000.

The other suits to be dropped by terms of the agreement are damage actions in the Circuit court seeking $180,000. One of these asks $50,000 each from Louis and Irving Weitzman and Arthur Emblen as damages for a beating administered to Daiches in his office Jan. 24, 1933. The other asks $10,000 each from Louis and Irving Weitzman and Walter J. Murphy for the death of Daiches, under the law which limits damages for death to $10,000 from each defendant.

CAPONE 4 DAYS IN SOLITARY FOR FIGHT AT PRISON

San Francisco, Cal., March 14.—(AP)—A prison official at Alcatraz Island disclosed today that Al Capone recently was sent to solitary confinement for four days because of a fistic encounter with another convict.

The official said Capone struck at a fellow prisoner after a quarrel. The other convict struck back, but the blow fell short. Guards separated the prisoners and consigned them both to dungeons.

The story of the clash and its consequences was the first to come out of Alcatraz regarding discipline since its establishment last fall as a theoretically escape-proof prison for the more dangerous federal convicts.

Capone, serving an 11 year sentence for income tax evasion, is one of more than 200 prisoners confined on the rocky island in San Francisco bay.

Hollywood, March 14.—(AP)—Movieland's favorite cat claimed the honor today of being the world's highest salaried feline. Whitey is the name. With the aid of her owner, Henry East, she signed a long term film contract at R. K. O.-Radio studios with a starting salary of $50 a week.

PREDICT DEFEAT FOR PREVAILING WAGE ON WORKS

Trickery Charged in Senate Debate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—The senate will vote tomorrow on the violently controverted prevailing wage amendment to President Roosevelt's five billion dollar work relief bill, with the probability of its defeat by five or six votes.

An agreement on limitation of debate, whereby a vote could be reached tomorrow, was accepted unanimously this evening after a tumultuous session in which the administration forces were accused of unprecedented trickery and the application of the "third degree."

The controversy over pairs for two absent senators whose votes are controled by Huey Long of Louisiana was renewed with increased fury, but the major steam roller development was the ruling of Senator Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.] off the floor when he sought to introduce his wage amendment.

Called "Third Degree."

This ruling, made by Senator Bennett Clark [Dem., Mo.], who was temporarily in the chair, brought protests from both Democrats and Republicans, and McCarran called it "the third degree."

"If you want to put such an unheard of ruling to a vote in this senate, just try it," McCarran shouted.

Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas turned red with embarrassment under the barrage of protests, with more than a dozen senators trying to get recognized at once. Finally realizing the invidious position in which Mr. Clark had placed the administration forces, Robinson asked and received unanimous consent for McCarran to introduce his amendment.

Defeat Appears Certain.

Defeat of the prevailing wage amendment appeared certain when Senator Richard B. Russell [Dem., Ga.] introduced the administration's so-called compromise and announced on the senate floor that it had the support of Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], labor champion who played an outstanding part in the original victory of the McCarran forces. This amendment was the subject of daily conferences, while the works bill, hopelessly deadlocked on the wage issue, was lying in the appropriations committee, to which the senate had returned it.

The substitute provides for the payment of prevailing wages on all federal public buildings, in accordance with the Davis-Bacon act. Since the President presumably would be required by the controler general to pay the prevailing rate on such building, under the law, the McCarran forces and the American Federation of Labor insisted the administration was making no concession.

Wagner Accepts Proposition.

Nevertheless Senator Wagner accepted the proposition, saying he did not want to wreck the works appropriation, and Senators La Follette [Rad., Wis.], Costigan [Dem., Colo.], and O'Mahoney [Dem., Wyo.] were reported ready to accept it in lieu of the McCarran amendment. Senators McGill [Dem., Kas.] and Schwellenbach [Dem., Wash] also participated in the conferences on the Russell substitute and there is a possibility that they, too, will switch. Moreover, the administration has succeeded in inducing Senators Gibson and Austin, both Republicans of Vermont, to switch their votes on the promise of liberal flood control allowances for their home state.

This would give the administration at least six more votes, and the McCarran amendment originally carried by only one, the vote being 44 to 43.

McCarran tonight conferred with officials of the A. F. of L. and announced afterward that they still stood "100 per cent" behind his amendment. The labor leaders reiterated their objections to the Russell substitute.

Battle Over Pairs.

Although the administration leaders professed utmost confidence of victory after the senate recessed, both Senators McCarran and Huey Long had offered to permit the issue to come to a vote at 5 o'clock this afternoon on condition that a pair be arranged for Senator Hattie Caraway [Dem., Ark.]. Senator McCarran even offered at one time to permit a vote on no condition, but failed to obtain unanimous consent on objection of Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], who acted as Long's floor leader after the latter departed for Philadelphia.

Yesterday Long complained that a conspiracy had prevented him from getting pairs for either Senator Caraway or Senator John H. Overton [Dem., La.], but today he said Overton had secured a pair. He then delivered a scathing tirade directed at Majority Leader Robinson, who comes from Mrs. Caraway's own state, and there was a disorderly hour and a half over what constitutes senatorial courtesy.

"Little Lady from Arkansas."

"The vote that will decide this question is in bed in a hospital," Long shouted. "I ask you if you want to win that kind of a victory over the laboring men of this country. I say there is some extraordinary strategy being used against us when the little lady from Arkansas wants to get a pair and can't get one."

Long repeated this "little lady from Arkansas" many times, always looking directly at Robinson, who flushed and clenched the arms of his chair but said not a word. If ever a man was "put on the spot" it was Senator Robinson, for his loyalty to the administration forced him to sit there and stand accused of discourtesy to a lady senator from his own state.

"Surely the members of this senate would not have any less courtesy shown to the little lady from Arkansas than has been accorded to every other member since time immemorial," was Long's manner of adding insult to injury.

Ashurst Defends Robinson.

Finally Senator Henry Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] came to Robinson's rescue with a vigorous defense of his gentlemanly character and "charming courtesy." He insisted that the inability of a senator to obtain a pair implied no discourtesy, since pairs anyway were looked upon with suspicion by constituents and were, in reality, "contra bonos parliamenti." Incidentally the authorities at Georgetown university later disagreed with Senator Ashurst over the spelling of this Latin phrase, which he explained to Huey Long as "against good parliamentary law."

Long stumbled over the Latin form when he sought to reply, saying he assumed it meant "something good and therefore bad," whereupon Senator Robinson suggested that he speak English, with which he "might be more familiar."

"I am trying to put it in English so the senator will understand it," Long shot back.

McCarran Asks for "Break."

Senator McCarran also appealed to the fairness of the senate, saying he had never taken an advantage and never wanted one, but thought a member who was ill should have a pair.

"All I ask is a break," he said.

He then proposed that by unanimous consent three senators be permitted to visit "the lady senator" in the hospital, ascertain her wishes and record her vote accordingly.

Senator Robinson objected, saying such procedure would be "most extraordinary," but predicted, at the same time, that Mrs. Caraway would have no trouble getting a pair before the issue came to a vote.

When the clerk announced the question, the wage section in the bill, McCarran jumped up and offered his substitute. Senator Clark ruled him out of order. Russell arose and Clark recognized him, whereupon the Russell substitute was offered.

The chamber was thrown into the wildest confusion as the members arose to protest.

McNary Backs McCarran.

Senator McNary, the Republican leader, whose parliamentary ability is always recognized by Senator Robinson, insisted that McCarran retain the floor when he indicated his intention of offering his amendment, but Senator Clark insisted upon standing by his ruling.

Then Senator Robinson asked unanimous consent and Senator McCarran's amendment was submitted as a substitute for the Russell substitute and will be voted on tomorrow. Under unanimous agreement debate will be limited to twenty minutes.

The McCarran amendment, it is estimated, would increase the cost of putting 3,500,000 men to work by more than 2 billion dollars. President Roosevent has told senators such a provision would cause him to veto the bill, which is why most Republican senators hope it is adopted.

CRAWFORD BIGGS FIRST CUMMINGS AID TO GET OUT

Solicitor General's Legal Talent Assailed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—J. Crawford Biggs, solicitor general of the United States, resigned today to initiate the long anticipated shakeup in the department of justice as the result of friction among New Dealers over the conduct of the gold clause cases.

Stanley Reed, general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and one of the highest paid lawyers in the New Deal, probably will succeed Biggs. The RFC, incidentally, has "found a spot" for Biggs, forcing his appointment as voting trustee for certain stock in the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad, which is in debt to the RFC.

The reason advanced by Biggs for his retirement in his letter of resignation to President Roosevelt was "the time has come when I must devote my whole time to my personal and professional affairs." The real reason, administration leaders privately confessed, was the strained relations between the legal stafs of the treasury and justice departments during the trial of the gold clause cases.

Cummings' Staf Assailed.

Treasury lawyers, who carried the responsibility for the gold legislation, were displeased with the way Attorney General Cummings and his staf handled the defense. Treasury officials were outspoken in their disdain for the remedial legislation program, developed by Cummings and his aids, against a possible adverse decision.

Even when the government won a victory the agitation for a house cleaning on the part of treasury officials did not diminish. More outspoken treasury lawyers demanded Cummings' scalp. All agreed that Biggs must, and a number of his aids should, go.

The lack of respect for Biggs and his legal talent among justices of the Supreme court was advanced as a reason for his removal by resignation or by request. The high court indicated several times that it did not esteem Biggs or his methods.

Leans Toward Oratory.

Biggs, a North Carolinian, leaned toward oratory rather than learning in his arguments before the high court. Early in the year he was reproved sharply by Chief Justice Hughes when he delivered a patriotic address by way of an argument after he had announced he wished to argue on three legal points in the case involved.

As a result of this censure Biggs was not called upon to argue in the gold clause cases, though his position entitled him to do so. At the time it was reported the treasury department had barred him from the case.

Finds Job for Biggs.

The unofficial reason ascribed to the Biggs resignation was strengthened an hour after his letter was presented to the White House when RFC Chairman Jesse Jones grudgingly announced he had found a post for Biggs.

"Yes, Biggs gets a salary," Jones said in answer to a question. "We don't pay it and we don't know how much it is."

S. Dakota Becomes Wet State After 18 Years

Pierre, S. D., March 14.—(AP)—Gov. Tom Berry today signed the legislative act repealing South Dakota's 18 year old dry laws and setting up a liquor control system. Although the liquor law becomes effective immediately as an emergency act, legal sale awaits issuance of licenses and printing of tax stamps.

Shamrocks Arrive from Ireland

I. C. C. ORDERS AIR MAIL RATE BASED ON 300 LB. LOAD

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today decided that rates for carrying air mail should be fixed on the basis of mail loads of 300 pounds or less, but at the same time held that its rates need not be substituted by the postmaster general for the present contract prices.

Legislation to make the commission's rates effective is pending in congress and would result in increased compensation on most of the routes on the basis of service now being rendered.

The commission upheld the preliminary report of its air mail division in every respect.

The decision applies to all routes except number 31 between St. Petersburg and Jacksonville, Fla., operations on which commenced only a few days before the investigation started, and route number 33 between points in the Hawaiian islands.

A scale of rates which the commission considers fair was prescribed for the various routes. These were based on mail loads of 300 pounds or less per airplane mile actually flown, and were made flexible to meet changes occurring in mileages from time to time.

The commission said consideration was given to the necessity for adequate modern equipment and for full compliance with the national labor relations board standards of wages.

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—A total of $128,500,000 was spent for emergency work relief in New York last year, acc rding to a report submitted today to William Hodson, commissioner of public welfare and chairman of the emergency work relief bureau. Of the total $109,000,000 was spent in wages and $19,500,000 for materials, tools and supplies, and rental of equipment on emergency work projects.

THE SHAMROCKS ARE HERE, FRESH FROM IRELAND

A bright springlike day it was yesterday to greet 100,000 shamrocks which arrived fresh from old Ireland to make St. Patrick's day on Sunday a little more inspiring for Chicago's Irish population.

The shamrocks were taken straight to the office of City Clerk Peter J. Brady, who placed one in his coat lapel. Others will be distributed among 15,000 who are expected to attend the annual ball of the United Celtic-American societies in the Merry Garden ballroom on St. Patrick's night.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians has planned a dance in the Cameo room of the Morrison hotel for tomorrow evening under the direction of Capt. Michael W. Delaney. On the same night the University of Wisconsin club will hold a dancing party in the Allerton hotel.

Homeless men who live in the relief shelter at 54 West Austin avenue will have a special St. Patrick's entertainment Sunday night with vaudeville and a men's glee club singing Irish ballads.

BIG STAMP DAY AT WASHINGTON FOR THE DEALERS

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—To stamp dealers and collectors tomorrow will be one of the big days in the nation's history—and certainly one which will lift stamp collecting from the ranks of a mild hobby to big business.

At 8 a. m., twenty issues of imperforate stamps—duplicates of those distributed to friends by Postmaster General James A. Farley—will go on sale at the postoffice department's philatelic agency.

Advance orders continued to pour in today as clerks worked frantically to prepare for tomorrow, philatelic officials estimated advance orders of more than $250,000.

Postal officials at the city postoffice said approximately 50,000 envelopes had been prepared there to be mailed to collectors tomorrow.

Slightly amazed at the record demand for the stamps, officials said they expect to sell all of the more than 1,700,000 printed, and tomorrow's business may reach $500,000, including advance orders. Last year's total business was only $800,000.

'GREEN PASTURES' LAWD IS DEAD; WON WIDE FAME

R. B. Harrison Was Son of Runaway Slaves.

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Richard B. Harrison, De Lawd of "The Green Pastures," died today in the Fifth Avenue hospital. The doctors said he died of coronary thrombosis, which is mighty hifalutin language for De Lawd, who talked like a common man. De Lawd already had diagnosed his ailment in another way. He was, he told friends several days ago, "plumb tuckered out."

Mr. Harrison, a white haired colored actor, 70, collapsed in his dressing room at the Forty-fourth Street theater on Saturday afternoon, March 2, just a few minutes before time for the matinée curtain. He was removed immediately to the hospital.

In One Play Five Years.

That was the first performance De Lawd had missed in the five year history of "The Green Pastures"—the first time he had failed to step out on the stage in response to the electrifying cue of "Gangway! Gangway for De Lawd God Jehovah!"

They found Mr. Harrison in his dressing room that day. He was all tired out. Out front in the theater, a large audience was awaiting the rise of the curtain on "The Green Pastures," now playing a return engagement in New York after a triumphant tour that covered 40,000 miles, 203 towns, 40 states and part of Canada.

At 2:30 p. m., curtain time, Marc Connelly, author of the play, stepped on the stage and made a brief announcement. He regretted to announce that Richard B. Harrison, De Lawd, would be unable to appear for that performance, being indisposed. But the understudy, Charles Winter Wood, was prepared to give an excellent performance. However, if any of the patrons wanted their money back, in the absence of Mr. Harrison from his rôle, it would be refunded at the box office. About 200 did that.

"World Needs This Play."

There was a brief moment of backstage drama before the curtain went up, before the understudy stepped on the stage to speak the lines of De Lawd.

The scene was in the dressing room of "De Lawd God Jehovah" himself.

"Charlie," said De Lawd, "hold me up. I'll be back in a few days. The world needs this play."

That was Richard B. Harrison's curtain line—"the world needs this play."

That was the way Mr. Harrison felt about it. He had more than respect for the play, and he had reverence for his rôle. It was his tender, reverent portrayal of De Lawd that, as much anything else, gave the play such a long life and warmed the hearts of thousands of theatergoers.

"The Green Pastures," this deeply moving fable from the pen of Marc Connelly, based on Roark Bradford's sketches memorializing the simple faith of the colored people of the deep south, opened in New York five years ago.

Harrison's portrayal of De Lawd brought him fame overnight, fame after many dreary years of struggle.

Son of Fugitive Slaves.

Harrison was born in London, Ont., the son of fugitive slave parents. For thirty-five years he toured this country as a drama reader, mostly Shakespeare, reciting in chilly, dusty halls throughout the country to audiences composed for the most part of members of his own race.

Before that he had sold newspapers on the streets of Detroit, worked as a bellhop, and as a Pullman porter. After his long years of traveling about, giving recitations, Harrison in 1928 became head of the drama department of the Agricultural and Technical college of Greensboro, N. C. There he remained until 1930, until claimed by "The Green Pastures"—and fame.

It was just a chance, at that. Harrison, in his middle sixties, happened to wander into a Harlem casting agency a little more than five years ago. Marc Connelly was there and so was the producer of the then impending production of "The Green Pastures."

Seems Like Miracle.

The playwright and the producer immediately pounced upon Mr. Harrison. He looked the type for the rôle, for which they were in desperate need of an actor—if, indeed, it can be said that De Lawd is a type. At any rate, Mr. Harrison appealed to producer and playwright.

In that manner Richard B. Harrison entered the theater.

It was while on tour last September that Mr. Harrison's name was first projected in lights, symbolizing his rise to stardom. The theater was the Norva, in Granby street in Norfolk. It was the night of the actor's 70th birthday. He stood across the street from the theater that night and looked at his name in lights.

De Lawd Enjoys Name in Lights.

"That's mighty fine," De Lawd murmured, and hurried on to his dressing room in the theater. It was a great day for him, a mighty fine day, but that's all De Lawd had to say.

During the tour De Lawd gathered many honors. There were a dozen or so honorary degrees, receptions from mayors and other dignitaries; there was a visit to his home town of London, Ont., his first in fifty years, and there was that scene down in St. Louis when he met a descendant of the family which had owned his mother as a slave.

"It was a great day in my life when I stepped off the train in London," Harrison remarked on his return to Broadway.

"There were the mayor and the city fathers to escort me to my hotel. After the performance there was a reception in the little church where my father and mother were married."

PLAN CHICAGO RITES.

Funeral services for Richard Berry Harrison, "De Lawd" of "Green Pastures," who died yesterday in New York, will probably be held here tomorrow, either from the family home at 5942 Indiana avenue or in St. Edmund's Episcopal church, 5831 Indiana avenue.

Although plans for the funeral will not be completed until the actor's son, Laurence Dunbar Harrison, reaches New York, the widow, Mrs. Janet W shington Harrison, indicated that the body will be brought here for burial. Services will be read by the Rev. Samuel J. Martin, pastor of St. Edmund's. The actor joined the church two years ago at special confirmation services conducted by Bishop George Craig Stewart.

News of her husband's death reached Mrs. Harrison as she was leaving a sanitarium at Hinsdale where she and her daughter, Marion Ysobel, have been undergoing treatment. The son, an orchestra leader, visited his father after his collapse in New York two weeks ago. Only a few hours before his death Mr. Harrison had wired his wife that he was recovering.

Spanish Princess Reported Engaged

The Infanta Maria Christina, only unmarried daughter of former King Alfonso of Spain. She was reported in Paris yesterday to be engaged to Prince Carl Emmanuel von Liechtenstein of the royal house of that name.

[Associated Press Photo.]

Two Engagements

ROME, March 14.—(AP)—Two more children of former King Alfonso of Spain are about to be married, it was reported today.

Circles close to the royal family said Prince Juan, heir claimant to the vacant Spanish throne, is engaged to marry Princess Maria Mercedes of the house of Bourbon-Sicilie.

The newspaper Il Messagero said the Infanta Maria Christina, Alfonso's only remaining unmarried daughter, soon would become engaged to an unnamed prince of the old royal house of Liechtenstein.

A Paris dispatch quoted royalists as saying that the infanta was engaged to Prince Carl Emmanuel von Liechtenstein, son of Prince Johannes von Liechtenstein.

There was no official confirmation for the reports.

JUDGE'S ORDER RELEASES SEARS FROM ASYLUM

County Judge Perry L. Persons of Lake county yesterday issued an order releasing Richard W. Sears II., son of one of the founders of Sears, Roebuck & Co., from the Wilgus sanatorium at Rockford. Sears, at the request of relatives, was sent to the sanatorium, a private institution, on Jan. 22 as an insane person. Representations were made yesterday that his condition has improved and that he now is sane and Judge Persons acceded to the request that he be freed. The Sears home is at Gages lake.

Grant Withers Arraigned for Driving While Drunk

Beverly Hills, Cal., March 14.—[Special.]—Grant Withers, movie actor, was arraigned before a justice of the peace here today on a charge of driving while intoxicated. His preliminary hearing was set for March 21. The actor is scheduled to appear at Chula Vista, Cal., tomorrow to answer a charge of speeding.

RELEASED AGAIN, STRACHEY FLIES TO NEW LECTURE

Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, British radical writer and lecturer who was ordered back to Chicago from Cleveland by the federal government yesterday to show cause why he should not be deported as an undesirable alien, was released again without a hearing and went happily on his way to fill more lecture engagements. His hearing was set for March 21 before Fred J. Schlotfeldt, district immigration inspector here.

Strachey had made plans to sail for England on March 29. The sudden decision of the government to prosecute him under the immigration act of 1918, because he has expounded the philosophy of communism in his lectures, may serve to delay his departure. The American Civil Liberties union has decided to make a special cause of this case and to fight the deportation order that is expected to follow the hearing. Such a proceeding may mean a delay of several months.

Leaves for Ann Arbor.

"I may have to come back from England for my own deportation," said Strachey yesterday as at 5:30 p. m. He departed in a plane bound for Ann Arbor, Mich., where he lectured last night before a group of University of Michigan students.

There an audience composed of some 1,300 students and faculty members waited almost an hour to listen to a comparatively elementary lesson in economics, according to dispatches. The lecture, it was learned afterward, was modified in deference to the attitude of university authorities who earlier had refused the use of Hill auditorium in the belief that the lecture might develop in a "Red harangue." Strachey commented humorously on his difficulties with immigration authorities here.

It Helps the Book Business.

He has other lectures booked for Williamtown, Mass.; Detroit, and Byrn Mawr college. The sale of his books is expected to be helped greatly by the publicity and propaganda resulting from his arrest, and he has announced that he has written an article for a national magazine on the attempt to deport him.

Acting on the latest orders from the government, which had him in hand last Wednesday morning after his arrest in Glencoe and then set him free on $500 bond, Strachey appeared in the office of Inspector Schlotfeldt in the postoffice building at 11 a. m. yesterday. He was accompanied by Allen Taub, New York radical lawyer and writer; Carl Hessler of the international labor defense; Hugh Miller, executive secretary of the Chicago committee of the Civil Liberties union, and two attorneys, Edgar Bernhard and Alfred Kamen, representing the Civil Liberties union.

Draws Crowd of Sympathizers.

He attracted a crowd of sympathizers wherever he appeared, and a special squad of treasury guards was assigned to clear the corridors and lobbies of the postoffice building.

The proceedings there did not touch the issues of the case, but were merely the plea for delay by the attorneys. This was finally granted for the second time by Schlotfeldt, who made his order subject to approval by Washington. The immigration bureau chiefs in Washington had overruled Schlotfeldt on Wednesday, but yesterday the order was approved.

"The hearing has been continued until 10 a. m. March 21, in accordance with the usual procedure of the service," said Schlotfeldt.

The Strachey camp following were buzzing with plans for making the most of this situation. It was announced that a massmeeting was being planned in Chicago which would be addressed by Strachey and by Roger N. Baldwin, national director of the Civil Liberties union.

ATTACK BILL TO MAKE QUINTUPLETS SPECIAL WARDS OF KING GEORGE

TORONTO, Can., March 14.—(AP)—The opposition sharply attacked in the Ontario legislature today a bill creating new guardians for the Dionne quintuplets and making them "special wards of his majesty the king."

In response to questions, David A. Croll, minister of welfare, said he would appoint Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, the babies' physician, and their father, Oliva Dionne, as guardians and more might be named later. They will replace W. H. Alderson, G. K. Morrison and Oliver Dionne, grandfather of the quintuplets, who were the original guardians with Dr. Dafoe.

"I never saw such drastic legislation," said Col. W. H. Price, Toronto conservative, in an attack on sections of the measure. "Why, after a while you won't be able to do anything in this country the way the government is taking power."

GREEN DEMANDS LABOR DISPUTES BILL BE PASSED

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—Strike threats in three major industries—coal, textiles, and automobiles—today gave emphasis to a blunt assertion by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that the American Federation of Labor would quit counseling "patience" if the Wagner labor disputes bill failed to pass.

"We cannot and will not urge workers to have patience unless the Wagner bill is made law," Green told the senate labor committee.

The measure would outlaw company dominated unions; create a permanent, independent labor relations board with power to carry its decisions to court for enforcement, and permit the majority of employés in a plant to select the labor organization to represent all the employés in that plant.

Green made no reference to the industrial unrest in the three industries which threatens to express itself in walkouts but the situation is causing the administration concern.

GYPSY TELLS HER FUTURE; POLICE REVEAL THE PAST

The troubles which beset Mrs. Florence Smith were all very new and very irritating to her, but it was an old, old story to Lieut. John Buckley of the Sheffield avenue police.

Mrs. Smith, who lives at 2601 West 113th stret, called on the lieutenant yesterday with this complaint:

"I found a card reading 'Madame Neenah—Fortune Teller,' so I went to see her up at 2730 North Clark street. She asked me . . ."

". . . if you had any money in the bank," supplied Lieut. Buckley, who knew what was coming.

"Why, how did you know?" Mrs. Smith was astounded.

"Fortune teller myself, you know. Go on."

"I said yes, I had $800, and I brought it with me when I went to see her again. That was last Monday. Well, she performed some magic incantations, and got out a silk stocking. She then . . ."

". . . put the money in the sock, told you to go home and not open it until today," supplemented the lieutenant again.

"That's right! And do you know what?"

"When you opened it," said the lieutenant, "there wasn't any money, only some old pieces of newspaper."

Mrs. Smith looked at Lieut. Buckley with eyes full of awe, and managed to admit that he was right again.

"I'll tell you one more thing," went on Lieut. Buckley, "I'll go over to that address, and we'll find that Mme. Neenah is gone."

He was right. In a car with Ohio license plates, and accompanied by several other gypsies, the madam had left the preceding night.

CARBON CRYSTAL VIES FOR PLACE HELD BY DIAMOND

Industry Already Using It, Says Expert.

In the fierce heat of the electric furnace man has made a crystal which equals the diamond in hardness. The material, carbon boride, was one of the substances described last evening by H. W. Dunbar, head of the grinding machine division of the Norton company, before the Chicago chapter of the American Society for Metals at the Medinah club.

Like most artificial abrasive or grinding materials, its components are simple. It is made of boric acid and coke. A product of industrial research during the depression, its full usefulness is still the subject of laboratory experiments. Already it has been used in place of diamonds, which are perhaps more important to the industry than they are to the jeweler, in dies for drawing fine wire. It is hoped that it will provide a substitute for the diamond, which even in the flawed forms used by industry is very expensive, in many other uses.

Vital to High Speed Age.

Not only are abrasives essential to the automobile and all of the other finely accurate machinery of the high speed age but their use is so important in industry that scarcely a product can be named which would be possible without accurate grinding methods, Mr. Dunbar said.

Accurate machining of rolls for the new continuous strip mills in which steel manufacturers are investing millions of dollars has presented a new and difficult problem to the abrasive manufacturers, Mr. Dunbar said.

The fine texture of milk chocolate would be impossible without the accurate grinding of the rolls which crush the material. Rayon and other artificial textiles depend for their existence on accurate "lapping," or drilling with the aid of abrasives, of the tiny holes through which is squirted the fluid from which the strands of the material are formed.

Finer Than a Hair Now.

The old standard, "fine as a hair," was long ago outmoded in modern industry, Mr. Dunbar pointed out. A hair has a diameter of three one-thousandths of an inch. Parts of automobiles and many other high speed machines are regularly ground to dimensions thirty times as accurate—one ten-thousandth of an inch.

Today the limitation on accurate grinding is not in the grinding machine itself, Mr. Dunbar said, but in the methods available for measuring its product. Even the finest micrometers fail to detect errors which modern standards of production reject. Scientific laboratories, as a result, have produced measuring machines far more accurate than any method dependent upon the human eye alone. They make use of the invisible infrared ray and other delicate electrical currents.

5 AND 10 PRINCESS ADMITS SHE DOESN'T LIKE HAVING A HOME

LONDON, March 14.—(AP)—Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani today faced a serious problem in the realization that over a period of years she has accumulated a formidable collection of Chinese art and now doesn't know what to do with it. This new worry, which has come into the life of the young heiress to the Woolworth fortune, she discussed at her hotel.

The princess, wearing large diamond incrusted ear clips, a silver bracelet, and three rings, was obviously upset about the Chinese collection and said: "Now I don't know what to do with it all because I don't like having homes. I like to be able to go where I please when I please. I abhor responsibilities of a home."

"Bobby," as her friends call her, left no doubt about her independence. In fact she said that was why she came to London alone "instead of tagging after" her husband, Prince Alexis, to Spain. Speaking of reports that she had quarreled with the prince, the princess said: "Every time we separate for a little while that story has to pop up somewhere. We are perfectly happy and have never quarreled."

LADY ASTOR TOLD TO HOLD TONGUE; 'RUDE!' SHE YELLS

LONDON, March 14.—(AP)—Lady Astor figured in a fiery exchange with John Wilmot, Labor member, during the naval debate in the house of commons today.

When she interrupted him, Wilmot suggested that she "make an exception of this evening and control yourself a little."

"Don't be rude!" Lady Astor yelled back.

FEDERAL TERM FOR FAKE OFFICER.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday sentenced William F. Jones, 36 years old, to twenty-seven months in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth when he pleaded guilty to impersonating government immigration and naturalization officers.

CUSTOMER FINDS AN EASY WAY TO RUN UP CHARGES

Mrs. Dolores Lauterbach, 24 years old, 5032 Quincy street, who left a number of delivery men for retail stores literally holding the "bag" while she fled down rear stairs with dresses, lingerie, and other merchandise, will be arraigned in Felony court today on five charges of operating a confidence game.

The attractive young brunette's method was simple. She would order merchandise to be sent C. O. D. to an address of her selection. When the delivery driver arrived, Mrs. Lauterbach would be entering the building with her shopping bundles. "Wait just a minute until I get some change," she would tell the driver, leaving a peck of potatoes and taking his package of goods.

Yesterday, with a detective disguised as a delivery man, the routine proceeded without a hitch until Mrs. Lauterbach ran into the building at 5042 Quincy street and down a back stairway—into the arms of two policemen. At the Fillmore street station five victims of similar frauds identified Mrs. Lauterbach.

GREEK CABINET SPLIT ON HOW TO PUNISH REBELS

Premier Acts as Mediator in Athens Conflict.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 14.—Greece's civil war was converted today into a silent struggle within the Tsaldaris cabinet between moderates and die-hards—those who want to exercise leniency toward the revolutionists of former Premier Venizelos and those who want to inflict ruthless punishment on the rebels.

Premier Panayoti Tsaldaris canceled his proposed three day vacation and remained in Athens to attempt to compose the differences between Gen. George Kondylis, who put down the rebellion and who represents the moderates, and Gen. John Metaxas, acting minister of war while Kondylis was commander in the field. Metaxas demands that no indulgence be extended to the captured rebels.

The "Three Strong Men."

The conflict devolves around this triangle of the government's three strong men with Tsaldaris as mediator.

The premier had a two hour conference with Metaxas, who again became a minister without portfolio today. Metaxas yesterday wrote Tsaldaris a letter in which he outlined the terms under which he would continue to remain a member of the cabinet. At the conference he demanded a change in the Greek constitution, the discharge of all state employés suspected of Venizelist sentiment, and the reorganization of the government on strictly anti-Venizelist lines.

Premier Tsaldaris is understood to have asked to be given time to consider the general's views.

Seek Nationalist Sentiment.

It was said in Athens that moderates such as Kondylis and Tsaldaris want to prevent the politics of the country from becoming a conflict between those for and against Venizelos and weld political sentiment into less partisan and more nationalist lines. Illustrating the odds existing between Kondylis and Metaxas and the nature of the clash between them over moderation in punishing the rebels, Gen. Kondylis said:

"No culprit will escape, but no innocent person need fear anything. It is preferable that the guilty should escape rather than that we should unjustly punish the innocent. Our object must not be to further divide, but to unite all Greeks in one national group in a common aim to regenerate the country."

This means that Kondylis wants to go easy in the courts martial now under way in Athens, Saloniki, and Larissa, while Metaxxas, who represents the strong right wing, would give all rebels the maximum punishment.

200 Rebels Flee Country.

It is estimated that about 200 rebels and officers escaped from the country. This number includes 50 who are now in the Dodecanese Islands and 20 who accompanied Gen. Demetrius Kamanos, revolt leader in Macedonia, when he escaped to Bulgaria.

That a plebiscite may be held to determine what measures should be taken to restore order was indicated in the government paper Proïa. Proïa said that through this plebiscite the people would be asked to authorize the government to, first, clean out disloyal employés; second, draft a new constitution harmonized with the needs of the nation, and third, call a constitutional assembly.

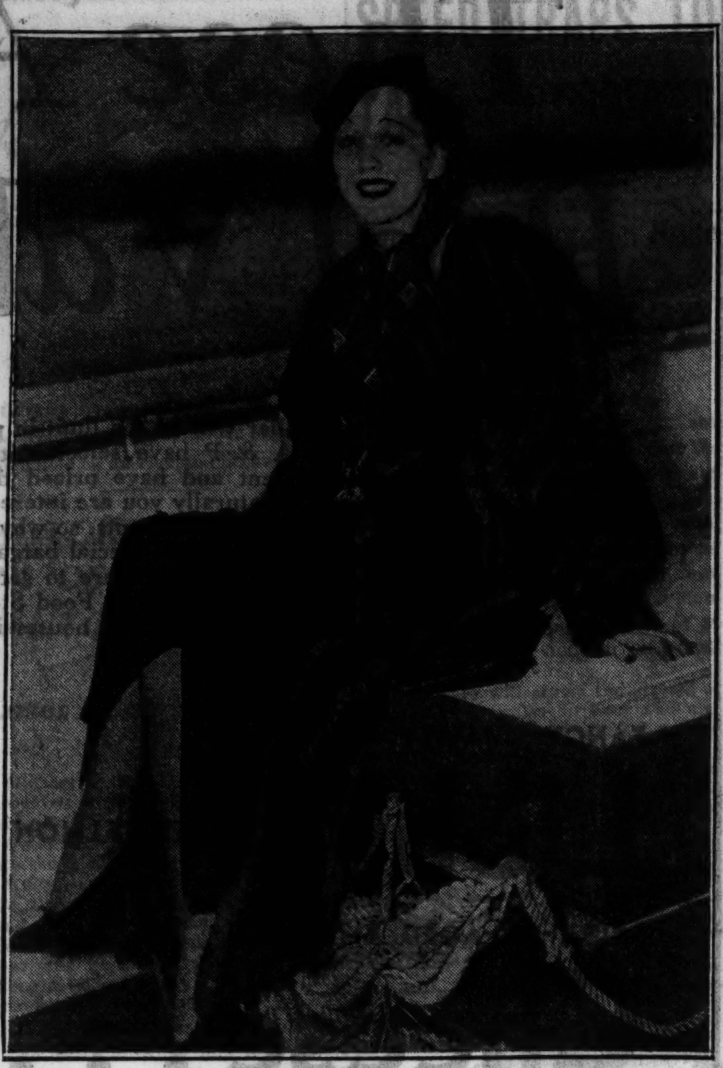
Venizelos Under Close Guard.

Venizelos, it is reported here, is kept under close guard by the Italians on the island of Rhodes, largely for his own protection. It is expected that the 71 year old man may be detained until political passions have died down. A warant for his arrest has been issued by the military governor of Crete. The former premier also has been deprived of his citizenship, making him a man without a country.

Actress to Be Bride of Kentuckian



BETTY HAMILTON.

Played with Fairbanks

New York, March 14.—Betty Hamilton, American actress, who broke into films in Britain when she appeared in "Don Juan" with Doug Fairbanks, revealed today that she has picked her own great lover for private life—Fred Levy, 26, a Kentuckian.

They will be married early next month, Betty said as she packed to accompany her fiancé tomorrow on a notification tour among their families. They will break the news first to Betty's folks in Meadville, Pa., and from there they go to Louisville, Ky., home of the Levys.

Betty was last in the news in November, when through a misunderstanding she failed to declare a mink coat and other foreign wearing apparel. Customs agents seized her wardrobe and slapped on a fine of $5,400, but eventually everything was straightened out and the fine remitted.

HOTEL NIGHT CLERK ROBBED.

George Conrad, night clerk at the Carlos hotel, 3834 Sheffield avenue, was forced to surrender $5 to a robber who entered the lobby early yesterday.

CONVENTION DELEGATE DIES.

Leo L. Gahan, 55 years old, 5218 West Vliet street, Milwaukee, a salesman attending the liquor dealers' convention in the Hotel Stevens, was found dead in his room yesterday, apparently of a heart attack.

CUBA LAUNCHES ARMY TRIALS OF REVOLT LEADERS

Summary Courts Held Throughout Island.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Cuba, March 14.—Trial of civilians by the summary court martial now functioning under the suspension of constitutional law and the state of war now decreed throughout Cuba was underway today. Manuel Porto Pena, a communist leader, went on trial in the Fifth military district of Havana.

Pena was accused of sabotage with the object of interfering with the functioning of the government. Though his trial terminated tonight the decision has not yet been made public, but a strong impression exists that the sentence will be the death penalty provided for this crime.

Other Trials Begin.

Other court martials of civilians involved in the anti-government movement began simultaneously in the provinces, but decisions are not yet available.

The government today continued to round up adherents of the opposing factions and labor leaders as many fled from the island and some sought refuge at foreign legations.

Miguel Angel Quevedo, editor of the weekly Bohemia; Julio Cæsar Gonzalez Bull, editor of the midday newspaper El Grisol, and Fernando Morrel, clerk of the Court of Appeals, took asylum at the Uruguayan legation, under the political asylum pact of which Cuba is a signatory.

Will Flee to U. S.

Morrel, it is understood, will be accompanied to the dock tomorrow by an official of the legation for embarkation for the United States.

Refugees were reported in both the Mexican embassy and the Brazilian legation, but this could not be confirmed. It is the first known instance of Cubans having sought asylum with foreign diplomatic representatives since the Machado régime, when President Menideta was one of those who entered the Mexican embassy to escape the vengeance of Machado.

Twenty persons were detained during the night and early today for violation of the 9 o'clock curfew law. They have been lodged in Principe fortress at the disposition of the military governor.

Three bombs exploded in the morning at the School of Arts and Crafts, slightly wounding a woman. Considerable damage was done to the building, which was already occupied by the military forces. The premises yielded six more bombs and a quantity of explosive material.

COSTS $1,200 MINUTE TO RUN GOVERNMENT OF NEW YORK CITY

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—The cost of operating the New York City government is $1,200 a minute, according to a pamphlet issued today by the citizens' budget commission for the guidance of tax payers. The per capita cost of government is $91 a year. An "army" of 550,000 average men at $1,200 a year would be required to earn the amount spent annually by the city. This exceeds 667 million dollars, including its relief expenditures.

Tires Up 12½ Per Cent Next Monday, Say Dealers

Retail prices on automobile tires will be increased twelve and one half per cent effective next Monday morning, it was announced following a closed meeting of 100 independent retail automobile tire dealers at the Hotel Sherman last night.

Norval Trimborn, general manager of the National Association of Tire Dealers, who presided as chairman, denied there was a so-called price war on. He admitted however that there had been a reduction in tire prices March 9 to meet competitive conditions in the industry.

ILLINOIS HOUSE GROUP APPROVES STERILIZING BILL

Act Would Apply to Those Mentally Unsound.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 14.—[Special.]—A program to sterilize mental defectives, who are inmates of Illinois institutions, was reported favorably today from the house committee on public welfare.

The committee vote was unanimous. But Raymond T. O'Keefe [Dem., Chicago], chairman, predicted, however, there would be a fight against the bill on the floor of the house. The measure was introduced by another Chicago Democrat, John M. Bolton, but O'Keefe would not say he would vote for it.

Those Reached by Plan.

Persons to come under the proposed law are those confined in any state institution because of recurrent forms of hereditary insanity, including idiocy, imbecility, feeble-mindedness, or epilepsy. Such patients would be subject to sterilization when the head of such state institution would believe that to be for the best interest of the patients and society.

The act would create the state institutional social welfare board, a new group, to consist of the director of public welfare, an alienist, a criminologist, the superintendent of charities, and the superintendent of prisons.

Under the proposed law, the superintendent of a state institution would petition that board for permission to have the sterilization operation performed. Copies of the petition would be served upon the inmate, parents or legal guardians. After a hearing the board would enter its order. An appeal from the order could be taken within 30 days.

Would Legalize Bars.

Following a bill introduced in the house yesterday, under which saloons would be about the only places where liquor could be sold, another measure was submitted today legalizing bars.

This measure, introduced by Representatives Edward J. Petlak [Dem., Chicago] and John F. Petit [Dem., Batavia] would repeal the section of the liquor law prohibiting bar sales.

From the senate judiciary committee came a favorable report on amendments to the state milk pasteurization act, sponsored by Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state director of health. Dr. Jirka said the amendments strengthen the department's authority, and make provisions of the old act enforceable.

For More Scholarships.

An increase in scolarships at the University of Illinois for the school years 1935-36 and 1936-37 was reported on favorably by the senate committee on education. Each member of the general assembly now appoints one person to a scholarship, but under this bill, introduced by Senators Harry C. Boeke [Dem., Freeport] and J. S. Mundy [Dem., Marshall], each member would have two additional scholarships to distribute for those years.

After advancing several bills in the house and senate, both bodies adjourned until next Tuesday.

DONAHUE RESIGNS; C. M. CAMPBELL NOW ADVERTISING CHIEF

William E. Donahue resigned yesterday as advertising manager of THE TRIBUNE, a post he held for more than six years. His retirement was caused by prolonged illness.

Mr. Donahue is succeeded by Chesser M. Campbell, who has been assistant advertising manager for the last three years. Mr. Campbell was graduated from the University of Michigan in 1921 and entered the service of THE TRIBUNE in the autumn of the same year, his first appointment being to the Paris edition. The following year he returned from France to Chicago and was employed successively in the classified, the retail display, and the western national advertising divisions. In 1927 he became manager of the New York advertising office. Two years later he returned to Chicago as classified advertising manager and was promoted to be assistant advertising manager in 1932. He is 37 years old.

Mr. Donahue was first employed by THE TRIBUNE in 1904, and, except for a seven months' period in 1910, his service was continuous up to the time of his resignation. He passed through the various divisions of the advertising department before becoming advertising manager. In the post-war years of great expansion of THE TRIBUNE's business he was a factor. He has been known primarily as a salesman and he developed his own methods in that field. He visited the markets of the world and has been said to have as wide a fund of information concerning merchandising as many of the leaders in that occupation.

During Mr. Donahue's illness, Mr. Campbell has been acting as advertising manager.

Geologist Slips on Mat, Falls Two Floors, Hurt

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Dr. George Edwin Dorsey, 41, chief geologist for the Socony-Vacuum corporation, a Standard Oil company, was critically injured early today when he slipped on a mat in his apartment and fell through a window to the ground two flights below. He was taken to a hospital suffering from a fractured skull. It was said there that his condition was "good" but still serious.

RELIEF COAL BIDS TABULATED; FAR UNDER NRA LEVEL

$160,000 Saving in Next 2½ Months Expected.

A tabulation of bids for the purchase of coal by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission was made public yesterday and was viewed by several representative coal dealers as a practical test of the NRA's fixed prices, which were abandoned recently as the heating season neared its close. This tabulation showed the NRA dealers' margin of $1.88 a ton on relief fuel, which it termed the "lowest possible cost," to be 350 per cent higher than the margin of the low bidder. The dealer's margin covers his cost of handling and delivering the coal, as well as overhead and profit.

Dealers' margins on the low bids in each of the 29 districts of Chicago range between 35 cents and $1.10 a ton. The tabulation indicates that the NRA price has cost the taxpayers more than $600,000 in the last five months. The bids will be presented to the relief commission at its weekly meeting today.

$160,000 Saving Expected.

On the difference in dealers' margins alone the relief commission will save at least $160,000 on the 200,000 tons of coal it must buy between today and May 31, it was indicated. An additional $80,000 is expected to be saved by the decision of R. J. Chesbro, the new director of purchases, to buy all coal for Chicago relief families from the Central and Belleville mining districts. Previously the relief commission bought about one-third of the higher priced southern Illinois coal.

A question was raised yesterday as to whether the commission will reject the bids of the Eastman Coal company, which stands to get a large share of the business by having submitted low bids for seven of the 29 districts. The specifications state that bidders "must have a record clear of conviction for short weight or other unscrupulous practices."

Fined by Municipal Judge.

The Eastman Coal company on March 5 was fined $100 and costs by Municipal Judge Eugene Holland on a charge of failing to have a weighmaster's seal on a coal delivery ticket.

Low bids were submitted by the following other companies: Southwest Coal and Material company [four districts]; Milton E. Robinson Coal company [one district]; Hoyne Coal Company, Inc. [one district]; Arthur Hutchinson company [one district]; Burda Coal Company, Inc. [one district]; Garden City Coal company [four districts]; L. T. Huston company [two districts]; Brunswick Fuel company [three districts]; Heritage Coal company [two districts]; Galewood Coal company [one district]; Edison Fuel and Material company [one district]; Evergreen Lumber and Coal company [one district].

There were rumors that a large coal concern would seek to have all bids rejected on a technicality so that it can remedy its mistake of turning in a high bid. Mr. Chesbro and Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission, were asked about the matter. Both said they were certain that the bids will not be thrown out.

Another report was that the mine operators will discontinue their rebate of 10 per cent on the mine price of coal to the commission. Mr. Chesbro declared himself certain the commission will continue to get the rebate.

PICKETS ASK WALLACE HOW TO PAY LIVING COST AS PRICES SOAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.] — Braving biting March winds a score of demonstrants, mostly housewives, paraded in front of the department of agriculture today as a protest against rising cost of living. The picketers centered below the office of Secretary Henry A. Wallace on the second floor of the building.

They carried placards proclaiming: "Prices Are High; Wages Are Low. How Are We to Live, Wallace? Let us know."

Secretary Wallace recently predicted living costs will jump 3 or 4 per cent over those of last year. He said food prices would boom faster than others by a leap of 12 per cent and that meat would set the pace for other commodities in a jump of 32 per cent.

DU PAGE'S LOW COST PAVEMENT URGED FOR STATE

Favor Black Top for the Secondary Roads.

BY HAL FOUST.

With prospects of an $80,000,000 federal allotment for secondary road construction in Illinois, highway builders are turning to Du Page county, just west of Chicago, as offering the only example in the state of a low cost, all-weather and dustless road system. The state has asked for this sum from President Roosevelt's $4,800,000,000 work relief appropriation bill pending in congress.

Illnois, as a whole, is without a secondary highway system. There are still 72,000 miles of dirt roads in the state, impassable in muddy, wet weather and unpleasantly and dangerously dusty in dry weather.

The state squandered its available funds on an excessive mileage of concrete. For example, there are 1,609 miles carrying less than 500 cars a day, built for $32,000,000 more than would have been the cost of an all-weather and dustless surface treatment in keeping with trafic requirements.

Safe in Du Page County.

In Du Page county, as in no other county in the state, a motorist can leave the slab pavements without being mired down at this time of the year. Cook county, of course, has a system of roads supplementing the state highways but in the immediate vicinity of Chicago the highways are necessarily of concrete to bear the heavy trafic. Cook, therefore, has a system too expensive to serve as a pattern for local road construction in other parts of the state.

Most Chicago automobile owners are fairly familiar with the secondary roads of Du Page county. The black top pavements, bending through a gently rolling countryside of fertile farms, are inviting to apartment house dwellers seeking a few hours' recreation behind a gasoline engine. The lay motorist, however, does not realize that he is rolling over an experimental laboratory in secondary road construction.

At the head of this laboratory is Eugene L. Gates, superintendent of the Du Page county highway department since 1914. He probably has an hereditary interest in vehicular transportation because his father drove a stage coach between Wheaton, the county seat, and Chicago before the civil war.

Problem in Financing.

Mr. Gates' interest in low cost pavements, however, has a much sounder foundation than a theory of heredity. It is founded upon necessity.

Du Page county's road problem has been and still is that of a population of 91,000 persons financing pavements for the use of a nearby population of 3,500,000 in Chicago and suburbs. These 91,000 could not pay $30,000 a mile for concrete nor could the county do without roads.

Since 1922, Mr. Gates has been building roads with various types of bituminous materials to bind various types of stone and gravel aggregate. His degree of success is open to inspection to any one who drives an automobile, and this report of success is even more convincing when supplemented by a perusal of his books showing original costs and maintenance costs.

Smooth Ride on Old Roads.

The engineer accompanied THE TRIBUNE roadster yesterday on an inspection of these black top roads. Pavements four to nine years old were traveled comfortably at sixty miles an hour, roads that cost but a third what concrete slab does and with a maintenance cost only a fraction of what the interest on the additional investment would be, were the pavements of concrete.

"I have no quarrel with concrete," said Mr. Gates. "It is the proper material for heavily traveled main arterials, but for these secondary routes, I can lay this black top for a third of the cost of slab."

MOTORIST KILLED IN CEMETERY AS AUTO HITS TREE

Loses Control of Car in Hillside.

Michael J. Kelly, 65 years old, 539 Roosevelt road, Wheaton, was killed yesterday when his motor car struck a tree after crashing through a hedge into the Glen Oak cemetery, Hillside.

Kelly, a general shop foreman for the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad, was driving east on Roosevelt road when he lost control of his car near the cemetery entrance. It is thought he may have suffered a heart attack or a dizzy spell.

Other Deaths in Day.

The death of Kelly and four others yesterday increased the Cook county automobile toll for the year to 176. Until 4 p. m. yesterday 142 had been killed in trafic accidents within the Chicago city limits and 2,778 had been injured. Other victims:

John Speckman, 30 years old, 5845 Rice street. Died in the Lakeside hospital shortly after the truck he was driving collided with an automobile driven by Fred Davis, 34 years old, colored, 3116 South Michigan avenue, at Wabash avenue and 36th place.

Jesse Kamberg, 13 years old, 6720 Cottage Grove avenue. Died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries incurred Monday when he was struck by a truck at 69th street and Woodlawn avenue. Hans Jensen, 30 years old, 7116 Champlain avenue, the driver, was not held by police when witnesses said the boy ran into the path of the truck.

Peter Schuller, 45 years old, 5005 South Ada street. Died in the German Deaconess hospital after he was struck by a hit and run car at 50th and Union streets.

Salvatore Leoni, 48 years old, 1202 North 20th avenue, Melrose Park. Died in the Westlake hospital after he was struck at 1st and North avenues, Melrose Park, by a coal truck driven by James McMillan, 106 North Hudson avenue, Westmont. Leoni was working with a road repair gang when he was hit.

"Morgue Class" for Speeders.

Speeders charged with driving more than fifty miles an hour will form a "morgue class" who will be taken to the county morgue each Saturday afternoon to view the bodies of trafic victims there. Then they will be taken back to the trafic court at 1121 South State street and tried for their offenses by Judge John Gutknecht. The first "class" will be held tomorrow.

BRITAIN SETS 100 SPEED TRAPS TO TAME MOTORISTS

Limit of 30 Miles an Hour Effective Monday.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 14.—Taming the British motorist, who is noted more for speed than caution, was pushed forward rapidly today.

One hundred private and commercial automobiles were hired for a special army of plainclothes policemen and policewomen to trap speeders next Monday when the new speed limit of 30 miles per hour in built-up areas will become effective.

These cars will cruise the streets of London at 30 miles an hour and any motorist passing them will get a summons for speeding.

The plan drew a storm of protest today from the London press, which branded it "un-English" and suggested "Mobile Marys" and "Prowling Pollies" as appellations for policewomen employed in the trapping.

Set Up First Trafic Courts.

The second step in the campaign to make the streets safe for pedestrians and motorists safe for themselves was an innovation just as startling—the establishment of trafic courts for the first time in British history.

One of the two courts in London will be at the busy Clerkenwell police court and the other at the even busier Bow street police court.

The plainclothes policemen and policewomen in the trapping cars will have to be quick change artists, because under the law before they can issue a summons or halt a motorist, they must don a uniform. This provision is due to British motorists' fear of bandits.

Gong to Halt Speeders.

The trapping cars will be plain pleasure or commercial vehicles. The speeding motorist passing one of them will hear a gong clang and see a sign, "Police," flip out of the car and he will be forced to pull up.

While the gong is clanging the police will perform contortions as they hastily get into uniforms for issuing summons in due and proper British style.

The hundred cars will cost $3,500 for the first six weeks of the anti-speed drive and motorists are trembling because their fines must meet the bill. It looks as if the courts will be overwhelmed with legal conflicts while motorists allege the streets will be encumbered with crawling vehicles. The home secretary already is being bombarded with questions in parliament.

Illinois Waterway Job Goes to Buffalo Firm

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—The war department today announced the award of a contract at $146,072 to the R. C. Huffman Construction Company of Buffalo for the dredging of the Illinois waterway. The award was approved by Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of engineers.

BILL PLANS CURE FOR BOTTLENECK AT WESTERN AVE.

A bill declaring a portion of the west fork of the south branch of the Chicago river to be nonnavigable, the eventual result of which would be to relieve the boulevard bottleneck at Western avenue, was introduced in the house of representatives yesterday by Congressman A. J. Sabath. The bill calls upon the war department engineers to make a survey of the situation.

George T. Donoghue, general superintendent of the Chicago park district, said last night that if the bill is passed the canal will be filled in at that point and a wide boulevard constructed where the present narrow bridge is located. Boulevard trafic now must cross Western avenue street car tracks in order to approach the bridge.

N. Y. VICE QUEEN HELD FOR TRIAL WITH HER FILMS

Promised 'Premiere' Jams Courtroom.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—A packed courtroom of New York thrill seekers was disappointed today when the first public showing of the two sizzling French films found in Polly Adler's Bagnio in East 55th street was postponed until Tuesday. But there was general rejoicing and a renewed rush for special passes when it was learned that the première would be transferred from the cramped quarters of Women's court to the more spacious accommodations of the Criminal Courts building.

After a brief session in chambers, Magistrate Jonah Goldstein bound Polly over to special sessions in $2,500 bail on a charge of maintaining a disorderly house and in $1,500 bail on a charge of possessing indecent films. The vagrancy cases against three of her girls was adjourned until Tuesday, when the films will be exhibited.

Crowd Pushes and Shoves.

The reception accorded Manhattan's Madam No. 1 when she arrived at Women's court was one worthy of her position as bordello queen. Twelve policemen shoved back the straining sidewalk crowd as Polly, wearing a tan polo coat, hastened upstairs. Her face was protected from photographers by her pocketbook.

Necks craned and heads bobbed in the jammed courtroom as Polly took a front seat, to be joined a few minutes later by her girls — Dorothy Walker, Eva Acosta, and Yvonne Moore.

With the magistrate hearing other matters in chambers, photographers swarmed around the notorious foursome.

Boost Bail a Little.

After a thirty minute wait, the foursome was haled into chambers where Siegel waived examination for Polly. Wahl asked high bail because, he said, police are seeking to pin "another crime" upon her but he succeeded only in getting the bail boosted $500.

Then the hearing on the vagrancy charges began. A police witness had uttered a single sentence about the raid when Siegel, protesting he had an appointment uptown, asked for an adjournment, which Goldstein granted.

The only words spoken by the pert and pudgy Madam Adler were: "Yes, your honor," when Goldstein asked if she would consent to consolidation of the two charges against her.

Drive on Policy Racketeers.

An extended inquiry in the drive to rid the city of policy and bail bond racketeers, with a special staf of 100 or more volunteer lawyers to examine witnesses and build up cases, was announced by District Attorney William C. Doge.

The special staf will be the result of a plan he and counsel for the Society for the Prevention of Crime are working out, Mr. Dodge said. Having composed the differences which had threatened a breach between them, both affirmed they were in "perfect harmony, clicking 100 per cent," and settling down for a long, hard investigative pull.

The expansion of the investigation as outlined would put it on a scale comparable to the Seabury inquiry into the city government. The "big shots," the ultimate goal of the drive remained, said Mr. Dodge, as elusive as ever.

BIENNIAL COAL STRIKE FEARED IN PAY PACT DELAY

Chicago Industries Lay In Supplies.

Possibility of a national strike of coal miners April 1 because of a delay in getting their biennial wage negotiations under way, was feared yesterday by coal dealers in Chicago. Although the advent of warmer weather will reduce householders' needs for coal, many railroads and public utilities in the Chicago area, which use the fuel in nearly uniform amounts all year round, were reported yesterday to be stocking up heavily in anticipation of a shortage if the strike occurs.

Officials of the unions, to which virtually all the coal workers in the country belong, would make no definite comment on the strike possibility. It was recalled that many times in the past the miners have suspended work on April 1 if no wage agreement had been reached.

Soft Coal Workers Only.

The present scale, providing a $5 a day basic wage for inside workers and $4 for outside workers, with a seven hour day and a five day week, went into effect on April 1, 1933, and terminates on March 31 of this year. This scale applies to bituminous coal workers throughout the country. The wage agreement in the anthracite industry, which is confined to northeastern Pennsylvania, does not end until March 31, 1936.

More than 75 per cent of Illinois' annual bituminous coal production—45,000,000 tons—is mined by members of the United Mine Workers of America and the Progressive Mine Workers, the remainder being produced by truck coal farmers for their own use, or in a few small independent mines.

Of the 37,560 miners now employed in the state, 60 per cent belong to the United union and the other 40 per cent to the Progressive, which has its stronghold in Saline county. Approximately 10,000 miners are out of work in Illinois.

Ask $6 and 30 Hours.

The coal unions are asking a 30 hour week and an increase of 20 per cent in the basic pay rates. The national conference between the union representatives and officials of the coal producers' associations began in Washington, D. C. on March 12 and the opposing groups were reported yesterday to be "wide apart."

The delay in starting the national wage conference and the strike possibility was explained here yesterday by Andrew T. Murphy, publisher of the Black Diamond, the trade organ of the coal operators, wholesalers and retailers.

"The coal operators," Murphy said, "could not begin negotiations until they had concluded testifying before the senate subcommittee in hearings on the proposed Guffy-Snyder bill. [This bill would give the government control of the bituminous industry along the lines of the interstate commerce commission's jurisdiction over railroads.]

"Ordinarily the wage conference begins in the middle of January, every other year, and requires about 60 days. According to past performances, the present conference would not end before early May, which would mean, also according to past experience, that the miners would suspend work April 1 and stay out until the wage scale went into effect."

Two Sectional Champion Scout Troops Are Chosen

Troops 323 and 119 of the Chicago Boy Scouts last night won the west and northwest sectional contests in the first aid contest directed by the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. Troop 323 is sponsored by the Central Park Congregational church, 4037 Maypole avenue, and Troop 119 by Our Lady of Grace church, 2444 North Ridgeway avenue. The champion troops will compete with representatives of other sections of Chicago on March 29 in the annual midwest contest to be held at the University of Chicago.

COUPLE ROB TWO CAB DRIVERS.

Frank Meahl, 1021 Jackson boulevard, was robbed of $8.75 and his taxicab at Springfield avenue and George streets yesterday by a gunman with a woman companion. Shortly afterward Philip McNeal, 4758 Kenmore avenue, lost $1.10 and his cab to the same couple at Hermitage and Berteau avenues.

MAYOR WILL ASK INVESTIGATION OF CLEANING TRADE

Seeks Inquiry on Dispute by Commerce Group.

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he would request the Chicago Association of Commerce to conduct an investigation of the cleaning and dyeing industry, which for years has been a center of strife and alleged racketeering in the city. The announcement followed the mayor's conference with delegates from the Cleaning and Dyeing Plant Owners' association, who protested at the cutting of prices by independent service chains.

The mayor said that he could not arbitrarily order the independents to raise their prices.

"I have no right or inclination to force the public to pay more for cleaning and dyeing than the independents are charging," Mayor Kelly declared. "That is a problem for the industry to solve."

Quizzes Them on Prices.

"Why don't the association members lower their prices so they can compete with the independents?" he asked.

The association delegates replied that they would not be able to pay their employés union wages if they had to cut prices. The Peacock Cleaners and Dyers and other independents have insisted, however, that they can cut prices and still make substantial profits and pay union wages.

The association, comprising 94 of the largest plants in the city, is charging 69 cents for cleaning a suit or dress. The Peacock chain is now charging 49 cents and the Abarbanell Cleaners and Dyers, another independent, has announced recently that it was lowering its charge to 50 cents.

Commerce Group's Aid Sought.

After the mayor had indicated he would not intervene in the cleaning and dyeing disputes, the association delegates suggested that he appoint a committee of civic leaders to make inquiries into the industry. The mayor then said he would ask the association of Commerce to investigate, and in the event this organization refuses, he will request another civic organization to assume the responsibility.

Litigation in which the organized cleaners and dyers are asking that the independents be restrained from price cutting is now pending before Master in Chancery William R. Swissler of the Circuit court. The master is not expected to make his recommendations for several months. An injunction on price cutting was issued by Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski last October, but was dissolved by the Illinois Appellate court, which held the defendants should have a full hearing on the evidence before any order was entered.

CHARGES UNION BLOCKS SALE OF AIR CONDITIONERS

Salaried Engineer Blow to Small Buyers.

The requirement that a union engineer be employed to supervise air conditioning equipment "for ever" after its installation is hampering the strides of the infant industry, it was declared yesterday by several contractors who sell and install the apparatus. At present, they said, chances of selling equipment to owners of small motion picture theaters are faint because of the cost of union upkeep.

A recent survey showed that of the 327 motion picture houses in Chicago only 70 had air conditioning, and most of these were large theaters. The remaining 257 theaters were looked upon by the air conditioning industry as the best single group of prospects for sales during 1935.

Small Owners Reluctant.

"Small theater owners are reluctant to install the equipment when they learn that they will have to employ a union engineer to watch the plant," said one contractor, who asked that his name not be used "because of the union."

"Until about two years ago it was impossible for theaters seating between 900 and 1,200 persons to get suitable equipment. However, since then the right kind of plant has been developed for their purpose, and it can practically be operated by a push button."

Other contractors told similar stories, although one contended that the services of an engineer represented a good investment by assuring proper care of equipment.

"Claim" All Plants.

A. J. Landvogt, secretary of the International Union of Operating Engineers, local No. 399, said that the union's requirement for supervision of air conditioning plants is several years old.

"Wherever the plant is, it's in our jurisdiction," Mr. Landvogt said. "We claim it and go after it to see that an engineer operates the plant."

In answer to a question Landvogt said the union does not insist upon placing its men in private residences having the plants. No line has yet been drawn between the sizes of equipment the union insists upon supervising, he declared, but small theaters are included in its "jurisdiction." The union engineers are paid $39.75 for a 40 hour week.

Motorman Suffers Stroke, Brings Car to Safe Stop

Evansville, Ind., March 14.—[Special.]—Andrew Orth, 62, motorman, suffered a stroke today while at controls of his street car. He set his brakes, the car slowing to a stop at a street intersection. He is reported to be in a serious condition.

SEATTLE LUNCH CLUB HEARS THE SULLIVANS RECITE OWN PRAISE

Seattle, Wash., March 14.—(AP)—The Sullivans were in charge of the 101 club luncheon at the Washington Athletic club today.

Attorney Jack Sullivan was the toastmaster.

Who were the parents of Adam and Eve?
The Sullivans!
Plain, blunt men who never deceive—
The Sullivans!
Whose mentioned name turns strong men pale?
Who can lap up whisky, wine or ale?
And who never knew such a word as "fail"?
The Sullivans!

The song was written especially for the occasion by Charles Sullivan, florist, is charge of the luncheon. It was sung by the Sullivans and Kellys, Murphys, Ryans, and Burkes.

At the dining room door were Patrolmen Con Walsh, who used to be world champion weight lifter, and Mike Twohig, almost as hefty and twice as Irish. They were armed with scissors and instructed to cut off the neckties of any of the lads not wearin' the green.

The other members of the lunch club were told the affair honored St. Patrick, whose day is March 17th.

STRIKE SPREADS ON PACIFIC COAST TO MAIL LINER

Seattle, Wash., March 14.—(AP)—Maritime strikes on the Pacific coast took a new tack today when the crew of the American Mail liner President Jefferson walked out, charging the line wronged the crew by employing nonunion men.

Longshoremen loading the liner struck in sympathy.

Already three tankers and a freighter were tied up here because of walkouts in various coast ports by sailors demanding increased wages.

Peter B. Gill, agent for the sailors' union in Seattle, said the President Jefferson's men quit because seven nonunion men were employed by the American Mail line; because some of the stewards "had been told that if they carried a union book they would be discharged," and because junior officers "do not belong to the Masters, Mates, and Pilots' association."

John Cormode, official of the line, said it had not agreed to employ only union men, but the 100 crew members said they would not sign articles until the ship was 100 per cent union. It is posted to sail Saturday for the orient.

The tankers La Brea and Kekoskee were tied up in Seattle and the District of Columbia at Point Wells because of a dispute with the oil companies. The freighter Wind Rush was idle and picketed by the seamen's union because of its Filipino crew.

In all about twenty oil tankers remained tied up in coast ports because of the seamen's walkout.

KIDNAPED YOUTH IS FREED; $10,000 RANSOM UNPAID

Wilmington, Del., March 15 [Friday].—(AP)—Wilmington police today reported Chester Hyde, 19, who was kidnaped Monday night near his home in Colonia, N. J., was found bound and gagged in a park here early today.

Two policemen stumbled over the boy's prostrate form in a secluded section of Rockford park.

His hands and feet were tied with rope and he was gagged with a handkerchief. He said he had been lying there only a few minutes when police found him.

Police said the boy told them he was dragged into an automobile by two men and a woman and taken to Philadelphia, where he was held a prisoner for three days in a rooming house.

Hyde said his captors took him from the room where he was kept prisoner late last night and drove him to Wilmington and dumped him in the park. They did not harm him, he said, and fed him regularly, but took $10 from his pockets.

The youth, a stepson of William Lella, Colonia horticulturist, disappeared Monday after leaving his home to attend night classes at Rahway, N. J., High school.

Assistant County Prosecutor James S. Wright said at Woodbridge, N. J., that Lella had received a letter demanding $10,000 ransom and warning him the boy would be harmed if he notified police.

Five department of justice agents from Philadelphia are working on the case.

LEVY DEFICIENCY TAX ON ESTATE OF W. A. STRONG

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—The estate of Walter A. Strong of Chicago was assessed a $14,061 estate tax deficiency in a stipulation judgment approved today by the board of tax appeals.

The judgment estimated the true tax liability at $67,237, and credited the payment of $53,175. The executors had appealed an assessment originally set at $47,754, charging the bureau of internal revenue overestimated the value of stock in the Chicago Daily News and the Fansteel Products company.

JOHN BLANKENHORNS ARE SEPARATED, BUT REMAIN GOOD FRIENDS

Pasadena, Cal., March 14.—[Special.]—Separated but still friendly was the description given the marital status of Marjorie White, actress, and John Blankenhorn, wealthy business man to whom she was wed at a fashionable ceremony here last summer.

The couple, who made their home in Chicago after the honeymoon, now are 3,000 miles apart, he being in New York while she is back at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. White here.

Dissatisfied with his brokerage work in Chicago, Blankenhorn went to New York to attempt stage work and to collaborate in play writing with his mother, Mrs. Emma White, playwright. Mrs. Blankenhorn returned to her former home here several weeks ago.

ARGENTINA ACTS TO END FASCIST BID FOR POWER

BUENOS AIRES, March 14.—(AP)—The federal government intervened tonight in the troubled politics of Buenos Aires province, appointing Col. Rodolfo Marquez as federal interventor to rule the province until "an opportune time to sustain and reinstall the constitutional authorities."

A dispute between Fascists and Conservatives as to the governorship of the province, Argentina's richest and most important, presented the cabinet an awkward problem which it has been studying for two days.

Impeached by the provincial legislature, Gov. Federico Martinez de Hoz has refused to yield the office to Vice Governor Raul Diaz, and Fascists have announced their determination to keep him in power. National Democrats, who instituted the impeachment proceeding, have shown equal determination to oust him and put in Diaz.

FIGHT MEASURE TO KILL UTILITY HOLDING FIRMS

Power Interests Urge a Reasonable Control.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—"Elimination of holding companies will destroy the very instrumentality by which the use of electricity has been made more dependable, economical and efficient, and more widespread in this country than in any other country of the world."

This statement was made today to the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, before which is pending legislation to eliminate public utility holding companies in five years. The speaker was Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation.

President Roosevelt's message on Tuesday recommended elimination of all except necessary public utility holding companies and criticized "the propaganda" against the legislation that would accomplish this.

"Would Destroy Investments."

"The elimination would destroy or greatly impair the value of investments now held by millions of men, women and children, and by colleges, hospitals, churches and the like throughout this country," said Willkie. "Its deflationary effects will be felt for years. The discouragement and warning which such legislation will give to all holding companies, which are in large measure an essential part of our industrial life, will be incalculable in its consequences."

Willkie declared that the legislation was holding up the doubling of capital expenditures, which would put thousands of men to work and contribute greatly toward restoration of prosperity.

"If the millions of utility security holders knew that their investments were not to be liquidated," he continued, "if they saw a rising, instead of a declining price in utility securities, they likewise would begin to expend money. All that we utility men have been doing for the last two years is putting out fires."

Asks Reasonable Regulation.

Willkie told the committee that this nation and its people could not be governed by general prohibitions, but should be governed by reasonable regulation with the prohibition of specific evils. Reasonable regulation of the holding companies to prevent recurrence of whatever abuses had occurred, he said, was not only sensible, but desirable.

Aside from the holding company provisions of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, specifying elimination of the concerns, Willkie contended the measure places the operating companies under a new and extraordinary form of federal burocracy.

"From the time of the adoption of this bill the federal government will be virtually the super-manager of the affairs of most operating electric utilities," he argued. "This effect s government ownership without the necessity of paying to the owners of the property any compensation. It is management by the government of the affairs of these utilities without responsibility for the mistakes which the government may commit."

Roosevelt's Letter Read.

One part of Willkie's testimony consisted of the reading of a letter from Franklin Delano Roosevelt, dated Nov. 5, 1926, and saying that in connection with the establishment of the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation it had been found communities were suffering from "the usual high cost and inefficient service of small local power plants."

Willkie insisted that the high cost of scattered independent operating companies had been historically the reason for the formation of interconnected power units.

A few minutes later Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], chairman of the interstate and foreign commerce committee attempted unsuccessfully to obtain unanimous consent from the house to call up for passage the Norris resolution requesting the federal trade commission to investigate propaganda against the utility holding company elimination bill. The senate passed the measure yesterday.

LAKE CO. SHERIF ELECTION UPHELD IN VOTE RECOUNT

A recount of the votes cast last December for sherif of Lake county was completed last night. The total showed 18,688 for Lawrence A. Doolittle, Republican incumbent, and 18,336 for Bart Tyrrell, Democratic nominee who filed a contest, leaving Doolittle a majority of 352.

On the original tabulation Doolittle won by 137 votes. Supporters of Tyrrell said last night that they expected County Judge Perry L. Persons to take a large number of votes to which they have objected from Sherif Doolittle at a hearing to be held next week. There are 883 challenged ballots still to be ruled on and it was said even the Doolittle supporters admitted enough of these would be allowed Tyrrell to lower the majority substantially. They were confident, however, that Sherif Doolittle would keep the office.

STOMACH UPSET

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help the intestines in a soothing, healing way. When the bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps, or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief.

POPE PIUS ADVISES ACTION SOCIETY ON GETTING INTO POLITICS

VATICAN CITY, March 14.—(AP)—Pope Pius advised the Catholic Action society, layman's organization, today to "stay out of ordinary politics and political parties" but to participate in politics when "it is a matter of the common good."

Addressing students in the Foreign Ecclesiastical society, made up of 400 students of various colleges here including a number from North and South America, the pope said the Catholic Action society was founded on the principle of allowing the laity to participate in the apostolic hierarchy of the church.

This, he said, is "in continuation of the tradition which started with the first evolutions of the church."

If by party, he continued, "we may understand politics in the classical sense of the world 'polis,' or that which regards the communal good of society, then those who militate in the Catholic Action society may not disinterest themselves."

AGREE TO PLANS FOR DEBATE ON BONUS PAYMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—The house rules committee emerged from executive session late today with a tentative plan for consideration of bonus payment legislation next week. Debate in the house is scheduled to start Tuesday.

All 35 bills for payment of the veterans' adjusted service certificates will be in order for a test of strength, John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the rules committee announced. There will be ten hours' general debate allowed and then will follow days of parliamentary jockying and amendments.

"This will be the most liberal rule ever reported out," said O'Connor. "I expect that it will 10 or 12 days before the house passes a bonus bill."

Bonus adherents have been split over the Vinson bill, providing for the payment out of treasury funds, and the Patman measure, an inflationary plan. The ways and means committee recommended the Vinson bill.

Sentiment has been growing for the Cochran plan to give the veterans bonds bearing 3 per cent interest and maturing in 9 years.

DEVELOP CANDY CLEW AND SOLVE SCHOOL ROBBERY

The sight of two 17 year old boys walking down South Sangamon street, each enjoying an all-day sucker and one carrying a suitcase, aroused the attention of Detectives Patrick Condon and Edward Foster early today.

They questioned the boys and found in the suitcase a quantity of assorted candies, some 200 keys, and eight pocketknives. They boys stoutly maintained innocence of theft and said the goods had been given to them "by a friend."

Nevertheless, the two policemen took them on a tour of the district around Sangamon and 62d streets. In front of St. Theodore's school, 6209 South Paulina street, they found a quantity of candy wrappings. Investigation disclosed that the stationery store on the second floor of the school had been looted.

DETAILS OF NEW DEAL PLAN GIVEN BY LLOYD GEORGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 14.—A ninety-eight page memorandum of 35,000 typewritten words detailing David Lloyd George's "new deal" proposals, which, he claims, will restore prosperity to Great Britain, was sent to No. 10 Downing street tonight by the war-time prime minister in response to Prime Minister MacDonald's offer to submit the scheme to the cabinet.

The proposals were dispatched to Chequers, MacDonald's retreat, where he is suffering from a cold.

In a letter accompanying the document Lloyd George stressed that the proposals represent the views of experts drawn from all political parties.

"I assume the government before coming to a final conclusion on the plans will afford me the opportunity of appearing before the committee to which they are referred for examination," he added.

It is understood this request will be granted. The terms of the proposals will not be published until the government has studied them.

CHIEF OF ORDNANCE PRAISES FAST TANKS; VISITS ROCK ISLAND

Rock Island, Ill., March 14.—[Special.]—That the United States government arsenal at Rock Island may become the center of motorization for the United States army was inferred here today by Maj. Gen. W. H. Tschappat. He inspected the arsenal shops and grounds.

After July 1, he said, the beginning of the next fiscal year, there will be more work in the actual construction of war material at the arsenal.

"The army is rapidly being motorized," he continued. "The speedy tanks turned out here made a distinctly favorable impression at Washington. I have seen today the efficiency with which the arsenal is operated.

The ordnance chief said Brig. Gen. Herman W. Schull, his assistant in charge of manufacture, a former commandant of Rock Island arsenal, will visit the arsenal soon to confer with Col. A. G. Gillespie, the present commandant. They will discuss plans.

IRENE RICH

Her Reducing Secret is FREE

EXCESS fat comes from eating and drinking foods too rich in fat-producing elements. But in order to reduce healthfully and at the same time maintain your energy, it is not enough to substitute low-calory foods. Scientists have now discovered that you must also supply the body with a certain amount of easily burnable sugar—so that the body can burn up its fat.

That's why Welch's science processed grape juice, always Certified-Pure by Chemists and Laboratory tests and Pasteurized, belongs on every reducing diet. Its non-fattening grape sugar satisfies that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods . . . and actually helps you lose weight naturally.

In the Welch process all the sugar in the juice is predigested, hence quickly and easily burned; it actually helps to burn up fat! As you follow the Welch way, week after week, it not only gives you slender lines, it restores a lovely natural color to your cheeks. You feel "made over"—full of new vitality.

Start Welch's Today!

Along with your daily reducing diet, drink a glass before breakfast and another between meals and before retiring. Meanwhile write for free booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down." Reduce this delightful scientific way and at the same time gain new energy.

Remember, Welch's is always Certified-Pure and Pasteurized, and sells today at the lowest price in many years. Don't be fooled with cheap substitutes.

MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN

For New Pep, Energy Drink WELCH'S Daily

Welch's helps build solid flesh, muscle and bone without adding burdensome, excess, life-destroying fat. Marvelous as a pick-up drink for that faint, hungry, between-meal feeling. Wonderful for growing children. Its grape sugar being predigested by nature gives the body quick new pep and energy—but doesn't make FAT! That's why athletic trainers recommend Welch's Certified-Pure Grape Juice. Start drinking Welch's today and keep fatigue and overweight away.

FREE Send your name and address to the Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 2918 Westfield, N. Y., for free scientific health booklet: "Keeping Your Weight Down—and—Red Blooded Children and Athletes." Also a new, simple Diet List of many good things to eat, with weight and height chart, and a letter from Irene Rich, telling you how she keeps her weight the same as at 16. All sent prepaid.

JAPANESE FIGHT U. S. SCHEME FOR PACIFIC AIR LINE

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 14.—Japanese naval authorities today declared themselves vigorously opposed to the United States' preparations for trans-Pacific air service, according to reports from Tokio. The hostile comment of unnamed naval officials was featured sensationally in the Japanese press.

The United States navy department's issuance of permits to Pan-American Airways for the construction of airports at Guam, Midway and Wake Islands was interpreted by the Japanese as a menace to their security.

Plans for a trial flight across the Pacific were branded as "military preparations in the guise of civilian enterprise."

Naval Authorities Quoted.

Typical headlines in the Japanese press were "American air force shakes finger under Japan's nose," and "America's concealed military power in the Pacific."

The Nichi Nichi and other Japanese newspapers quoted the unnamed naval authorities as follows:

"This project can be regarded as military preparations in the guise of civilian enterprise. Commercially and industrially there is no justification for extension of American airways to the Pacific islands.

"Since the projected routes are close to Japan's mandated islands we must give the project serious consideration. The fact the permits were issued by the navy department strongly suggests the future use of these airports for military purposes is contemplated.

"Such developments mean menacing another nation and are unfortunate at this juncture when questions of naval disarmament are unsettled."

China Delays Action.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed here that the Nanking government has not yet granted permission to Pan-American Airways to make regular landings on Chinese soil. It is understood the Chinese make no objection to the trial flight, but action on the matter of establishment of regular service is ambiguous.

The Shanghai Evening Post said the Chinese desire to coöperate in furtherance of the Pan-American project, but fear granting regular landing rights to the American company would establish a dangerous precedent in event "a certain other nation or nations" insist on similar rights.

Pan-American officials here regard China's delay in granting regular landing permits as due to Japanese pressure. They allege the Japanese informed Nanking that in event Pan-American is granted landing privileges, Japan will demand similar privileges for several lines the Japanese now are contemplating.

Japan's Proposed Lines.

One air line would connect the island of Formosa with the Chinese mainland at Fukien province. Another would link Japan proper and Shanghai by way of Corea. Others would establish regular service between Manchukuo and North China.

Since Pan-American Airways already is coöperating with the Chinese government in operating lines in China through the Chinese National Aviation corporation, which the Nanking government controls, hope was expressed that the predicament over landing privileges in China may speedily be settled.

It was reported that the matter of granting Pan-American Airways regular landing privileges has been put up to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

INCREASE IN NAVY ESTIMATES O.K.'D BY BRITISH HOUSE

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 15.—[Friday.]—The British government early today won the approval of the house of commons for naval estimates for 1935 amounting to £60,050,000 [about $300,250,000], an increase of £3,500,000 [about $17,500,000] over last year. The vote was 158 to 48.

The vote came after Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, announced that an international agreement for abolition of submarines and reduction in size of capital ships, cruisers, and aircraft carriers is Britain's aim for the next naval conference which, it is hoped, will be held this year.

Eyres-Monsell said Britain deplored Japan's denunciation of the 1922 Washington treaty, but emphasized there is no need to treat it "too tragically."

No More Reduction in Ships.

Britain, he said, already has gone the limit in reducing the number of ships.

"Nevertheless, we are willing and anxious for an international agreement for reduction of sizes," he added. "We should like to see capital ships limited to 25,000 tons and 12 inch guns, together with the abolition of 10,000 ton cruisers with 8 inch guns and the abolition of submarines." [Present limits for capital ships are 35,000 tons with 16 inch guns.]

Defends Naval Estimates.

Defending the increased naval estimates, the first lord of the admiralty insisted the government had not deviated from the steady course of new construction pursued since 1930. The sum of $7,500,000 in increased expediture, he said, was automatic and beyond the government's control. He added that nearly $10,000,000 was needed to make up deficiencies in equipment.

Eyres-Monsell attacked the Laborites for pacifist propaganda. He pointed out that compared with 1914 the United States had increased its naval tonnage 20 per cent and Japan 35 per cent. Britain, he claimed, had decreased its tonnage 48 per cent. He also quoted statistics to show that England's expenditure for national defense since 1925 had dropped 12 per cent, whereas Germany increased its expenditure 50 per cent; France, 102 per cent; Japan, 90 per cent; and Russia, 197 per cent.

Russia Mixes Plea with Threat.

MOSCOW, March 14.—(AP)—A "peaceful, friendly solution" of far eastern problems was officially advocated here today simultaneously with semi-official warnings that the soviet will increase "defensive measures" if British diplomacy yields too much to Germany.

Maxim Litvinov, commissar for foreign affairs, suggested that nations interested in the far eastern situation start discussing withdrawal of armed forces from the vicinity of the Manchukuo-Siberian border.

This withdrawal, he said, would be "quite natural" if "the tension" in the far east continues to decrease.

The assertion that the soviet will build up its defenses if Great Britain, in forthcoming security negotiations, makes too great concessions to the reich was made in an article signed by Karl Radek, one of the government's chief mouthpieces, which was published in Izvestia, the government organ.

Radek Sounds Warning.

He termed recent mention in the British house of commons of Russia's huge army an attempt to smooth the feeling of Germans ruffled by the British "white paper," which criticized German re-armament, and said:

"We can tell Baldwin [Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the British council, who made the reference to the soviet's arms] that any direct or indirect concession by British diplomacy to German aggressive plans will lead to an increase of defensive measures by soviet Russia.

"England must choose between the decisive support of general peace or a readiness to take part in a general war. It is difficult to dance long among so many swords."

NAZI POLICE BAR DISCUSSION OF PAGAN FAITH BOOK

MUNICH, Germany, March 14.—(AP)—Secret police today ordered that the book "The Myth of the Twentieth Century," by Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, philosophic dictator of the third reich and leader of the German pagan faith movement, must not be discussed at either public or private meetings.

"The book has aroused considerable perturbation," the order said.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler previously dissociated himself from the paganistic doctrins expressed in the work, calling it an expression only of Rosenberg's personal views. Hitler affirmed that positive Christianity is a basis of the Nazi régime.

The faith movement, however, announced it was calling twenty-five public meetings in Bavaria to gain support for Rosenberg's ideas.

STEAMER CREW SALUTES LITTLE ALYCE McHENRY

Fall River, Mass., March 14.—(AP)—Tribute such as ordinarily is paid to kings and queens and international dignitaries was accorded to little Alyce Jane McHenry by the steamer Chilbar today.

As Alyce Jane, whose inverted stomach was righted in an operation recently, gazed from a hospital here, the Chilbar moved up the Taunton river, bunting flying from her rigging and her shrill whistle saluting the 10 year old Omaha girl whose courage has stirred the heart of a nation.

More than 100 pieces of bunting, including the international code signal flags, the United States ensign, and the flags of Mexico, Venezuela, Honduras, and Panama, fluttered from the rigging as the crew lined the rail and Alyce Jane gazed at the spectacle.

ANOTHER AIR LINE BETWEEN FRISCO AND HAWAII IS PLANNED

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

HONOLULU, March 14.—Stanley C. Kennedy, president of the Inter-Island Airways here, returned today from a visit to New York and said developments of the next week would decide whether there is to be an air line from San Francisco to Hawaii to compete with Pan-American Airways. He declared the Inter-Island company had not completed negotiations with Pan-American for coöperation in the Pacific.

It was indicated there is a possibility the Matson Navigation company and the Inter-Island may join forces to inaugurate a new line at least between San Francisco and Honolulu. The Inter-Island now owns four Sikorsky planes which have been used in daily service here for the last five years, and has under construction at the Sikorsky factory two 16 passenger high wing monoplanes due for delivery at Hawaii late in the summer.

Kennedy said he expected to confer within a day or so with C. V. Whitney, chairman of the Pan-American's board, who is vacationing at Waikiki.

'Handsome Alex's' Widow Among Those Accused.

PARIS, March 14.—(AP)—The Stavisky financial scandal—the collapse of the Bayonne pawnshop—which shook France, drove out two governments and resulted in the February riots last year, reached the end of the preliminary investigation period today with the indictment of nineteen persons, including the widow of Serge "Handsome Alex" Stavisky.

Arlette Simon Stavisky, two deputies, one former general, and two lawyers were among those turned over to the courts as the scandal involving the loss of millions of francs to investors entered the trial stage.

Fourteen of those indicted are held in jail. Nine of the original accused were ordered released on the ground that nothing was found against them and police action against three lapsed because of deaths. The latter three cases are those of the swindler Stavisky himself, who committed suicide; Chamonix Emile Blanchard, employé in the labor ministry, who also committed suicide, and Samuel Maingourd, director of the Orleans municipal pawnshop.

Took Year for Investigation.

Four magistrates were busy for more than a year in the investigations. The nineteen indicted persons are expected to be defended by no fewer than sixty-nine lawyers.

Three governmental departments which lost money in the swindles will be represented at the trial in an effort to get back some of the lost funds. The date for the trial has not been set.

Those indicted besides Mrs. Stavisky were Deputy Joseph Garat; Deputy Gaston Bonnaure; former Gen. Bardi de Fourtou, who was accused of figuring in Stavisky's transactions; Paul Levy, a journalist accused of accepting money from Stavisky; Georges Gautier, former Stavisky lawyer; Louis Hatot, a handy man;

Paul Louis Guebin, manager of a company which, police said, placed 25,000,000 francs' worth of Stavisky's false bonds; Gustave Tissier, former manager of the Bayonne pawnshop.

Editor Accused.

Henri Cohen, appraiser of the pawnshop and former salesman in a Stavisky jewelry store; Albert Dubarry, editor of the newspaper Volonte; Pierre Guibout-Ribaud, lawyer and director of the Stavisky company;

Henry Depardon, private secretary for Stavisky and alleged "payoff man"; Gilbert Romagnino, another alleged "payoff man"; Henri Desbrosses, organizer of the Bayonne pawnshop, accused of having a part in the issuance of 10,000,000 francs' worth of false bonds;

Antoine Emile Degoin, agent accused of having pawned Stavisky's own jewels for him; Pierre Darius, editor of the weekly newspaper Bec et Ongles, charged with having published a rumor that the Bayonne bonds were false and then becoming silent after a threat of prosecution for libel was privately settled;

27 Complete 22d Day in Mine Pit in Fight for Jobs

BEUTHEN, Germany, March 14.—(AP)—Desperately struggling to retain their jobs, 27 miners today completed their twenty-second day below the surface in the Luisenglueck coal pit. When the mine owner served notice that because of financial difficulties he would abandon the pit, 33 of the 120 employés decided to remain below until they were assured the work would continue. Six have been carried out because of their weakened condition. Some of them may not survive.

IOWA INCREASES MINIMUM PAY OF TEACHERS BY $10

Des Moines, Ia., March 14.—[Special.]—Nine bills, including one boosting the minimum salary for teachers in Iowa public schools, were passed in the house of representatives here today. Five others were given senate approval as the legislature dug into the huge pile of unfinished work which must be accomplished before adjournment of the forty-sixth regular session.

By a vote of 94 to 8 the house passed the measure by C. E. R. Fuester [Dem., Ida] which increases the minimum salary for teachers from $40 monthly to $50.

By 101 to 0 the house also approved a bill introduced by L. C. Bowers [Rep., Unio] icreasig the penalty for possession of machine gus. Bowers' original bill provided for life imprisonment in cases where the person possessing the gun had previously been convicted of a felony. Amendments were added providing a fifteen year penalty in cases where the person had not been previously convicted of a felony and twenty-five years where he had been convicted.

FINDS TOO MUCH 'PUTTERING' AND PLAY IN SCHOOLS

Many high schools have become glorified play rooms with all sorts of courses which let the student putter and fritter away valuable years, Dr. B. F. Anderson, head of the North Shore Concentration school, Winnetka, told the Ohio Society of Chicago yesterday at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman.

Dr. Anderson expressed the opinion that children of today do not work hard enough in grade and high schools to develop powers of analysis and a sense of the value of responsibility. A system of education which leaves to the child the assimilation of education never works out in the long run, he said.

BOLIVIA WEARIES OF LEAGUE ATTEMPTS TO END CHACO WAR

GENEVA, March 14.—(AP)—Bolivia warned the league of nations today that she is "weary of hearing of attempts at conciliation" in her war with Paraguay which has gone on in the Chaco of South America for nearly five years.

Dr. A. Costa Ru Rels was replying for Bolivia to Jose Maria Cantilo, the aggressive representative, who had suggested that modifications might be made in the league's peace plan in an effort to get Paraguay to withdraw her resignation from the league—a resignation which Paraguay claimed was forced by the plan.

Costa Ru Rels said it would be scandalous for the league to change its program because Paraguay has withdrawn.

DECISION TODAY IN O'DONOVAN'S TRIAL AS QUACK

Assistant State's Attorney William Kearney expressed thanks to the newspapers for exposing quacks yesterday when he made his closing statement in the case against Capt. James P. O'Donovan, self-styled "professor of psychopathy," who is charged with practicing medicine without a license. Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland in the License court announced he would read his decision tomorrow noon.

Prosecutor Kearney stressed the fact that the principal contention of the defense was the claim that Capt. O'Donovan had been "entrapped" by an investigator for the state department of registration and education. This claim, Mr. Kearney declared, was too ridiculous for argument.

U. OF C. TO BUILD 8 TON MAGNET FOR COSMIC TEST

An electro-magnet, which will weigh eight tons is to be constructed by the University of Chicago for the use of Prof. Arthur H. Compton in his study of cosmic rays. It is expected the magnet will be ready when Dr. Compton returns this summer from Oxford university, England, where he is lecturing.

A space of six inches will be allowed between the poles of the magnet in order that instruments may be placed between them. The magnet's strength will be about 65,000 times that of the earth's magnetic field in the Chicago area.

Photographic observations of the paths of charged particles will be made between the magnetic poles. The magnetic field deflects the particles more if they are of small energy and less if they are of greater energy. Thus, scientists can measure the energy of the particles sent out by the cosmic rays, as well as the disintegration caused by the rays within the instrument's chamber. The magnet will be the old university power house at 58th street and Ingleside avenue.

1 IN 3 MARITAL KNOTS UNRAVEL THE FIRST YEAR

Alimony Costs Men 936 Millions Yearly.

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—With the warning that a 1935 marital knot in America has about one chance in three of slipping within a year, the Alimony Reform league today released a page of statistics almost as imposing as a report of New Deal activities.

The report, drawn by Jack Anthony, executive secretary of the league, states that 1,800,000 men in America have paid the alimony piper in the last ten years and that at present $936,000,000 is being paid annually by men who have made mistakes.

To that sum must be added another 2 billion dollars which is distributed yearly to attorneys, court clerks, and others engaged in the complicated task of straightening out marital difficulties.

Cupid May Win.

The report gives hope for the ultimate supremacy of cupid, however, with the disclosure that a marriage takes place every thirty seconds in the United States, while divorces lag at one in three minutes.

It seems that the first thirty years are the hardest, as only 3 per cent of all divorces occur after that period of marriage.

Regarding New York, Mr. Anthony reveals that jails in the five boroughs house an average of 125 alimony delinquents throughout the year, with the population constantly changing as more than 6,000 motions for punishment are filed by irate wives annually.

Average Alimony $15 Weekly.

The average divorced or separated husband pays his wife $15 weekly, but when he doesn't and has to go to jail it costs the taxpayers $4 a day to house and feed him, it is figured.

Last year there were 74,817 marriages in New York, with vital statistics leering in the offing to show that 10,619 of them will be on the rocks by January, 1936.

Although New York state has less climate, it seems to have a bit more amiability than California, according to Mr. Anthony, who says that ten times as many are divorced there yearly. In fact, New York's 1-7 record is much better than the 1-3 record of the country as a whole.

With a borrowed baby buggy for a covered wagon, three young pioneers started out Wednesday afternoon from their home at 4520 Harrison street to traverse the "old Oregon trail" in search of their fortunes. They were Gustav Wacker Jr., 11 years old, and his two sisters, Pauline, 10, and Elizabeth, 9. Their journey ended yesterday at the Forest Park police station after Policemen Frank Kerber and Harry Williams found them trudging down the village streets.

Gustav explained that they had spent Wednesday night in a warm stable with the ponies of a ride concession at 7239 Madison street, Forest Park. When they awoke hungry yesterday morning they made their breakfast on one of six loaves of bread which they took from in front of a grocery.

E. Huttner, 336 Elgin avenue, Forest Park, who unknowingly furnished the "covered wagon," declined to bring larceny charges against the children. Their father called at the station last night and took them home.

SOUTH BEND MAN NAMED MEMBER OF MILK BOARD

South Bend, Ind., March 14.—[Special.]—George C. Palmer, president of the Reliable dairy of South Bend, has been named a member of the milk control board set up by the state legislature. He and Guy L. Roberts of Indianapolis will represent the distributors. Producers will be represented by Newell Gitner of Jeffersonville and W. W. Ross of Rosedale.

Lieut. Gov. M. Clifford Townsend will be ex-officio chairman of the board which will have authority to regulate and control the milk industry in Indiana, designate "natural" marketing areas and in the event of price wars will be empowered to declare an emergency and set prices in an effort to stabilize the market. The board will have its first meeting Saturday in Indianapolis.

Public Warned Against Solicitor "Dr. Strauss"

He is not connected with either organization, Rabbi Goldman said.

Princess Will Lecture on Old Russia Tomorrow

Princess Alexandra Kropotkin is to lecture on "Old Russia" to the Union League club in the main dining room at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. The princess was in Russia at the time of the revolution and has written her experiences during that period. It is expected that an audience of about 1,000 will gather to hear her talk.

FREED IN SLAYING OF YOUTH AFTER BALLROOM FIGHT

The murder charge against John Miraglia, 18 years old, 2015 Emerson avenue, for the slaying of Stanley Frankowski, 23 years old, was nol prossed at the trial yesterday afternoon after twenty witnesses had testified that Frankowski was the aggressor in the shooting last Dec. 22. Miraglia was ordered freed by Judge John C. Lewe in the Criminal court.

Frankowski, a law student at the University of Michigan, who lived at 1936 Armitage avenue, was shot while pursuing Miraglia after a fight in the Roseland ballroom, 2049 Milwaukee avenue, the witnesses testified.

At the end of the morning session of the trial Defense Attorneys George Crane and James M. Burke permitted Assistant State's Attorney Morris Meyers to question defense witnesses during the noon recess. They were called in the afternoon as court's witnesses, and after hearing them Prosecutor Meyers told the court:

"It is the duty of the state's attorney to protect the innocent as well as prosecute the guilty, and in view of this evidence we do not feel we can proceed with this trial."

FIND ANNULMENT SUIT BRIDE STILL WED TO CONVICT

Through a surprise development, Robert J. Corbett, 21 years old, 1119 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, may yet win the annulment of his marriage to Miss Annette Murphy, 18 years old, 4916 Cermak road, Cicero, which Superior Judge Joseph B. David had previously denied him.

Corbett's plea was that he was intoxicated when the wedding was performed in St. Charles last Aug. 5.

Yesterday Attorney Austin J. Barlow informed the court that "Mrs. Corbett" is the wife of Frank Rio, alias Laino, now serving a prison term of one year to life for robbery. She married Rio on Dec. 13, 1933, according to Attorney Barlow. Suit for annulment of that marriage was filed Jan. 19, 1934, and is still pending, he said.

Judge David entered an order setting aside his earlier dismissal of Corbett's suit. He instructed Attorney Barlow to file an amended complaint and ordered that both Corbett and his "wife" be in court next Thursday.

S. S. MORRO CASTLE REACHES HARBOR—187 DAYS OVERDUE

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—The Morro Castle, a ghost ship with a skeleton crew, came into the harbor today—187 days overdue.

Two tugs brought her, a black, ugly hulk, gently into anchorage at Gravesend bay, where navy experts will determine whether she is worth salvaging. If not, the hulk will be towed to sea and scuttled.

The Morro Castle floated at 1:35 a. m., when high tide lifted her from the sandy bottom off Asbury Park for the first time since she beached herself last Sept. 8, a few hours after the outbreak of the disastrous fire which caused 134 deaths.

She had been dragged by tugs and anchors, inch by inch, from her perilous berth beside the Asbury Park convention hall to a position several hundred feet off shore. Two tugs were ready with lines aboard when the bulk floated, and pulled it clear.

A crew of forty was on the liner, which rode a fairly even keel as the tugs puffed slowly along the coast, one towing, the other guiding from behind. The Morro Castle has no rudder.

It moved slowly through Gravesend bay and finally reached anchorage off Fort Hamilton. It was reported that the bulk was leaking moderately, but it was equipped with pumps.

SEE HOLDUP MEN IN THEIR DREAMS, THEN IN PERSON!

Dreams came true yesterday for Mrs. May Porter, 6355 Dorchester avenue, manager of the John Marshall High school lunchroom, and Miss Florence Klein, one of two girl cashiers. Both dreamed recently that they were being held up, so it was with an added thrill that they saw three armed youths enter the lunchroom at 3250 Adams street, and demand money. The cashiers gave up $133.

Thirty pupils who were in the room at the time were not aware of the holdup. The bandits, two of whom wore wool jackets, entered through the kitchen and fled the same way.

RIVERS RECEDING; 10,000 REFUGEES IN FLOOD AREAS

5,000 Families Get Relief After Disaster.

Cairo, Ill., March 14.—[Special.]—Danger of a major flood in the Mississippi drainage basin was believed lessened today as high waters receded in some areas after inundating upwards of 100,000 acres of land and forcing more than 10,000 persons to flee their homes.

While general conditions were somewhat improved in the flood area as a whole, new threats appeared in Arkansas. A food shortage was a potential menace to 300 inhabitants at Success, in the northeast corner of that state, isolated by the Little Black and Current rivers.

A levee on the White river near Newport, Ark., crumbled, forcing 500 to flee as floods spread over thousands of acres of farm land. New breaks were expected soon to flood 20,000 acres more.

The first survey of the flood region, completed today by the Red Cross, estimated the number of refugees already in excess of 6,000 with about 7,000 others awaiting their fate when the crests of nearby rivers are reached. No attempt was made to ascertain the total of property destruction.

The Red Cross and Federal Emergency Relief administration were giving relief to more than 5,000 Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas families while hasty preparations were being made to extend aid to 2,000 additional families whese homes lie in the path of the expected widening overflow of the St. Francis river in southeast Missouri and northeast Arkansas.

Boats, patroling the inundated areas, continued to bring rescued families to points of safety. Many families were found patiently waiting in the upper stories of their homes for the recession of the waters or the arrival of rescuers.

No reports have been received of any deaths, but several persons have been reported missing. Fears were held for squatters in the bottomlands. Three men are missing in the southeast Missouri Mingo basin district which is now a solid sheet of water twenty-two miles long and five miles wide.

3,000 at Poplar Bluff.

Approximately 3,000 stricken individuals were being cared for at Poplar Bluff, Mo., in the center of one of the districts hardest hit. Kennett, Mo., already the haven of many refugees, had resigned itself to a break in the St. Francis levee there when the river reaches its high mark tomorrow.

However, the recession of waters in many areas permitted residents to return to their homes. Flood menaces diminished in western Pennsylvania and cold weather brought at least temporary relief to the Jackson, Miss., district.

United States army engineers, who had predicted a major flood in the Cairo area, were confident today that the "cut off" system, which takes nearly seventy miles of kinks from the lower Mississippi, can carry the tons of flood waters pouring into that great valley's drainage basin.

MARYLAND'S GENERAL FUNDS DWINDLE; ALL PAYMENTS SUSPENDED

Annapolis, Md., March 14.—(AP)—All payments from the general funds of the Maryland treasury, except those from dedicated trust funds, were suspended tonight by State Controler William S. Gordy Jr., because of a lack of the necessary working capital in the treasury.

Gordy announced the suspension of payments after the state senate had failed to concur with the house of delegates in striking out a $55,700 appropriation in the state budget. The two houses immediately named a conference committee to conciliate the difference.

"Due to the failure to pass the budget," Gordy said, "and the consequent delay in passing the $8,500,000 bond issue which would give relief to the treasury and provide the necessary working capital, beginning tomorrow all payments out of the treasury are stopped except such payments as are made out of dedicated trust funds."

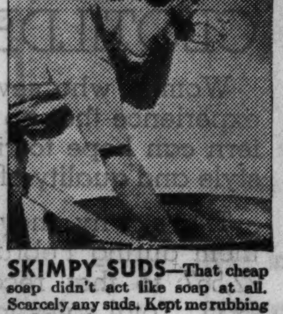
I PAID PLENTY FOR THE PENNIES I SAVED BY BUYING CHEAP SOAP

I'm not a "penny-pinching" person. I just didn't think what I was doing when I got that cheap soap. I was naturally attracted by a bargain, I guess—but believe me I paid plenty, and in dollars, for every penny I saved by buying cheap bargain soap. And I was bent over my wash-tub all day long, although you'd never think so by the looks of my clothes when I finally got them hung out. At last a neighbor asked me why in the world I didn't use American Family Soap—said it would save me work and save my clothes. Was I grateful! I started in the next day finding out what real soap economy is—with American Family!



SKIMPY SUDS—That cheap soap didn't act like soap at all. Scarcely any suds. Kept me rubbing all day long.

PREFERRED BY CHICAGO WOMEN FOR 90 YEARS

End all that thankless drudgery with cheap soap—say goodbye to stingy suds and harsh softeners! American Family Soap makes double-suds in this hard lake water—suds so pure and rich and busy that clothes come out whiter than you've ever seen them, with half the effort! No other soap can give such all-around economy in this hard lake water. That's why for ninety years Chicago women have bought more American Family Soap than all other brands combined!

NEW DEAL MEN IN HOUSE STRIKE AT "MAVERICKS"

Regulars Make Attack on New Radical Bloc.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—The regular New Dealers in the house of representatives today administered a verbal spanking to Democratic members who have joined the new radical bloc. The bloc was organized several days ago by Representative Paul Kvale [F.-L., Minn.], and was named "mavericks" after one of the leaders, Representative Maury Maverick [Dem., Tex.].

Calling the bloc members "false gods and camp followers," Representative Claude A. Fuller [Dem., Ark.] read a list of 35 who had attended the first meeting.

When his name was called Representative Harold Knutson [Rep., Minn.] protested that he had gone to the meeting because he received a notice, had no idea what it was for, and stayed at the gathering only two minutes after he found out.

Fish's "Campaign Manager."

"Knutson is the man who is campaign manager for Congressman Hamilton Fish for President in 1936," remarked Representative Michael L. Igoe [Dem., Ill.].

Representative R. T. Buckler [F. L., Minn.] rose to take exception to Fuller's praise of the regular Democrats.

"I used to be a Democrat," shouted Buckler, "but I left them because they were in cahoots with the big bankers and racketeers in Wall street and against the laboring man."

Fuller Makes Threat.

"I know how you got here," asserted Fuller, shaking his fist. "You got here on Roosevelt's coat tail and you will not come back if you do not go down the line with him."

Fuller charged that the "revolt" was the movement of "some little people" to get some notoriety, and start a third party. He said that no one ever heard of a hopeless minority ruling anything, any time, any where, and that went for congress, too.

After the hubbub had subsided the house resolved itself into a committee of the whole and began consideration of the agricultural appropriations bill for the next fiscal year.

570 Million for AAA.

For the Agricultural Adjustment administration the bill sets forth 570 millions to be expended. The funds will be supplied out of processing taxes under the AAA.

The total for the agricultural department, exclusive of the AAA was $126,565,000. The major items were as follows:

Ordinary activities, $53,157,000; payments to states, $14,743,000; forestry receipts, $3,024,000, and road funds, $55,641,000. The decrease in public road funds was nearly 62 millions contrasted with the appropriation for the last fiscal year.

The bill will be read for amendments tomorrow and the house is expected to vote favorably on the measure late in the afternoon.

James Maxton, Fiery Labor M. P., Weds His Secretary

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 14.—James Maxton, parliament's famous "fiery clydesider" married his secretary, Madeleine Glasier, at the dingy Battersea register office today. Both are 49 years old. The only persons present at the ceremony were Maxton's brother, J. P. Maxton, and a sister of the bride. The bride has worked for twelve years as Maxton's secretary. He is a Laborite.

Four Reformatory Inmates Escape, Commandeer Taxi

Boonville, Mo., March 14.—(AP)—Four armed inmates of the Missouri Training school escaped today from the reformatory hospital and forced a taxicab operator to drive them out of town. The four who escaped were Bernard Shoemaker, 18; Vernon Mitchell, 18; Ronald Wuebblint, 17, and David Walters, 25, transferred here recently from the state penitentiary.

31 Pounds Is a Lot of Fat

A Chicago Woman Lost It in 9 Weeks and Looks and Feels Years Younger.

Any Woman with a Mind of Her Own Can Do the Same—Weak Minded Women Stay Fat.

Mrs. Anna Glader of Chicago, Ill., says: "Nine weeks ago I weighed 230 lbs.—took size 52 dress. Since I've taken Kruschen I reduced to 199 and take size 44. I feel 100% better and so youthful everybody that sees me looks twice before knowing me."

Mrs. Glader made up her mind to lose the excess fat she was tired of lugging around—and she did it—she would not allow gossipers to tell her what to do. Kruschen helps build up glorious health and keeps stomach, liver and bowels in fine working order—your whole being will abound with physical fitness and youthful activity — sallow, blemished skin clears up—bright eyes reflect the Kruschen zest for living.

Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a cup of hot water first thing every morning (tastes fine when you add juice of half lemon). Be FAITHFUL to this "little daily health dose" and gradually burdensome fat disappears and slender healthfulness will be yours. Bear in mind in no way is Kruschen harmful—physicians prescribe it—they know its supreme goodness. A jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle —your money back if it fails.

Normal, Ill., Will Become Dry Territory April 4

Bloomington, Ill., March 14.—[Special.]—Local option in Normal, Ill., will become effective April 4. It is expected an ordinance will be prepared and adopted by the city council next Monday. The recent vote on prohibition was 1,730 for and 851 against. A vote to declare dry that part of Normal township outside the corporate limits will be taken April 2.

TWO HELD AS ROBBERS.

Donald Waters, alias John Mitchell, 22 years old, 1226 Altgeld street, and James Spatafora, 22 years old, 1327 Mohawk street, were held to the grand jury as robbers yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court.

DAUGHTER OF U. S. BANKER MARRIES A HOTEL CLERK

LONDON, March 14.—(AP)—Juliet Kaufman, daughter of Louis G. Kaufman, Marquette, Mich., and New York banker, was married March 2, to Jean Baptista Manio, erstwhile kitchen helper, waiter, and reception clerk at one of London's west end hotels, who could, if he would, assume the Italian title of count. The ceremony, which became known today, was performed at the Marylebone register office.

The American girl came to England two months ago to visit her sister, who is in school here. Manio was introduced to her by mutual friends. When Manio proposed marriage Juliet telephoned her parents in New York and, in her own words: "Their consent was easily obtained, I can assure you, for they have my happiness at heart, both of them."

The title of count has not been used in Manio's family since his grandfather's time and Jean Baptista has no intention of assuming it. That is because, he said, "I am keenly interested in the hotel trade." The bride said she had "no aspirations to be a countess," but "I don't want my husband to continue his associations with the hotel trade."

BLOCKING TRANSPORT PROGRESS.

Low cost transportation spells progress. Yet, as we have frequently pointed out, the railway tendency for years has been to harness progress for the preservation of high cost distribution. The theory is wrong and will not promote railway health because it is just as impossible to sell the public high cost transportation in maximum volume as to sell high priced shoes, pork, automobiles or real estate. While the outstanding effort to restrain low cost transport may be found in railway support of the highway and waterway regulatory bills now before committees in congress, other evidence of the same reactionary spirit within the railway industry itself is not difficult to locate. We may cite the organized resistance of the eastern roads to any effort to reduce the wartime passenger fare level of 3.6 cents per mile.

But we have still better evidence a little closer at hand. About a year ago the Soo Line, after a close study of its merchandise trafic, discovered that trucks were hauling all the profitable high class commodities, leaving it only the froth. The canned goods, beverages, automobiles, automatic refrigerators and radios sought highway transport, while the railways carried the empty boxes, Indian novelties and electric light bulbs. The line decided to scrap its complicated and classified system of rate construction as based on the vagaries of average value and ability to bear freight charges, which meant nothing to the truck, in favor of a standard predicated on the cost of operating trucks. Next they added pickup and delivery service and made public announcement of this "radical" program. It excited considerable comment.

What has become of this plan? In accordance with inter-railway regulatory agreements it was referred to a general freight agents' committee, who frowned on it but passed it along to the next authority, the trafic managers' committee. That body added its voice to the general dissent and it moved up to the vice presidents' committee, from there to the presidents, and finally, we suspect, to a committee of the chairmen of railway boards. The matter of disapproval reached a roaring crescendo until the original proponent of the plan appeared in the rôle of Railway Enemy No. 1.

This is coöperation in folly. The trucks and buses will make over railroad service for the benefit of public transportation. A start has already been made in the passenger field. The railroads need public approval. Hamstringing competition will not produce it. Progress in transportation will not be stopped, for if highway and waterway regulation should raise the cost of transport on these agencies public opinion would destroy it. Let the Soo Line have the courage of its convictions and proceed with its experiment. The truck and bus have their place in the picture, but in the end their operations must be governed by natural economic conditions, not synthetic rate inflation.

WISCONSIN CODES ARE OUT.

A decision by the Wisconsin Supreme court sets aside the state's entire structure of codes and holds the state recovery act unconstitutional. It is a logical decision and sets a valuable precedent. It is a deserved rebuke to indifferent or complacent legislators who, during a wave of political hysteria, meekly abandoned their constitutional duties and abdicated their powers.

The Wisconsin decision holds that the law is unconstitutional because the legislature improperly delegated its powers. "Therefore the whole act necessarily falls for the reason that, its essentially basic features being void, the whole act and all that follows under it necessarily are void," Chief Justice Marvin B. Rosenberry wrote in a clear cut decision.

The Wisconsin statute follows the national recovery act in general form except that in a burst of abandon the legislators left to unascertained groups in industries the power to frame and adopt codes which become laws with penal sanction.

"It is difficult to conceive a more complete abdication of legislative power," Mr. Justice Rosenberry's opinion continues. The abdication seems no greater in Wisconsin than in the national congress which abandoned its job to the President and his Johnsons and Richbergs instead of to the industries as in the state law.

Although there is a difference in the object of the delegation of authority in the national and state acts, it is hard to see how the highest court can reason other than along the lines of the Wisconsin tribunal.

PROTECTING HEEDLESS DRIVERS.

When all other subjects fail, the pessimist need only turn to the heedlessness of his fellow men to restore his conviction that humanity is going to the dogs. In reply to him it may be argued that the complex experiences of such major insanities as war, speculative booms, and so-called planned economy are too intricate to serve as future warnings to the common mind.

But when the pessimist points out that after two decades of general experience with the automobile Americans still have to be warned against such simple dangers as passing other cars on curves or hills, his argument is harder to meet. The Chicago Safety council has found it necessary to issue a warning against these practices. That a considerable number of motorists still need such education is demonstrated by a number of fatal accidents caused by violations of these common sense rules.

Apparently our boasted machine mindedness stops somewhere in the vicinity of the gear shift and the accelerator with a considerable number of motorists. There are demonstrable limits to the extent to which education can reduce accidents. Devices which make accidents physically impossible, of which the properly designed elevated highway is the most important, are of greater value than education alone. They take into account the heedlessness of the human race and protect its members against their own failing.

THE BEST IS NOT TOO GOOD.

Haven't we heard too much of late about the obsolescence of the theater and likewise about the hard fate which compels its direction to aim low to hit the target of success? Sunday night the second visit this season of the Russian ballet company ended with an enthusiastic audience that packed the huge Auditorium from orchestra rail to ceiling. At the Erlanger the D'Oyly Carte company is riding high the wave of success. The Irish players were induced to extend their stay because the public wanted more of the same. It isn't straining our point, we think, to recall the reception given the experiment in concentrated Shakespeare at Merrie England—not a large and costly enterprise, but its success within its limits was genuine and significant.

In our inexpert judgment the fortunes of these enterprises do not seem to indicate that the theater has been destroyed by the cinema or is obsolescent for that or any other reason, or that there is not a public which will support substantially the very best a producer can offer. No one would ask for anything better than the Gilbert and Sullivan performances. Why are they packing the Erlanger? The Irish players had no appeal for the vulgar mob. The audiences at the ballet performances were of a size and quality any ambitious producer could rely upon for intelligent support. In short, we dare to think that theatrical pessimism is exaggerated and that the alleged lack of public appreciation of the best is an overworked alibi.

ANOTHER SPEED RECORD.

The youth who has just completed a four years' university course in 20 months has given an example of well directed and concentrated intellectual effort which may not arouse much enthusiasm in the student body but deserves some respectful attention in that quarter. No doubt he has special abilities not widely bestowed, as for example the faculty of reading rapidly, which with a retentive memory enabled him to cover and retain a good deal more ground in a given time than the average. There have been and are individuals especially gifted in this way. Theodore Roosevelt, it is said, could get the gist of a page at one rapid glance and when we read of the erudition of great scholars we suspect them of having this faculty. But making allowance for this advantage, if the young man has it, we prefer to ascribe his accomplishment in the main to merits which any one may cultivate. He does not seem to be a dry-as-dust, but has a healthy range of interests belonging to normal youth and took part in many college activities. What he did not do was wool-gather and waste time. Most of us do a lot of that when the spur of necessity is not in our flanks. Emerson in one of his wisest moments said that every man is as lazy as he dares to be. We suspect a good many young men and women could get through their college course in much shorter time if they would make the effort of concentration in study, and would still have leisure for the pleasant activities of college life.

That the young man worked himself to the brink of a nervous breakdown offers a warning not much needed, perhaps, by the run of collegians, though it is worth his attention and that of all other earnest and ambitious students. Another warning suggested by his accomplishment is not so obvious, though it ought to be. No doubt his instructors have often reminded him that learning is not wisdom, that reading without reflection is sterile.

Editorial of the Day

[Akron Beacon Journal.]

Charges by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana that "food processors grew rich during the depression, purchasing yachts and expensive motor cars while farmers lost their farms and consumers had to pay a higher cost of living," have inspirited the senate to action. It has voted to give the federal trade commission $150,000 for an investigation of the costs of producing and distributing foods to consumers.

While this inquiry is under way it ought to bring the AAA as well as processors and middlemen under scrutiny. That federal agency has added at least a billion to living costs with its highly intricate device of making one class of the citizenship pay for the prosperity of another.

IT DOESN'T PAY.

The captain of a steamer took on two hands—one a Kirkcaldy man without a written character, and the other from Dundee possessed of abundant documentary evidence as to his honesty. They had not been long at sea when they encountered rough weather, and the Dundee man, when crossing the deck with a bucket in his hand, was swept overboard.

The Kirkcaldy man saw what had happened and sought out the captain. "Dae ye mind yon mon from Dundee," he said, "that ye engaged wi' the fine character?"

"Yes," said the captain. "What of it?"

—Exchange.

WHY THEY LEAVE AGAIN.

The prodigal son had returned. "Father," he inquired, "are you going to kill the fatted calf?"

"No," answered the old man, looking the youth over carefully. "No, I'll let you live. But I'll put you to work and train a lot of that fat off."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THOSE SCIENTISTS have really done something worth while this time. They've invented a robot over at Miami university that not only learns things, but has the remarkable ability of forgetting. That robot ought to be happy. One of the greatest troubles we humans have is that we so often remember things we ought to forget. If we could just forget things, forget they ever existed, forget they ever happened, how blithely and merrily we could pick up a book or turn on the radio and settle down with a cigaret and a cocktail. But the book has a paragraph or a line that suddenly brings back a poignant memory. The radio sobs out an old song that brings back one night, the moon and the sound of the waves breaking on the beach and—other things. That robot over at Miami that can forget is in great luck. "This is truth the poet sings, That a sorrow's crown of sorrows is remembering happier things."

PAX.

(Second Friday in Lent.)

Master, receive me in Thy way,
For I am spent who followed mine;
Seal me from every alien sway,
Close to me every door but Thine.

And if Thou wilt, I journey on,
And if Thou wilt not, bid me wait;
It is enough for me to know
Whose hand it is that bars the gate.

It is enough that Thou art here;
No other joy is joy to them
Who wake from sleep and find Thee near,
Whose lips have touched Thy garment's hem.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

"THEY OUGHT to send that there Strakky," said the stout lady on the bus yesterday to her friend, "back to Russia where he come from." "But I don't think he came from Russia," observed the friend timidly. "It don't make a bit of difference," declared the stout lady, "where he come from. Send him back there, anyhow."

"MR. STRACHEY came to us," said one of the committee at the now famous lecture, "highly recommended by a speakers' bureau. We did not know he was a Communist." Lecture associations seem to order their lecturers from speakers' bureaus just as they order a set of dishes from the department store, a box of prunes and a dozen eggs from the grocers, and a good roast of beef from the butcher shop. All they ask is for a good lecturer and if what they get is damaged in any way or isn't full weight or looks shopworn they ought to have the right to take him back where they got him and exchange him for something else.

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day,
And all is still and quiet around Havana Bay,
Oh yes, it is—lykell, lykell, lykell.

H. G. WELLS is over here, too, on a lecturing tour. But shucks, the time's past when we used to pay good money to go and hear an English lecturer just because he was an English lecturer. Now they've got to be chased around by the immigration authorities and arrested a few times before we'll give up good money at the box office. We like a little action for our coin. Whatever happens we insist on its being a good show. Then we'll hop to it.

"STRACHEY OUT, Back In Today."—W. G. N. Which is a headline fully as good as the old story about the section foreman, Finnegan, who had been reproved many times for sending such long telegrams about a freight train that jumped off the rails every now and then in Mr. Finnegan's section. So after another stinging rebuke from the superintendent and the train had jumped the rails and landed in the ditch again, the section foreman sent this telegram: "Off agin, on agin, gone agin, Finnegan."

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

"Home is the sailor, home from the sea,
And the hunter home from the hill."

Nor bronze entabletures, nor praises sung
By shallow men, and shallowly forgot,
Nor great memorials in high halls hung.
But in the fond, warm hearts of living men
Here and in many lands who hold most dear
The name of gentleness, you will not die—
No, not today, nor not in any year.
We who lament and do not understand
Wherefore we weep, we only cry because
From our familiar world a voice is gone;
Because we grasped not what its message was.
It is a valiant tribe, immortal, shrines
Your memory and bids you now farewell.
It is a splendid race you go to greet,
Who wait to hear what tales you have to tell.

But walk a little while across our land
With understanding eyes and kindly hearts,
To play a rôle in some vast pageant planned
Beyond thought's slender reach. Your gift to us
Is courage when the spirit lags, and strength
To blindly fumble through a heedless world;
To feel the lash and smile, and find at length
Our chapter done, and bravely writ, and well.
You give us sight to see the stubborn way,
To hold the uphill road against all odds,

JOHN DILLON HUSBAND.

AND ANYHOW we ought to feel extremely grateful to Mr. Strachey for crowding Long, Coughlin, and Johnson right off the front page for two whole days. And he just gave the senate and the New Deal a swift kick in the pants and put the two of 'em over on the nineteenth page next to pure reading matter.

THE BLEEDING GASTRIC ULCER.

HEMORRHAGE from an ulcer in the stomach or in the duodenum (the first portion of the intestine that is joined directly to the outlet of the stomach) may be so slight as to cause but minor symptoms. On the other hand, an ulcer may bring about a craterlike excavation in the lining of the stomach or the duodenum, finally resulting in the destruction of a small artery. This may be followed by a rather serious hemorrhage either into the stomach or the intestine. In fact, the hemorrhage may be so severe as to cause a grave emergency demanding prompt relief. Usually the ulcer patient has known of his condition for some months or years, and probably the stomach symptoms have been treated.

Fortunately, bleeding from ulcers in the stomach area is generally slight, and there is ample warning in the gradual loss of strength and evidences of anemia. Occasionally blood may be vomited and the patient may faint or actually go into collapse. This situation, when it occurs, is sufficiently alarming to justify prompt action. On the other hand, surgery may not be indicated unless the hemorrhage continues, which is not the rule. Sometimes the patient may have a fairly severe hemorrhage without vomiting. There may be only a feeling of faintness and the hemorrhage may cease spontaneously, particularly if the patient lies down.

When a hemorrhage occurs that is severe enough to cause fainting or collapse the first rule is to put the patient to bed. He should be handled as gently as possible. In order to prevent movements of the stomach and intestine the physician will usually give a sizable dose of some narcotic. If the loss of blood has been considerable the transfusion of small amounts of blood, perhaps at two or three hour intervals, is far wiser than the administration of a single large amount. Anything that tends to raise blood pressure may increase hemorrhage.

Careful records show that bleeding occurs much more frequently from duodenal ulcers than from ulcers in the stomach, and that perforation (rupture of the ulcer through the wall of the stomach or the duodenum) also occurs more often in the duodenum.

If a gastric or duodenal ulcer has bled so that marked anemia has developed, but without danger to life, medical treatment should first be tried. A considerable number of patients will recover completely, and many such lesions will heal under starvation followed by frequent small feedings and the use of appropriate remedies. If, in spite of medical management, bleeding is a recurring factor, surgery may be needed.

It has been pointed out that even the surgical removal of a bleeding ulcer, or of an ulcer area which may become the site of hemorrhage, may not "cure" the condition. The factors that caused the original ulcer may still be present, and while it may be necessary to proceed vigorously in arresting gastric hemorrhage, a long distance view of the situation must be taken and an effort made to correct the condition leading to ulcer formation.

How much excess acid in the stomach has to do with the development of ulcers is not quite clear, but it is known that ulcers occur more frequently in the presence of excess activity of the acid secreting cells. Ulcers in this portion of the digestive tract yield kindly to a careful diet and good medical management, and only a few will proceed to the bleeding stage.

VARICOCELE.

C. I. writes: I am 33 years old and have had a varicocele for some time. I feel all right when I wear a suspensory, but when I take it off there is discomfort. Would you advise an operation?

REPLY.

If a suspensory gives you comfort, why not continue wearing it? However, at your age an operation would give permanent relief. It should be done by an expert surgeon.

INCORPORATION.

Chicago, March 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like information as to registration of the name of a business. 1. Will the registration of a name cover the entire state? 2. If I use a certain name not now used by any other firm or person, could I be enjoined if the name was previously registered by another? 3. Would I need an attorney? 4. What is the cost of registering a name? 5. Where can I find a list of the registered namer of the cleaning and dyeing firms located in Chicago and vicinity?

C. F.

1. Incorporation under a given name will prevent another corporation from using that name. There also is a state and federal trademark law. What is appropriate for your facts would depends on facts not before us.

2. If the other person is not using the name we do not see how he would be injured.

3. For what?

4. Depends on the nature of the registration.

5. We suggest that you write to the secretary of state, telling him whether you wish to incorporate or register as a trademark. We suggest that you also read the chapter entitled "Trademarks" in the Revised Statutes in order to determine whether your business is of such a nature as to come within the wording.

FLYING STORIES

COB PIPE HAZARDS.

Silly little things are apt to crack you up sometimes.

I did an outside loop at Akron once. I came up over the top of the loop and started right down into another. I didn't want to do another, so I pulled back on the stick to stop it. It wouldn't come all the way back. It was jammed some way.

The ship was nosing steeper and steeper into the dive. I rolled the stabilizer and that enabled me to pull the nose up. I couldn't keep it up if I cut the gun more than half way. I knew I would have a tough time landing like that. Besides, although I had a chute, I knew that when I got down low to make a landing the stick might jam even further forward and nose me in before I had a chance to jump. Or the engine might quit down low and do the same thing. It wasn't my ship, however, and I didn't want to jump and throw it away if I didn't absolutely have to.

I tried the stick a few more times. Each time I yanked it back hard it came up against the same obstacle at the same point. I decided to take a chance that it would stay jammed where it was.

I came in low way back of the field with almost all of the back travel of the stick taken up, holding the nose up with the gun. I had to land with the tail up high, going fast. I bounced wildly, used all the field, but made it all right.

I made an immediate inspection to find out what had jammed the stick. I couldn't imagine what it was because I had taken all the loose gadgets out of the ship before I had gone up.

I found a corncob pipe that the ship's owner had been looking for for weeks. He had left it in the baggage compartment and had never been able to find it. It had slipped through a small opening at the top of the rear wall of the compartment and had evidently been floating around in the tail of the fuselage all that time.

When I did the outside loop it had been flung upward by centrifugal force and wedged into the wedge ending of the upper longerons at the end of the fuselage. The flipper horn was hitting it every time I pulled the stick back, preventing me from getting the full backward movement.

Only the bowl of the pipe was left. It was lodged sidewise. Had it lodged endwise it would have jammed the stick even further forward and I would have had to jump or dive in with the ship. I would have had to jump quick, too, because I didn't have much altitude when I started that second involuntary outside loop.

THE SQUEEZE IS ON.

Chicago, March 11.—I'm just a housewife trying my best to feed my husband two square meals a day from the generous allowance he gives me from his very modest salary.

I consider myself a good manager, but now I've got to admit I'm stopped. The so-called "economical cuts of meat" are far too expensive for my budget. One day last week I asked for a two pound soup bone at the butcher shop. That cost me 33 cents. The worst part of it was that I could have left the bone out of the soup and the soup would have tasted the same. The butcher must have polished every grain of meat and fat off the bone before he sold it to me. [If I were the butcher I would do the same thing under present circumstances.]

I would like to see a diet published by the officials in Washington that would be adequate in vitamins, calories and minerals for three people. My husband makes $22.50 per heek. We have no car, but we must pay rent, gas, light, milk and transportation expenses [for husband].

The present high food prices are beginning to irritate the housewives. O, yes, I forgot to mention before, we were informed by our landlord that our rent would be raised $2.50 on May 1.

MRS. D. R. SMITH.

PREACHER POLITICIANS.

Chicago, March 7.—The writer of the editorial, "Preacher Politicians," seems to me not to be a true Christian.

A true Christian does not only practice Christianity while in church, but also in his daily life—and does that not include voting, as well as eating, sleeping, and especially association with your fellow man?

The "preacher politician" as you call him is not "bringing political, economic, and social problems within the doors of the church," but is trying to bring Christianity into politics, which is certainly necessary if we want clean politics.

And why assume that all "preacher politicians" are socialists, communists, etc?

DISFRANCHISING THE JOB HOLDER.

Portland, Ore., March 4.—Why should those on the public pay roll be permitted to vote for their own interests, for their own jobs? It is fundamentally wrong and so recognized by some branches of our own government, and the principle coincides with the ethics of all parliamentary practice. When the District of Columbia was formed the right of franchise was permanently withheld from the residents of that district, it being the thought of the wise statesmen of those times that practically all residents of the District of Columbia would be employés of the federal government, and also that all of the federal employés would be residents of the District of Columbia.

It must appear to thinking people that the power to vote the creation of jobs, the maintenance of powerful press bureau and lobbies and political propaganda at public expense, the appropriation of huge sums for relief, the carrying on of municipal, county, state and federal works of all kinds, however worthy they may seem to be, is fast disappearing from the hands of those who have built up the wealth of this great country and who support the institutions of our land by the payment of taxes, and passing to the control of those who are personally benefited by such legislation.

An employé or beneficiary of a municipality should not be permitted to vote on any measure effecting the city employing him, although he should not lose his franchise with respect to county, state, or federal questions. Likewise an employé, or beneficiary of the federal government should be permitted all the rights of a citizen of the city, county and state in which he lives, but should not be permitted to vote on any federal measures.

A bill of this kind would no doubt bring forth a storm of protest from the politicians and office holders and those who feed at the public trough. But unless some such measures are taken, the policy of taking from those who have and giving to those who have not bids fair to become a stern reality in this fair land of equal opportunity.

G. B. KILE.

COOLIDGE'S PROPHECY.

Chicago, March 8.—In a speech of Calvin Coolidge's when campaigning for Herbert Hoover he said: "Many people are planning to vote for 'a change.' May I suggest that it would be wise to be a trifle circumspect and determine whether or not a change would mean an improvement?"

Was he prophetic or was he prophetic! Father Coughlin says Roosevelt is out-Hoovering Hoover.

LAWRENCE BENEDICT.

PREACHERS IN POLITICS.

Waverly, Ia., March 8.—I am writing in reference to your editorial on preacher-politicians.

Permit me to commend you upon this splendid editorial.

You were correct in your declaration that you did not believe it was the conviction of the majority of preachers that they should engage in socialist or communist activity. The few who endeavor and who do crash the headlines are the usual hybrid type who go in for that sort of thing. The majority of us who care nothing for public recognition pay no attention to such activity, but rather condemn it in severest terms.

That the action taken by the Belden Avenue Baptist church of Chicago will be repeated in many instances in the future is my candid conviction. It is time that those of us who do believe in both vital Christianity and true Americanism sever our connections with the organized denominational machinery that plays into the hands of pacifists, socialists, communists, or any other subversive un-Christian and un-American activities.

WE'LL PRINT 'EM.

Berlin, Wis., March 8.—I hope you may print the names of the representatives as they voted on the "holding company utility bill," and also on the "relief appropriations" bill. I am very much concerned about the utility bill as most of my small capital is invested in utlities and most of them holding companies. Regulation is all right and proper, but to put them out of business in five years is ruining thousands and thousands of investors, to please F. D. R. and give him control of all utilities. MRS. E. M.

LAKESIDE WALK.

Chicago, March 7.—May I suggest that the city build a wide sidewalk, extending along the lake shore from Grant to Jackson park, with plenty of seats and comfort stations to be used by those wishing to walk to and from the loop, as well as those wishing to stroll along the lake?

MARK WHITE, M. D.

LIKES AND DISLIKES.

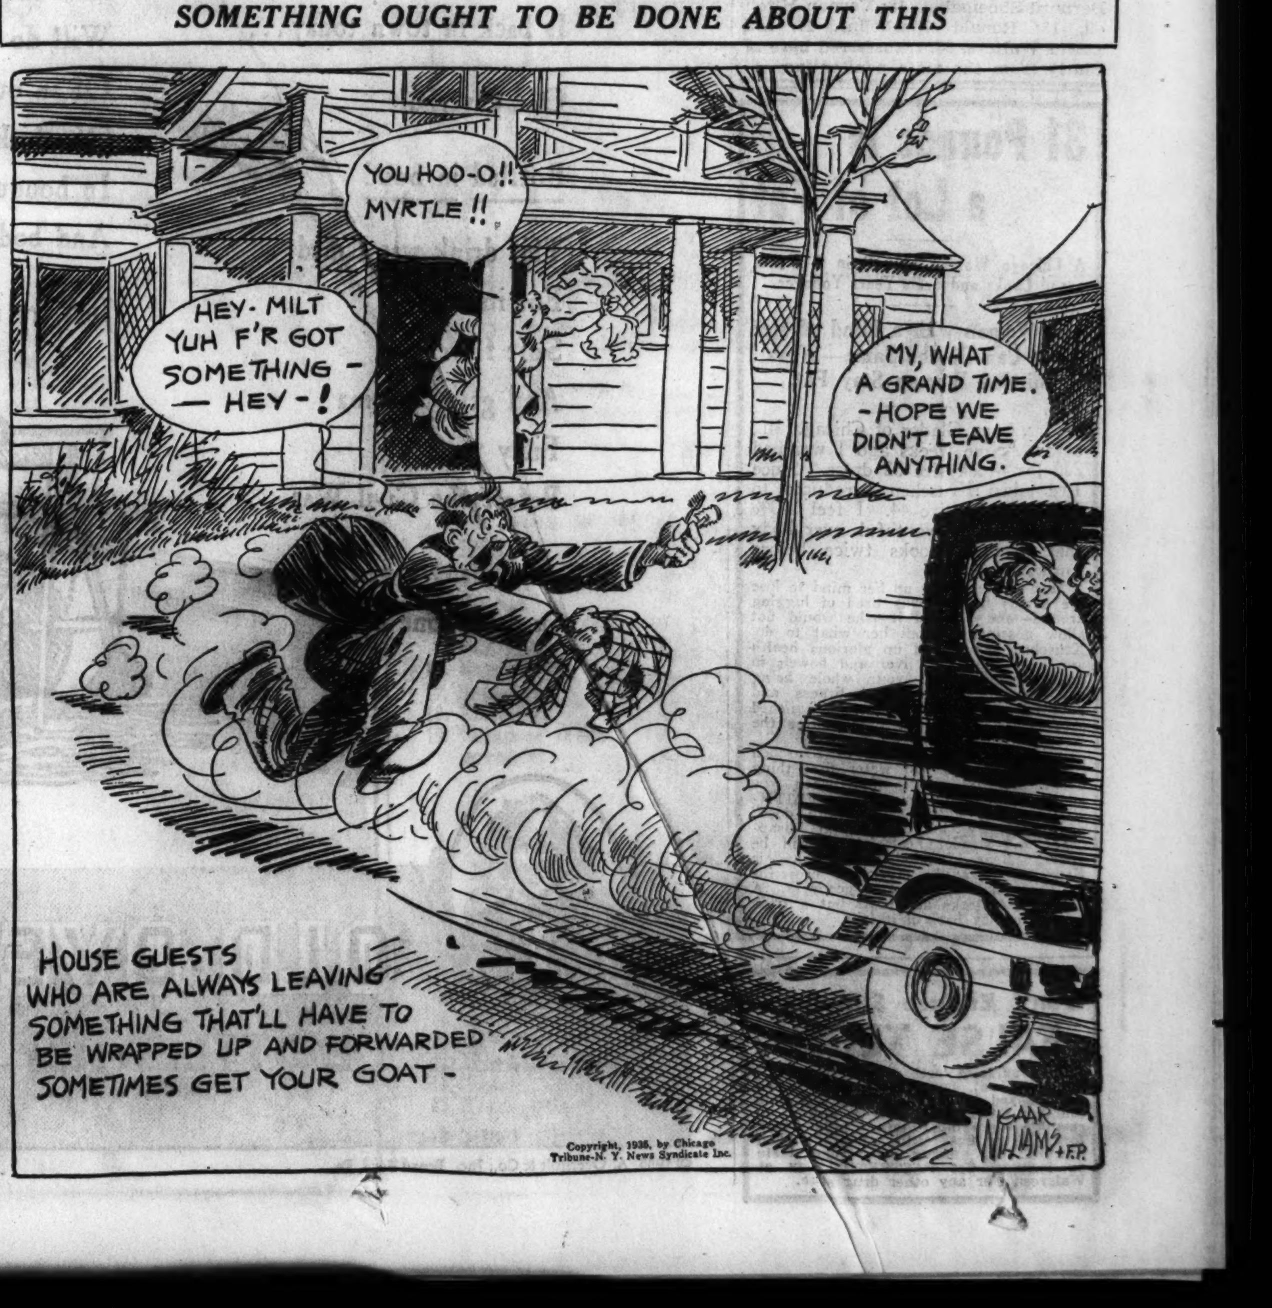
SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS



URGES ARMY PAY FOR LEADERS OF WAR INDUSTRIES

Vet Chief Scores Grace at Arms Quiz.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—The demand that industrialists be forced to work in wartime for army pay was coupled today by veterans' spokesmen before the senate munitions committee with a verbal castigation of Eugene G. Grace of Bethlehem Steel.

Grace in a recent appearance before the committee said he thought the bonus demands of veterans' organizations were "unfortunate" and ex-service men today said they thought his remarks were doubly so.

G. K. Brobeck, legislative representative of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, gave his idea to the committee on how to force capitalists to work under a universal draft in wartime.

"What would you do if capital struck," asked Senator James P. Pope [Dem., Idaho].

Centers Upon Grace Offer.

Slim, nattily dressed, James E. Van Zandt, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, centered especially upon Grace.

James A. Drain, former commander of the American Legion, who fought overseas in the 1st division, joined him heartily, and supported also the proposal for a universal draft of capital and man power.

"Monumental gall," was the term applied by the curly-haired Van Zandt to the steelmaker's bonus expression.

"Quite unabashed, Mr. Grace told this committee he received bonuses approximating $8,000,000 from his corporation during the world war, and then defiantly sought to justify that huge handout, in addition to a princely salary," Van Zandt said.

Reading a statement quietly from his seat, Drain told the committee "the American Legion is for peace and against war—earnestly against any war which can be honorably avoided."

Reiterating the Legion's demand for a universal wartime draft, he said: "On no conception of justice does the exercise of the right to restrict the liberty, jeopardize the health, lessen the comfort, or take the life of a citizen justify leaving untouched any other resource.

"Take Everything Needed."

"Rather one would say that the nation ought to take everything else needed for help during a war in preference to making requisition upon the lives of its men."

"If there were enough in the senate of my mind," Senator Homer T. Bone [Dem., Wash.] declared, advocating nationalization of the munitions industry, "we would have such a law on the books as fast as a bill could be drafted."

"Is there anything wrong with a plan to conscript industrialists for service at their posts for the benefit of the government," asked Chairman Gerald Nye [Rep., N. D.], "instead of having them continue to work for the benefit of their stockholders?"

"We are in accord with that," Van Zandt heartily affirmed.

Time after time Van Zandt returned to thrust anew at Grace and his bonus statement. In time of war, he said, the big steelmaker should be made a general and have his pay cut to the level of "a general in the armed forces."

"Anything over that," he asserted, "would be confiscated by the government through taxation."

Approves Edith McCormick Estate Reorganization Plan

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday granted permission to executors of the estate of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick to join in a plan for the reorganization under 77B in federal court of the 3300 Sheridan Road corporation, one of the properties in the estate. The plan calls for the exchange of $409,000 in gold bonds secured by a first mortgage trust on the property for other securities to be issued by the new corporation.

Mellon's income tax hearing today to the effect that the Bethlehem Steel corporation, in negotiating for $21,000,000 of the assets of McClintic-Marshall corporation in 1930, ascertained there would be no public offering of bonds it gave to complete the transaction.

A. J. Slater, former assistant to the secretary of McClintic-Marshall, testified under cross-examination that he and other attorneys checked details of the company's "reorganization plan" and that it was agreed the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh, as trustee, would pay cash for the bonds and that they would not be put on the market.

Mellon owned 30 per cent of the McClintic-Marshall stock and the government charges the transaction netted Mellon a $6,500,000 profit for which he owes the government approximately $1,000,000 on his 1931 income tax return.

Altogether, the bureau of internal revenue claims taxes of $3,089,000 are due from Mellon, while he is asking the tax appeals board hearing testimony in the case to sustain his petition for a $139,000 refund.

Bitten When She Defends Terrier from Police Dog

Mrs. Ruth E. Heed, wife of Thomas E. Heed, chairman of the board of the Edward Hines Lumber company, was bitten on the hand yesterday when she sought to drive off a police dog that attacked her Sealyham terrier which she had taken out for a walk near her home at 1242 Lake Shore drive.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Mrs. Margaret Morgan, 6721 South Maplewood avenue, former president of the Parent-Teachers association at the Harper High school, says an item printed March 7 was in error when it said she wrote a letter to the police which resulted in the arrest of her son and ten other youths as automobile thieves. Gus Bartels, in charge of the automobile section of the state's attorney's office, who gave the information on which the item was based, said he understood that such a letter was written, but he could not produce it.

LEAGUE MEETS TODAY TO FIGHT HIGHER GAS TAX

The Automobile Tax Reduction league will meet today in the Palmer house to discuss the proposed increase of one cent in the state gasoline tax. The organization not only is opposed to the increase, but seeks a reduction of one cent and a cut in the state motor license fee to $3.

Japan American Society Honors Charles G. Dawes

Charles G. Dawes was elected honorary chairman of the Japan American society at its meeting in the Lake Shore Athletic club yesterday. Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador, was named honorary president, and Kenji Nakauchi, Japanese consul in Chicago, was elected honorary vice president. Other officers elected are Charles H. Chandler, president; Dr. John H. Wigmore, Prof. William McGovern, and Dr. Allen D. Albert, vice presidents; T. Otsuska, treasurer, and Mrs. E. W. Everett, secretary.

ATTORNEY GETS 5 DAY SENTENCE FOR CONTEMPT

Attorney Ira Silvar, 188 West Randolph street, was sentenced to five days in the county jail for contempt of court yesterday by Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green. The charge grew out of the lawyer's efforts in behalf of four alleged communists fined by Judge Green.

Silvar's clients are George Nicklooff, James Ballanoff, John Nicola and Joseph Bukilich. They were arrested last Friday at 89th street and the Strand and charged with distributing communistic literature. Next day Judge Green fined the men, and yesterday he denied motions to vacate the fines.

After the courtroom was cleared, Attorney Silvar, who had argued the motions, continued to remonstrate with Judge Green, following him as he stepped down from the bench. The judge returned to the bench and imposed the jail sentence.

Drunken Alien on Relief Fined for Beating Girl

John Ozinek, 39 years old, 4815 Loomis street, was fined $200 yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in the Stockyards court when his 16 year old daughter testified that he beat her when he became intoxicated on liquor purchased with money given the family for relief. Ozinek is an alien.

UNLICENSED LIQUOR SELLER FINED.

For selling liquor without a license in his lunch wagon at Morgan street and Carroll avenue, Mike Mimmie was fined $300 by Municipal Judge Eugene Holland yesterday.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HOSPITAL.

John Rhodes, 43 years old, 4300 Drexel avenue, died at the People's hospital yesterday, apparently of heart disease, after he had applied there for treatment the night before.

MAKE BALLISTICS TESTS OF MALOY MURDER BULLETS

Try to Link Stolen Police Gun in Slaying.

Ballistics experts of the coroner's office yesterday began tests to determine if machine gun slugs found imbedded in the car in which Thomas E. Maloy, head of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' union, was slain Feb. 4, were fired from a submachine gun that disappeared mysteriously from the state highway police barracks at 123d street and Cicero avenue.

Announcement of the tests was the first intimation that a machine gun had been used in the slaying of Maloy, who was killed while driving northward in his automobile on the outer drive near 24th street. Slugs from a shot gun actually caused Maloy's death, but Sergts. Frank Reynolds and Frank Donoghue recovered from the upholstery and frame of the automobile several slugs fired from a submachine gun.

Ask Tests Made of Slugs.

At the request of Chief Deputy Coroner Victor L. Schlaeger, Sergt. Theodore Svoboda yesterday turned over to Joseph C. Wilmovsky Jr., ballistics experts, a number of slugs which had been fired from the missing weapon and recovered from a target pit.

The ballistics tests were ordered when the coroner's office learned of the disappearance of a Thompson submachine gun from the police barracks "some time between Jan. 30 and Feb. 2." Sergt. Svoboda said that the theft of the weapon had been reported to the Chicago detective bureau, but it was not until Wednesday that its possible connection with the Maloy murder was seen.

Theft of Gun a Mystery.

State highway police refused to disclose how the gun was stolen from the barracks, but it was learned that three men on duty at the time of the disappearance were suspended and later reinstated. A state official, investigating the disappearance of the gun, found all three men asleep one night when they were supposed to be on duty. Whether ammunition and other weapons were stolen was not reported.

A second machine gun in the possession of the highway police at the time of the theft has since been reclaimed by its owners, the Illinois Bankers' association.

FLAMES SWEEP CHAIR FACTORY; DAMAGE HEAVY

Damage estimated at several thousand dollars was caused late yesterday by a fire which attacked a three story factory at 1201-11 Cortland street, occupied by the Lorenz Chair company and the Fixture Hardware company.

The flames started on the third floor in the quarters of the chair company and spread rapidly. Fearing that they might attack other factories in the vicinity firemen at the scene quickly turned in a 4-11 alarm. The fire was brought under control in less than an hour, however.

POLICEMAN'S ASSAILANTS FINED.

Alvar Olson, 31 years old, 6933 South Ashland avenue, and his brother, Florston, 30, of 6750 South May street, were fined $10 each by Judge Thomas A. Green yesterday. Policeman Harold J. Murphy testified they assaulted him March 9 after their automobile collided with his at 80th street and Racine avenue.

"MY LIFE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

From his disappointment at the fall of the Loyd George government and the subsequent rise of the Socialists to power, Churchill so far recovered as to wage a fight for a seat in parliament. In three succesive political campaigns he tasted defeat. But at last he returned to parliament from the Epping division.

BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

The resurrection of the free trade controversy revived Liberal feeling to a high pitch. I was placed in a most embarrassing position. On the one hand I wished to continue to work with the Tories; on the other I was bound to defend free trade.

Eight or ten Liberal seats were offered to me by ardent deputations. I chose Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's old seat in West Leicester. It was one of the strongest labor constituencies in the country, and meant a very hard fight. But I hoped that the Tories would support me against a Socialist, and anyhow that I should not be brought into direct collision with them. I underrated the narrow, short-sighted malice of partisanship. The Tory caucus brought out a candidate who split the anti-Socialist vote, and Mr. Pethwick Lawrence defeated me by a substantial majority. I do not record this in any spirit of complaint or reproach, but only to show the consistency and logic of the course I took.

Criticized Asquith.

These and similar follies of Tory partisanship and purloined improvidence brought the Socialists into office at least twenty years before their party was capable of sustaining the weight of national and imperial administration. It takes a great party to govern Great Britain, and the half-fledged organism of Labour-Socialism soon broke down under the pressure of events.

During the summer of 1923, there was great dissatisfaction and anxiety throughout the country at our being governed by a minority Socialist administration. I had strongly criticised Mr. Asquith's unwise decision to put the Socialists in office, rather than form a national government himself. I was therefore regarded as a prominent leader against Socialism.

A bye-election occurred in the Abbey division of Westminster. I decided to stand as a Liberal who wished to join with the Conservatives in arresting the march of Socialism.

Three Parties Offer Candidates.

This seemed at first a very forlorn hope. I had no organization and no idea of how to form one. All the three great parties, Conservatives, Liberals, and Labor, brought forward their official candidates and backed them with their whole resources. The polling day was fixed for the earliest possible date, and less than a fortnight was available for the fight.

However, I immediately felt the exhilarating sensation of being supported by a real and spontaneous movement of public opinion. From all sides men of standing and importance came to join me. With scarcely a single exception the whole London press gave its support.

The Conservative association, torn between conflicting views, split in twain. This fissure rapidly extended through the whole Conservative party. Every one took sides, families were divided; nearly thirty Conservative members of parliament appeared upon my platform and worked on the committees. Energetic friends laid hold of the organization. By the end of the first week Capt. Guest, my chief lieutenant, a most experienced electioneer, was able to report to me that my candidature was seriously supported.

Poorest and Richest on Section.

The constituency, which includes the houses of parliament, the seat of government, Buckingham palace, the principal clubs and theaters, St. James's street, the Strand, Soho, Pimlico, and Covent garden, is one of the strangest and most remarkable in the world. The poorest and the richest are gathered there, and every trade, profession, and interest finds its representative and often its headquarters in this marvelous square mile. To and fro throughout its streets flow the tides of mighty London.

As the campaign progressed I began to receive all kinds of support. Dukes, jockys, prize fighters, courtiers, actors, and business men, all developed a keen partisanship. The chorus girls of Daly's theater sat up all night addressing the envelopes and dispatching the election address. It was most cheering and refreshing to see so many young and beautiful women in every rank in life ardently working in a purely disinterested cause not unconnected with myself.

The leaders of the Conservative party were themselves divided. Mr. Baldwin, whose position at the time was very weak, supported the official candidate. Lord Balfour with his reluctant acquiescence wrote a letter in my support. I wonder how Mr. Lloyd George voted!

Finish Is Exciting.

The count at the finish was the most exciting I have ever seen. Up to the very end I was assured I had won. Some one said as the last packet of votes was being carried up to the table: "You're in by a hundred." A loud cheer went up. The sound was caught by the crowds waiting outside and the news was telegraphed all over the world. A minute later the actual figures showed that I was beaten by forty votes out of nearly forty thousand polled. I must confess I thoroughly enjoyed the fight from start to finish.

I had now been defeated three times in succession, at Dundee, West Leicester, and Westminster, in less than eighteen months, and many people would take that as final. In fact, however, this Westminster election showed that I had a strong position in the country, and in the Conservative party. No one was more impressed with the result than Mr. Baldwin.

Gets Conservative Call.

When the Socialist government was forced to go to the country a few months later, the Conservatives of the Epping division invited me to stand as their candidate. Protection was specifically ruled out by Mr. Baldwin as an issue at this election. I felt I could with a whole heart accept the invitation which was tendered me.

Nevertheless I stipulated that I should stand as a constitutionalist rather than as a Conservative. I did this because I do not think it is a good thing to change one's party label, even when agreed on the merits, for the sake of getting a seat or office. If a number of people are agreed upon some great issue, they can always work together sincerely and honestly, and due respect must be shown for the position of any one who may be asked to be their representative. Epping returned me at the end of 1924 upon a ten thousand majority.

BANDITS SHOOT 2 GOLFERS ON FLORIDA LINKS

Miami, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Colored bandits today wounded two golfers, one a visitor from Pittsfield, Mass., on the Miami Country club course. The bandits escaped despite a police cordon and a hunt with dogs.

Carl Lindholm, 54, the Massachusetts visitor, was shot in the chest and right wrist. Hospital attendants said his condition was serious. Emery Rupley, 51, of Miami, went home after hospital treatment for a bullet wound in the left leg.

As in a robbery several weeks ago on the same links, the colored men, either two or three, stepped from behind a clump of bushes masking the fourth tee and commanded the golfers to drop their clubs and raise their hands.

The bandits began firing and the Massachusetts golfer fell with the chest wound. Another bullet struck his wrist as he lay on the ground. Rupley was next hit. The holdup men fled.

Francis Matthews to Speak at Catholic Action Meeting

Francis P. Matthews, Omaha lawyer and deputy supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, will be the principal speaker at the first meeting in the mobilization for Catholic Action at the Sherman hotel, Sunday afternoon, according to D. F. Kelly, area chairman of the mobilization committee. The papal order inaugurating the work and the commendations of the cardinals of the United States will be read at the meeting. At least 4,500 workers in the campaign are expected to attend the meeting. Mr. Kelly will preside.

SECOND WITNESS TELLS OF BRIBES TO 3 POLICEMEN

CRIMINAL COURT.

WILLIAM RICHARDSON, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

The state's evidence against Joseph Cantella, Samuel Lucas, and Angelo Borello, former county highway policemen charged with having accepted bribes, was closed yesterday after a second commission man testified that he paid the three $1,000 when they threatened to expose him as the possessor of stolen butter.

The witness was Joseph Levin, 55 years old, a member of the firm of Goldenberg Brothers, 716 West Randolph street. Levin said he gave Cantella $1,000 last July as a down payment on a $4,000 demand, and that his bookkeeper cashed a check for that amount in order to make the payment. His testimony was corroborated by Miss Ella Bozovsky, his bookkeeper. Levin admitted he had been placed on probation in the federal court for having received the stolen goods.

At the hearing Tuesday John Kliner, commission merchant at 939 West Randolph street, said he gave Borello $1,000 as a bribe.

Attorney Harold Levy opened the defense by placing witnesses on the stand to testify that Cantella attended the funeral of a nephew on July 10, the day he is accused of having accepted the bribe.

Father and Son Burned in Home Gas Explosion

Walter V. Lynch, 35 years old, and his son James, 11 years old, suffered severe burns yesterday afternoon when a gas explosion occurred in the kitchen of their home at 2712 Warsaw avenue. Fire which followed the explosion was put out by firemen led by Chief James Cowhey of the 4th battalion. Lynch and his son were taken to the Martha Washington hospital. The cause of the explosion was not determined.

BAR OFFERS PLAN SAVING $350,000 ELECTION COST

Ask Assembly to Create New Judgeships.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Chicago Bar association yesterday proposed a new solution to the judicial election problem, which for several weeks has been under consideration by Mayor Kelly, County Judge Jarecki, and other officials. It involves the saving of $350,000 by the elimination of the election now scheduled for 1937 at which only a single official, one judge of the Superior court, is to be elected.

The plan proposed also provides for the earliest possible filling of the vacancy on the State Supreme bench caused by the death of Justice Frederic R. DeYoung and, to some extent, it has a bearing on the demand for the separation of judicial elections from all others.

The plan was worked out by the bar association's committee on judicial selection and was approved by its board of managers. The bills necessary to put it into effect are ready for introduction in the general assembly.

Jarecki Warns County.

Judge Jarecki first announced that unless there is legislation at this session, Cook county will have to spend at least $350,000 for the election in February, 1937. The term of Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis expires that year and the elimination of biennial elections of aldermen left this judgeship the only place to be filled.

There have been several suggestions for avoiding this expenditure, but the bar association has found objections to them and proposed its own idea which, it is believed, will meet with general approval. The announcement of the association described its proposal as follows:

"The committee suggests that the one Superior judgeship in question be allowed to lapse at the expiration of the term of the incumbent and that an additional Superior court judgeship be created by the legislature, to be filled by election in June, 1935, the term to begin in December.

Incumbent to Be Unaffected.

"This would not interfere with the tenure of office of the incumbent, for he would of course hold office until the end of his present term. And he could be a candidate for the new judgeship."

This plan would not increase the number of Superior court judges except possibly for the remainder of Judge Lewis' term and the proposed provision for the filling of the new judgeship in June was approved because the bar association indorsed Mayor Kelly's proposal to advance to next June the election of twenty Superior judges now scheduled for next November.

Mayor Kelly's argument for the advancement of the fall election has been that it would keep the Supreme court vacancy election clear of the executive and legislative elections and, without the heavy cost of a special election for that purpose, would effect the filling of the DeYoung vacancy five months ahead of the November election.

Expect Horner to Act.

If the required bills are passed at Springfield they will be supplemented, it is understood, by a call by Gov. Horner for the Supreme court election in June.

The bar committee declared that the great 7th district of the Supreme court is now without representation on that bench.

"The volume of work for the judge elected from this district," said the committee, "is tremendous, and the problems arising here call for a sympathetic understanding that is more likely to be found in a judge whose professional life has been spent in contact with the conditions reflected in the cases that go to the Supreme court from this district."

SELF-STYLED 'WIFE' OF BEE LILLIE'S MATE GETS HER COATS BACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 14. — Mrs. Doris Draper, who yesterday testified that she had lived with the late Sir Robert Peel, husband of the actress Beatrice Lillie, from 1929 until his death in 1934, settled her suit for recovery of two ermine coats valued at $1,500 out of court today.

When Sir Robert died, the West End clothing store against which the action was drawn, seized the coats as security on a balance of $1,295 due on a total bill of $10,000 contracted by Mrs. Draper as "Lady Peel."

She got the coats back today, but the court missed the occasion for deciding a moot point of law, argued by Mrs. Draper's counsel yesterday, as to whether a man is responsible for debts contracted by his mistress as well as by his wife.

OFFICERS RAID DAVENPORT, IA., "WET" TAVERNS

Davenport, Ia., March 14.—[Special.]—A raiding squad of 25 policemen, deputy sherifs, federal agents and state officers swooped down on ten alleged "wet" taverns and cafés in Davenport today. They seized liquor and punch boards and made seven arrests.

The proprietors of the places were charged with illegal possession of liquor or keeping disorderly houses. They posted bonds of $125 each, pending a hearing before Justice of the Peace Egger in Bettendorf, scheduled for Monday morning.

Liquor purchased at the state liquor commission store here was found in most of the places. Quantities of whisky which had been purchased in Illinois was also found.

WILLIE'S POUNDS KEEP HIM FROM BEING LOST LONG

Last Monday when Mrs. Toby Stein, 810 Altgeld street, asked Sheffield avenue police to search for her "little boy," it developed that the puny lad was only 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighed but 285 pounds.

In Omaha, Neb., a hotel bell boy, who had read the story in THE TRIBUNE, noticed in the hotel lobby a young man answering the description of the "lost boy." He got in touch with Chicago police.

They communicated with Omaha authorities, with the result that the Nebraska city last night was holding in custody young William Stein, who, his mother says, fled with $500 he had taken from her.

FILM FOLK WILL TRY TO SAVE DOG KAZAN FROM AUCTION SALE

Led by Mrs. Leslie Carter and Alice Brady, the film groups determined to prevent the dog from being separated from its owner, Jack King, by bankruptcy action.

King, who said he took the dog from a public pound several years ago and trained him, declared the animal would die if separated from him because it will not accept food from the hands of others.

Bankruptcy Referee E. E. Moss said he had no other course than to include the pet among King's assets when they go under the hammer Monday.

these rare old pre-prohibition whiskies are just about gone

The last of both our 17-year-old Old Grand Dad and Old Taylor straight bourbon whiskies has been in the hands of dealers for some time now and is getting scarcer every day, although far-sighted dealers still have a limited supply.

The 11- to 12-year-old Mount Vernon—a magnificent straight rye whiskey—is not quite so scarce. We still have a little left ourselves. But we hesitate to predict for how long you'll be able to buy some. There isn't much, and it's going very fast.

There are a few other of our genuine pre-prohibition straight whiskies remaining on the market—including Sunny Brook, Bourbon de Luxe, Blue Grass and Old McBrayer—all 16 years in wood and the nation's choicest for generations.

These are cold hard facts. So, if you like something fancy for special occasions, better not delay.

A GOOD GUIDE [NATIONAL DISTILLERS] TO GOOD WHISKEY

"If you think I rave about Gas Heat
Just listen to my husband"

"He wasn't so sure he'd like gas heat," says Mrs. B. Thompson, 1838 Grace Street, "but you ought to hear him now." Read what the Thompsons say.

No more furnace worries for Mrs. Thompson. She says, "I don't have to worry when we go out. The little thermostat takes care of keeping the house comfortable."

MR. THOMPSON isn't to be blamed. Like thousands of others he wasn't sure that he'd like gas heat. But he was willing to give it a fair trial. So he did. Now there's no more enthusiastic booster in all Chicago than Mr. Thompson. He says, "We're both so completely satisfied we never took the time to figure what it costs. It wouldn't make any difference anyway—we'd keep gas heat."

Thousands upon thousands of others, like the Thompsons, were skeptical of gas heat—until they tried it. Now they vow there will never be any other kind of heat in their homes.

What pleasures gas heat brings

With gas heat homes are made more livable, far more comfortable. There's no early morning rising to build fires, chop kindling, shovel coal. Once you set the little thermostat on the wall the temperature is kept steady and even—just as you want it, day or night. The fire never goes out in the dead of night, the house is never chilly in the morning. And with gas heat there is no unnecessary cleaning and scrubbing. The house is clean. The basement is clean. There's no soot, no dirt, no dust from gas heat. Of course, that means the saving of many dollars in cleaning bills every year. Try gas heat. You, too, will soon be one of its boosters. Accept our liberal offer. We have made it particularly easy for you to know the comforts and advantages of gas heat.

The simple terms

You invest nothing to try gas heat. We'll install gas heat in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You try it for a month, two months or a year. While you are trying it you pay only a small rental—only $3 a month for the burner during the heating months in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If at any time within the year you find that you don't like gas heat, we'll take it out—at our expense—and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But if you find that you can't do without gas heat, as has been the case in thousands of homes, then the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

You owe it to yourself to be rid of furnace drudgery this winter. Order gas heat now. Just call your nearest gas company office for full details of this offer and for free estimate of what it will cost to heat your home with gas.

CONSTANT CARE INSURES GAS METER ACCURACY

Every working day, in more than 400 Chicago homes, a new gas meter is installed by The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company to replace the meter in service.

Every one of these new meters has been tested by inspectors employed by the City of Chicago, to meet the specifications of the United States Bureau of Standards. Old meters are constantly replaced with inspected and approved meters, in order that the high standard of gas meter accuracy may be maintained.

Even during the last four years, when slack business and reduced rates have been lessening company revenues, and when salaries and wages and dividends have had to be cut, this policy of meter replacement has been maintained. The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company believes that accurate meters are a part of good service. That's why 400 new meters will be installed in Chicago homes tomorrow, and every working day in the year.

You Invest Nothing!
To Try Gas Heat

Gas heat can be installed without your investing one cent for equipment. To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense—remove it at our expense, if you don't like it. Accept this startling offer. Phone your nearest gas office TODAY.

© 1934, The P G L & C Co.

You don't have to own a home to enjoy the advantages of gas heat. We have installed gas heat in thousands of rented homes.

$500,000 Trust Is Set Up for Widow.

The will of Robert Marshall Roloson, investment broker, who died Sunday, disposing of an estate estimated at $1,500,000, was filed yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Mr. Roloson died Sunday at the age of 57 in his home at 1114 Lake Shore boulevard, Evanston.

Attorney John Cameron filed the will. It leaves $25,000 to the endowment fund of the president and fellows of Harvard university, as a memorial to Roloson's father, Robert W., who died several years ago. Another $25,000 goes to St. Luke's hospital, and $10,000 will go to the Cape Cod sanitarium in Hyannis, Mass. A bequest of $1,000 was made to the Ridge Farm Preventorium in Lake Forest.

$500,000 Trust for Widow.

A trust of $500,000 is set up in the will for Mr. Roloson's widow, Adele. Upon her death the principal will go to her son, Robert M. Roloson Jr., who was given an outright bequest of $500,000. Robert M. Roloson III., grandson of the broker, was left $100,000, and a granddaughter, Cary Bell Roloson, will receive a similar bequest.

Other bequests include one of $20,000 to Mrs. Ellen Ballinger Roloson, wife of Robert Jr.; and $15,000 to Richard M. Burns, a stepson of the broker. Several servants and friends will divide $10,000.

T. J. McNally Leaves $310,000.

The will of Thomas J. McNally, retired south side real estate dealer, leaving an estate estimated at $310,000 to seven sons and one daughter, was admitted to probate yesterday before Edward Luczak, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell. Mr. McNally, for many years associated with his brother, Martin J. McNally, in the real estate business at 79th and Halsted streets, died Feb. 27 at the age of 68. He had lived at 7956 South Peoria street.

The following other wills were also admitted to probate and filed:

MAUDE P. BLACK, died March 10. Estate, $15,000, to daughter and two sons. Margaret Black, daughter, executrix.

BARBARA KROC, died Jan. 27. Estate, $8,000, to three sons. Milo Kroc, son, executor.

EMMA KROECK, died Jan. 20. Estate, $5,000, to sister, two nephews and two nieces. Anna Droege, executrix.

MOVE AGAINST UNDERTAKER IN KELLY WILL CASE

Director John Hallihan of the state department of education and registration yesterday recommended withdrawal of the embalmer's license issued to John J. Bagdonas 2506 West 63d street, the undertaker who confessed participation in the faking of a will to the $140,000 estate of James Thomas Kelly, West Madison street miser. The will plot was uncovered when Bagdonas' claim for $4,500 for Kelly's funeral was presented to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

It was shown that Bagdonas had paid $98 for the coffin for which he was charging $3,500. He, along with Attorney Julius P. Waiches, Mrs. Bella Butman, residuary legatee in the fake will, and four others are serving sentences of one year in the county jail for contempt of ocurt, and are to be arraigned Monday on a charge of forgery and conspiracy.

Chief Investigator Jack Rubens of the public administrator's office, said yesterday he is investigating a claim that three daughters of John Fisher, 6848 South Park avenue, are heirs to the Kelly estate. The father of Fisher's wife, according to the claim, was a twin of Kelly's mother. The source of Kelly's fortune was not learned and Investigator Rubens said he is going to Joliet penitentiary today to seek information concerning Kelly, who served a term there for murder.

Marie Dressler's Sister to Get Only $1,000 of Estate

Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Bonita Ganthony of London, England, will get only about $1,000 of the $300,000 estate left by her sister, the late Marie Dressler, if funeral charges and all claims against the estate are settled in full, it was revealed in Probate court today. The London sister, through attorneys, objected to payment of $10,000 for Miss Dressler's funeral, which was authorized by the executor. Specific bequests in the will of the actress exceed $100,000.

Pose as Meter Inspectors and Steal a Heavy Motor

The thieves' maxim, "Never steal what you can't carry," was violated yesterday by the men who stole an electric motor weighing several hundred pounds from the basement of the apartment building at 8000 South Hermitage avenue. The motor operated the iceboxes in twelve apartments. The men gained entrance to the building by posing as water meter inspectors and apparently loaded their loot on a truck without detection.

He's Too Big Hearted; Organ 4 Times Normal

Kansas City, Mo., March 14.—(AP)—Raymond Hallenberg, 23, literally is too big hearted. Physicians treating him for tuberculosis and pneumonia said today his heart is four times its normal size. His pulse is 160. Attempts are being made to slow his heart action to nearer the normal 71.

Earl of Mansfield Dies; One of Britain's Richest Peers

ARD CHOILLE Perth, Scotland, March 14.—(AP)—The Earl of Mansfield, 70, one of the richest peers in Great Britain, died today. He will be buried in Scone palace, the ancient coronation place of the kings of Scotland.

Slays Self Beside Dead Wife's Bed in Hospital

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 14.—(AP)—Standing at the bedside of his wife in Magee hospital, Paul Harper shot himself to death today a few minutes after Mrs. Harper died. Mrs. Harper had been ill for several months since she gave birth to a son.

FIND EXECUTIVE WHO FLED HOME SIX YEARS AGO

Philadelphia, March 14.—[Special.]—George A. Abercrombie, former president and general manager of the Franklin-Wear company of Melrose, Mass., and a former vice president of the Fuller Brush company, who disappeared on Jan. 25, 1929, leaving his wife, Mary, and taking with him their joint bank account of $100,000, has been found in Narberth, Philadelphia suburb. He will face an extradition hearing tomorrow.

With him when he was arrested was the former Grace Holdrich Lynde, once a designer for the Franklin-Wear company, whom Abercrombie told police he married after he had obtained a Mexican divorce two years ago. Miss Lynde disappeared from Melrose at the same time as Abercrombie six years ago. Both sold all their property.

No charges were brought against the woman, but Abercrombie was held in $1,000 bail on charges sworn out by Mrs. Abercrombie, charging desertion, nonsupport and abandonment. They had been married for four years. Mrs. Abercrombie will fly here from Melrose to attend the hearing tomorrow.

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Matt R. Lukens of Rutherford, N. J., left for Washington today intending to see the Washington monument with a ticket purchased 50 years ago when they were on their honeymoon.

They purchased the thirty-first ticket for admission to the monument, but did not get to use it because of the crowds.

Departing on their fiftieth wedding anniversary today they still had the ticket and expressed the hope the guards would honor it.

William S. Hawk, 76, Dies; Noted in Hotel Industry

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—William S. Hawk, 76, well known hotel proprietor in this city for many years, died today at the Hotel Dixie after a short illness with pneumonia. In recent years he had been connected with the Hotel Roosevelt, the Nott chain, and the Hotel Gramatan at Bronxville, N. Y.

Frank Willis Grogan, 77, Naval Architect, Is Dead

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—Frank Willis Grogan, 77, naval architect and chief technical adviser to the government in its settlement of German claims for vessels interned during the world war, died today. He entered the service of the navy department as a surveyor in 1881.

ORDER INSURANCE PAID IN DILLINGER SUSPECT'S DEATH

Municipal Judge Eugene L. McGarry yesterday entered judgment for $550 against the Fairfield Life Insurance association for insurance on the life of James J. Probasco, who was killed in a fall from the 19th floor offices of the federal bureau of investigation in the Banker's building last July 26. Government agents said Probasco leaped when confronted with proof of his complicity in the disguising of John Dillinger, outlaw since slain.

On the testimony of justice department agents, a coroner's jury termed Probasco's death a suicide. Mrs. Louise Hamilton, a sister of Probasco, sued on the $550 policy, which was one of several totaling $72,050. The insurance company's defense was that Probasco committed suicide avoiding the police. The company's witnesses, Government Agents R. D. Brown and Maxwell Chaffatz, refused, however, to testify, claiming they could not reveal government information. Judgment was then entered. Mrs. Hamilton's attorney said similar suits would be brought to enforce payment on the other policies, which likewise carried the suicide clause.

Another Dillinger echo was heard yesterday when Federal Judge Woodward denied probation to Dr. Harold B. Cassidy and Arthur O'Leary on their pleas of guilty to harboring Dillinger and Homer Van Meter. However, the judge asked the prosecutors to find out before March 21 whether Washington, D. C., officials would nol pros the cases, in view of the aid which Cassidy and O'Leary gave the government against Attorney Louis Piquette, who was acquitted of a charge of harboring Dillinger.

J. E. Rhodes Dies; 20 Years in Architectural Concern

John Edson Rhodes, for twenty years associated with the architectural concern of Weary & Alford, died yesterday of a heart attack in the Peoples hospital. He was 42 years old and lived at 4300 Drexel boulevard. Mr. Rhodes was born in Milwaukee and was educated at Marquette university. He traveled for Weary & Alford for several years before moving to Chicago in 1922. He is survived by his widow, Gladys. Funeral services will be held in Milwaukee.

HAL KEMP.

Hal Kemp and his orchestra, whom Rudy Vallee recently proclaimed his favorite among all dance bands, will launch their first NBC commercial program as headliners of the revamped "Penthouse Party" series beginning Wednesday, April 3. Kemp left the Blackhawk and W-G-N last fall for Hotel Pennsylvania in New York.

Emil Coleman's orchestra, Mark Hellinger and Gladys Glad, now on the program, will be dropped. Appearing with Kemp will be Peggy [Bernier] Flynn, musical chatterbox who used to belong to Paul Ash's gang here, and Sam Hearn, who specializes in Jewish dialect, now heard as "Schlepperman" on Jack Benny's program.

Ethel Barrymore has promised to sing on Ben Bernie's program next Tuesday evening. . . . Gen. Hugh Johnson has announced that he will soon take to the air again to make answer to what he calls Father Coughlin's "pious flub-dub" and Huey Long's "modified insanities." . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce is to begin a series over WOR on March 24.

When Maj. Bowes launches a new national amateur hour on NBC Sunday, March 24, either Norman Brokenshire or Ted Lewis is likely to take over Bowes' old amateur hour on WHN, New York station. . . . Gertrude Berg, who used to write and play in "The Goldbergs," has a new serial, "House of Glass," set for NBC Wednesday, April 17, taking the place of Lanny Ross' present show. . . . One Pasquale Comeroto, claiming to be 118 years old, sounded off on his acquaintance with Lincoln over NBC the other day. He enjoyed the mike so much that he has asked for a job as announcer.

The WLS National Barn Dance will round out its third solid year at the Eighth Street theater tomorrow night. More than 350,000 persons have witnessed these broadcast shows in that time. . . . Congressman Maury Maverick of Texas will discuss "Free Speech" on the new program, "Congressional Opinion," opening at 10 p. m. Sunday evening on WBBM-CBS.

Edwin Jerome, a leading actor in the "March of Time," was once a king's jester. Alfonso, when king of Spain, appointed him premier clown of the Royal Circus at Barcelona. . . . Stan Myers, NBC orchestra leader at the Terrace Gardens, has taken up flying. Jack McCormick, new W-G-N announcer, is also learning to fly. . . . Everett Marshall has left the Broadway Varieties show for a concert tour. Guest stars will substitute.

Friendly Suit Asks Ruling on Dering Estate Division

A friendly suit asking instructions as to whether trustees of the estate of the late Jackson K. Dering, millionaire coal operator, shall turn over half of the $1,500,000 trust fund set up in the estate to Dering's son, Jackson K. Dering Jr., was filed yesterday in Circuit court. According to the provisions of the elder Dering's will, the son was to receive half of the trust fund when he reaches the age of 30, providing that the income to the other beneficiaries would not be endangered in the transaction. The suit revealed that the four trustees are unable to agree whether the trust should be terminated at this time. Dering Jr. is now 31.

Albert Douglas, 83, Former Ohio Congressman, Is Dead

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—Albert Douglas, 82, who represented Ohio's Eleventh congressional district in the house from 1907 to 1911, died today at his home here. In 1921 President Harding named Douglas as special ambassador to represent this government at Peru's celebration of the centenary of its independence.

ERNEST LACKNER, 83, DIES; SO. SIDE MEDICAL LEADER

Dr. Ernest Lackner, 83 years old, 7600 Essex avenue, a physician, died in his home yesterday after an illness of six weeks.

Dr. Lackner was born in Racine, Wis., and graduated in 1872 from the Bennett Medical college, which later became a part of Loyola university. He studied also in Germany. He entered practice in Chicago's south side and continued until his retirement two years ago. He had been a staf physician at the Michael Reese hospital since 1878.

For a time Dr. Lackner was staf physician at the Grant hospital. He was formerly president of the South Side Medical society and of the Chicago Pediatricians' society.

Surviving him are his widow, Bertha; two daughters, Mrs. R. O. Miles of California and Mrs. H. N. Whitford of New York; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Lela Allison of Chicago, and a son, Dr. Julius E. Lackner of Highland Park. Funeral services will be held privately.

STUDENTS RAISE FUND FOR BURIAL OF AGED MODEL

Students at the Art institute took up a collection yesterday in order that George W. Spears, 83 years old, who had served as a model at the institute for twenty years, will have a fitting burial. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. today in a chapel at 425 Plymouth court.

Millard Rogers, graduate student at the institute, before whom Spears had posed many times, was in charge of the burial fund. Students and staf members will attend the funeral.

Spears was found dead Wednesday in his room at the Acme hotel, 811 South State street. Walter J. Sherwood, art institute official, said the old man had often been urged to accept charity, but refused and made a meager living by posing.

Katisha	Dorothy Gill

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The fiftieth anniversary performance of "The Mikado," given by the D'Oyly Carte company in the Erlanger theater last night, seemed like a new birth instead of a celebration of senescense. The laughter that this masterpiece of lyric amusement evoked had none of the hollow ring of routined hilarity; it was fresh and spontaneous gayety. The familiar songs, which carry overtones of half a century of ideal gayety, were applauded with the enthusiasm of fresh discovery.

Extra ceremonial flourishes were absent from the occasion, for no one needed to be reminded that "The Mikado" has enjoyed fifty years of fame and popularity. The D'Oyly Cartes merely lifted their curtain and then stood and delivered the classic with the deftness and address that is their customary manner.

This production of "The Mikado" has been costumed in a style that breaks away from the old tradition. It is, therefore, a "Mikado" which is new to Chicago, but I suspect that it is not altogether new to the footlights in England. At any rate, Charles Rickets, R. A., the art director who designed these rich and colorful dresses, has been dead for about three years. He based his work upon the Japanese styles of about 1720—the early Georgian period in our historical system—which he regarded as the most picturesque era of Nipponese culture.

So we find the gentlemen of Titipu, principals and chorus singers alike, in trousers so flowing that they resemble divided skirts, but gathered at the ankles to avoid comparison with the notorious Oxford bags of contemporary occidental youth. The women's dresses suggest the banal kimomo only in their elaborate sleeves. The fabrics are rich and the colors almost riotous. In short, this is the most handsome "Mikado" that I have seen.

Martyn Green, of course, is the Ko-Ko—a sly, droll, scampering characterization according to the accepted tradition. The wandering minstrel is sweetly sung and gracefully acted by Charles Goulding. The rôle of Yum-Yum falls to Eileen Moody, who was the Casilda of "The Gondoliers," and she handles it with charm. I have heard better singers in the exquisite numbers that are assigned to this character, some of them prima donnas of high operatic achievement, but none of them gave me all the words of the lyrics with the crystal-clear diction that Miss Moody possesses. Her treatment of "The Sun and I," Yum-Yum's greatest song, was a masterpiece of Gilbertian interpretation.

The ripe and mellow Sydney Goulding was a perfect Pooh-Bah; Leslie Rands was an improvement upon the Pish-Tush standard; Dorothy Gill was an impressive Mongolian menace as Katisha, and Darrell Fancourt stalked into the picture about 10:30 as a ferocious and resonant Mikado. Pitti-Sing, too, second of the three little maids from school and an incorrigible tease, was attractively played and sung by Marjorie Eyre.

Altogether, this was a performance of "The Mikado" worthy of the work's golden anniversary. The opera will be kept in action until next Saturday night, when the company will end its engagement.

Mary Garden Here on Way to Coast; Aids Opera Comique

Mary Garden, animated, alert, and apparently the discoverer of the secret of perpetual youth, is back in Chicago for a few days, having paused on her way west to say a few words in favor of the Opera Comique, the New York company which will make its first Chicago showing at the Auditorium next week.

Miss Garden likes Chicago. She said so when she was here during the holidays, and she repeated it yesterday. She spends but little time in talking about the success of years back when she was the leading figure of the Chicago opera, however. She is more interested in what is happening today and what is going to happen next week and next year.

She spoke twice yesterday, once at the Art Institute and once at a tea at Marshall Field & Co. She will attend the first performance of the Opera Comique next week and be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given by the Chicago Association of Commerce. When she leaves Chicago she will go to San Francisco to enter the radio field.

Benefit Dance for Lighthouse Will Be May 11

Party of Volunteer Aids Always Gay One.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MAY 11 is a date to be circled with red pencil on the calendars of young society folk, for on that evening at the Drake hotel the Chicago Lighthouse Volunteer Aids will give their annual spring supper-dance. This party is always a favorite among the debutante, post-deb, and young married crowd, partly because the Volunteers are all young women and partly because the dances have that certain swing to them.

One of the outstanding benefits sponsored by the Aids was the dinner-dance given at Old Heidelberg on the Fair grounds in the spring of 1933 before A Century of Progress was opened, and the dance this May will be patterned closely after that one, which was so gay and informal.

The opening of A Century of Progress lent an air of expectancy and enthusiasm to the party locale and the attitude of the merry-makers two years ago, which the nearness of the Kentucky Derby on May 4 will do for the dance at the Drake this year.

Racing is to be the theme of the decorations, and there will be horse racing games to provide second-hand thrills to amateur jockys. Miss Betty Brawley, president of the Aids, is trying to secure a jug band to play at the bar, for she heard several of them on a recent trip south and "fell" for their rhythm and manner of playing. A good jug band can play on anything from tin pans to washboards, but its essential instrument is a large jug into which one member of the orchestra pants and sighs, producing an amazing quantity and quality of tone.

Agree on Short Floor Show.

Mrs. Charles S. Connell [Barbara Graf] is in charge of entertainment at the benefit, and she agrees with other board members that there will not be a long floor show. Guests at a charity party do not pay much attention to the entertainment unless nationally famous stars are appearing, and they are not permitted to a benefit committee which keeps within its budget.

Miss Lucy Harrison and Miss Durie Malcolm, who is in the south just now, are assisting Mrs. Connell. Others who are doing their share for the dance include Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr., publicity; Miss Marie Louise Gardner, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, Mrs. Taylor Strawn, Mrs. John F. Jennings, Mrs. Roger White, and Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith.

Laura Thorne Bride Today.

Today's bride is Miss Laura Thorne, daughter of the Robert J. Thornes, whose wedding to Alexander Barthell Spence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Spence of Murfreesboro, Tenn., will take place quietly at 4:30 o'clock in the Thorne apartment at 2430 Lake View avenue. Dr. Robert Clements of the Presbyterian Theological seminary will read the ceremony. Mr. Spence and his bride will go to California.

Miss Emily Watson Wedding Tomorrow.

The marriage of Miss Emily Hale Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Crafts Watson, to George Bent Lake Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George Bent Lake, will take place tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Highland Park Presbyterian church, followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents in Highland Park.

Miss Marjorie Watson and Miss Kathleen Watson will act as their sister's maid of honor and junior bridesmaid, respectively, and the bridesmaids will include Miss Bunnee Lake, a sister of the bridegroom; Miss Aileen Clemons of Milwaukee, Miss Virginia Bach, Miss Dorothy Voight, Miss Ruth Lenfesty, and Miss Mildred Hobart.

Walter Watson will serve Mr. Lake as best man and ushering will be Preston Weir, the bride's brother-in-law, Donald Vaughn, Morton Harvig, Donald McClure, and Harold Browning.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson will give the bridal dinner at their home tonight. Following a six weeks' wedding trip by motor Mr. Lake and his bride will

From a Chicago shop, showing a new collection of spring coats. This model is of soft gray wool with a barred or checked self texture. The fur trimmed bib collar is detachable and ties in place with two ends of the gray wool.

Sleeves Chief Mark of New Spring Coats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Last year's coats are definitly dated! Unless by some undiscovered magic you can wangle extra yardage into the old sleeves you're out of luck, and the new spring showings of coats will prove it. Designers have lavished time and material on the 1935 spring beauties, and lots of thoughtful cutting.

The sleeves are big, but they will not spread your silhouette unduly. Lots of the best arrivals are made with casual little blouse effects in the back and straight lines down the front, but the sleeves get the spotlight.

Some look like kimono sleeves, others just the old time raglans with a dash they haven't had for a decade or two. Other sleeves start their life largely at the arm's eye, and taper slimly to the wrist. Still others are kept under control with insets judiciously placed where they will do the most good.

But the newest trick are the braided numbers. They are brilliant examples of what makes a spring coat springish. Until you have seen the alluring effect of shiny black braid, going around in small whirling designs, against a dull black wool you haven't realized how effective braid can be. Braided sleeves distinguish the smartest of furless coats this spring and you're going to like them lots.

The fabrics of the new spring coats present unusual effects in textures. Lovely soft woolens have waffle-ish effects, wide wales like corduroy, blurred wales, wavery lines, zigzags, all a part of the wool. The furs are flat on most coats with capes of monkey fur a knockout new sensation.

A black coat with a long cape of black monkey fur will take your breath away. There are also capes of sleek black kidskin and summer ermine. Fluffy furs such as fox are dyed to match the fashionable shades, a blue like cornflowers being the best. Gray, all shades of it, in fox is contrasted with dark wool coats as well as the light shades and gray.

Fashion photograph . . . a new spring coat showing the fashionable new texture trick. This coat is a stunning shade of gray with a biblike collar edged with fluffy gray fox. The collar can be worn front or back, and the untrimmed sleeves show the restrained manner of attaining fullness without undue bulk. From a Chicago shop.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Spring fever? Try a bath scented with a delightful pine needle oil we've just discovered and you'll feel like turning handsprings afterward. This oil does a masterly job of bringing pine forests into the home.

In some mysterious fashion a teaspoon or so of this in your bath water seems to do for you just what you want. If you're weary it exhilarates you; if you're so jittery and jangled of nerve that you could bite your own grandmother it soothes you back to normalcy.

We have the feeling that a bottle of this oil should be in the bath chest of every woman who must fight fatigue, either because she works hard or because she can't muster up enough mental discipline to make trifles of troubles. A dash of it in the tub will make the bath delightful for one who likes the fragrance of pine any old day but on one of the bad days—when you ache with weariness, perhaps feel a cold coming on, and are a little bit peeved with the world in general—it will be a godsend.

A foot bath with some of this oil in the water will do wonders for the comfort of your underpinnings. The oil helps to cleanse, to refresh, and to banish any unpleasant odor from the feet.

We discovered that men fancy this oil, with its true pine fragrance and its real merits as a picker-upper. One we know tells us he wrings a towel out in hot water to which a few drops of the oil have been added and that it makes his skin feel swell after shaving.

It emulsifies, by the way, and does not leave the tub messy. And it isn't expensive.

Cheers Greet Symphony by Dr. Lieberson

Former Russian Physician Now Lives Here.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Lacking a soloist for the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Conductor Frederick Stock presented two new compositions in the concert last night, and one of the two, "In a Winter Garden," by Dr. Samuel A. Lieberson of Chicago, came through with every evidence of being a hit.

Dr. Lieberson has been so retiring during his five years of residence in Chicago that his emergence as a composer of highly marked ability was an extra surprise to last night's audience. Quiet as he has been, he has lived a full life. He was a physician in Russia, his degree being awarded to him with the words "cum eximia laude." or as translated, with extraordinary praise.

Being a physician, he served during the war on the Turkish front with the Russian army with the title of colonel. But before that he had gone to Berlin to study music, and there, too, he was a prize winner. After the war he was back in Berlin as director of the New conservatory and as music critic of two musical papers. Then he came to Chicago and is now a teacher of musical theory and composition.

All of which would seem to have been merely preparation for his composition which was played last night. This, by the way, is another prize winner. In January of last year it took first place in the Hollywood Bowl composers' competition, the judges being Mr. Stock, Felix Borowski, Jacques Samossoud, and Adolf Brune. It is dedicated to Patricia Gordon of Chicago, who suggested the idea.

In four parts, it is a work suggesting the high lights of a vaudeville stage. It, however, departs in form from all other program music, since each of its sections is in the form of nonprogram music. The first, "Backstage," is a fugue; the second, "The Musical Clown," a theme with variations; the third, "The Dancing Prima Ballerina," a rondo; and the fourth, "The Juggler," a scherzo.

But more important than all this, the music is no end clever. It has color, it has wit, and it suggests its characters about as plainly as program music was ever known to do. Dr. Lieberson was about as hesitant at coming out from behind the stage as he has been in making himself known in Chicago generally. But continued applause brought him out finally, and it continued until he came again.

The other new work was Serge Prokofieff's Third Symphony. Prokofieff was a Chicago resident a decade and a half ago, during which time he gave several recitals, had some of his orchestral music played by the Chicago Symphony, and heard the first performance of his "Love of the Three Oranges" by the Chicago Opera.

The symphony is in his most typical and personal manner. It follows the classical model of form rather faithfully, but it is entirely in the modern style of harmonization and orchestral color. It is unrestful throughout, the word being used as description and not as disparagement, since Prokofieff undoubtedly intended it that way, and the fact that one notices it so plainly is pretty good proof that there is power behind it.

Mr. Stock preluded the novelties with Weber's "Oberon" Overture. In the second half he went to Wagner, playing his own arrangements of excerpts from "Die Goetterdaemmerung" and "Tristan and Isolde."

THERE has been recent inquiry into the type of education being imparted in American schools, and investigators, after sending out a questionnaire to the students of nine representative eastern universities, came to several conclusions. One, that college students betray an appalling lack of information concerning subjects which even high school students should be able to discuss intelligently. Also that every set of answers betrayed a befuddled state of mind. The best example of befuddlement to come to attention is that of a Tuley High school student. One of the questions asked in a general information test was, "What is the Acropolis?" The girl answered:

"The Acropolis was the wolf that nourished Romeo and Joliet."

WHEN the English boy choristers were in town they sang in three churches each Sunday they were here. While they were on their way from a west side church to the loop one of the 12 year olds astonished the man in charge of transportation by asking to see the cinema theater last attended by Mr. Dillinger. They were shown the very spot where Public Enemy No. 1 was shot down, and the young choristers all gazed solemnly at the pavement where he fell.

A LADY rang up yesterday—and thoughtful it was of her—to repeat a little conversation she had heard on the Illinois Central train the morning there appeared in this space the item about the child who said her class at school was producing Shakespeare's [illegible] or Leave It." She said she overheard a young man discussing it with an older man. The younger man had showed him the item, and the other was trying to figure out what play the child meant. He finally said he had just been reading Shakespeare's plays and he guessed the play meant was "To Be or Not to Be."

RECIPES EVOKE TRADITIONS OF IRISH COOKERY

Dishes from Emerald Isle Universally Favored.

"Catering to Bridge Appetites," a booklet of menus and recipes for bridge refreshments, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Yesterday's discussion of festive St. Patrick's day dinners led us into an interesting bypath of related ideas. What, we pondered, of the many folk who aren't giving or going to a special function of the sort, all decked out in green neckties or flourishing an emerald hued handkerchief? After all, there are many of us who can boast neither a dinner invitation for the 17th, nor even trace our heritage back to old Erin, and yet we dislike passing up the day without some gesture of recognition.

The situation can be taken in hand without resorting to all manner of tricks with a shamrock cutter and a bottle of green coloring. The solution lies in making the 17th a day of typically Irish cookery. Perhaps just one dish will satisfy your craving to honor the genial saint—a nice hearty one like corned beef and cabbage or a tureen of thick, fragrant Irish stew, teeming with tender pieces of meat and well cooked vegetables. Or make your main dish crusty, flavorsome Irish pasties with their typically conglomerate filling of vegetables and beef. Here's the way if the pasties are your choice:

Irish Pasties.

½ cup grated raw carrot
½ cup grated raw potato
½ cup diced celery
1 tablespoon minced parsley
¼ cup chopped onions
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

3 cups flour
6 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons shortening
1 cup milk
1 egg yolk

Blend the shortening with the sifted dry ingredients and stir in the beaten egg yolk mixed with the milk. Roll out to a thickness of one-fourth inch and cut into five-inch squares. Place about a third cup of the meat and vegetable mixture on each square, fold over, and pinch the edges together firmly. Prick the upper crust with a fork (to outline a shamrock if that seems a good idea), brush lightly with a bit of diluted egg yolk, and bake in a moderate oven for a half hour.

Since no mention of Irish cookery would dare show its face without playing up the potato, we're referring you to an excellent steamed pudding by the name of:

Irish Potato Pudding.

2-3 cup sugar
2-3 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2-3 cup currants
2-3 cup raisins
2-3 cup grated raw potatoes
¾ cup finely grated raw carrots
1-3 cup milk

Sift the dry ingredients and add to them the raisins and currants, which have been well washed and dried. Mix in the grated potatoes, carrots, and milk, and beat until well blended. Turn into a buttered mold and steam for 2½ hours. Serve with hard sauce (which may be tinted green further to accent the Emerald Isle idea).

In case you're not to be swerved from your traditional Sunday dinner or feel a bit reluctant about serving corned beef and cabbage or stew then, there's always the alternative of paying St. Patrick his due homage at Sunday night supper. Here's an authentic Irish soda bread well equipped to highlight the meal:

Irish Soda Bread.

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons sugar
1-3 cup raisins
2-3 cup buttermilk

Sift the dry ingredients, mix in the raisins, and gradually work in the buttermilk until the mixture is a smooth dough. Pat into place in a greased baking pan and bake at 400 degrees F. for 35 to 40 minutes.

STUDY LABELS! WARNING NOTE TO HOUSEWIFE

They Offer Guide to Value, Asserts Teacher.

Ithaca, N. Y., March 14.—[Special.]—"Homemakers often find it hard to decide which foods best suit their likes, needs and pocketbooks," said Prof. Day Monroe of the New York state college of home economics, to an audience at Cornell.

"Some people buy foods by the package, while others, who read the label on the box or can, may buy by the pound, ounce or quart. To compare accurately the value she receives for her money, the homemaker should compare the price for a pound, ounce or quart of one food with the price for exactly the same amount of another brand of the same food," Miss Monroe said.

"Should Read Fine Print."

"Also to know exactly what is bought, a person should read the fine print on the label, which describes the contents of the package as well as the amount it contains."

The fine print is more accurate than the large, Miss Monroe said. Ofter the large print on the package proclaims that the product is pure. Unfortunately, this word means nothing at the present time, because no legal standards exist to define the word accurately.

"To compare liquid measures the same terms not always are used. One label on the bottle of one brand may say that the bottle holds one quart of a food, and the label on another brand's bottle may say that it holds 30 fluid ounces. Usually a buyer can not judge from appearance which contains more food, but if purchasers remember that 16 fluid ounces make one pint, they can figure that the bottle labeled one quart holds two ounces more than the one labeled 30 ounces."

"A Pint's a Pound Maybe."

Miss Monroe advised buyers to forget the old saying "a pint's a pound, the world around" because it is not always true and often misleads. Some liquids are heavier than others—a pint of salad oil weighs less than a pound, than a pound. Therefore, to compare a pint and a pound of one liquid, it is necessary either to measure the contents of the can labeled one pound in a pint measure or to weigh the contents of the can labeled one quart.

"Other confusing terms found on labels are drams and fluid ounces, which are often used on labels of flavoring materials. When one bottle, labeled one fluid ounce, and another, labeled six drams, cost the same, the housewife may not be sure which is the better buy. Unless she knows that a fluid ounce is equal to eight drams, she may not realize that the bottle that holds one fluid ounce will give her two drams more or one-third more of the product for her money than the six dram bottle."

GINGER GRAPE SALAD.

1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot grape juice
1 cup ginger ale

Dissolve the gelatin in the hot grape juice. Cool and add the ginger ale, turn into molds and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce garnished with a whipped cream mayonnaise.

GRILLED POTATOES WITH CHEESE.

Cut cold boiled white or sweet potatoes in slices lengthwise, dip them in melted butter, and broil them under a low flame. Arrange the slices on a hot platter and sprinkle grated cheese over them. Garnish with parsley, or with a few sprigs from a fresh carrot top.

CHOCOLATE DESSERT FRITTERS.

1 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 beaten egg
1 one-ounce square unsweetened chocolate, melted
¼ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup milk

Sift the flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar together 3 times. Add the chocolate and vanilla to the sugar and egg, which have been blended. Add the flour mixture, alternately with the milk, beating until smooth after each addition. Drop from a teaspoon into deep fat [385 degrees F.], dipping the spoon into the hot fat each time before dipping into the fritter batter. Turn fritters during frying, cooking 3 to 5 minutes, or until done. Drain on unglazed paper and serve with an orange sauce.

Bill Banks sounds off about "Coffee-Floating"

PERHAPS Bill Banks and John Frazer planned the whole thing. No one knows. But at the same time John was panning Helen Banks' party to Jane, Bill was sounding off to Helen. He had just brushed his teeth and was winding the clock.

"Helen," he said, "everyone told you that party was swell. But I'll bet if we had one of those lie-detecting machines handy, you would have had your eyes opened. That coffee was surely feeble-tasting. It's been like that for months. You haven't been satisfied either, because you've floated around from one kind to another.

"I'd like to see us get set for keeps with Hills Bros. Coffee. No matter what anyone says, you'll have to go a long way before you get any other coffee that can keep up with Hills Bros."

GROCERY PRICES LITTLE CHANGED FROM WEEK AGO

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Retail grocery and meat prices have changed little since last week. THE TRIBUNE's weekly survey tabulations indicate that minor revisions have been made on less than twenty items in most stores.

Prices have been lowered on potatoes, head lettuce, cooking apples, fresh tomatoes, carrots, grapefruit, and green beans. Price tags have been marked up on dry onions, cabbage, eating apples, spinach, and roast beef in most stores surveyed.

In general, butchers today and tomorrow will ask about the same prices as last week for beef, veal, pork, chicken, and fresh fish. Market experts expect good beef to go higher.

High Steer Prices Reflected.

Yesterday official reporters at the stockyards were quoting choice live steers at $14.25 a hundred pounds. Some observers predict that cattle of that grade will go to $15 a hundred pounds and force choice cuts of beef to go higher in retail shops.

The wholesale price of veal is lower, but it has not yet been reflected in the retail prices. There is a tendency for lamb prices to go lower, which may soon show up in lower prices in the butcher shops. There has been a slight decrease in the wholesale prices of pork, but it is not expected to bring any marked change in prices charged consumers for roast, chops, and other fresh cuts.

Offer Special Prices on Eggs.

Fresh bulk eggs are being offered at special prices in a few stores today and tomorrow. Lemons are down in some stores and a few retailers are featuring canned tomatoes.

Cabbage prices are slightly higher because this is near the end of the season for cabbage kept over winter in storage. The winter grown crop coming from Texas was cut short by freezing weather. Florida truck gardeners are now sending a fair supply of winter cabbage to Chicago.

The retail prices of potatoes from storage are down slightly. New Potatoes now coming from Florida are selling at prices from 2½ to 5 times those asked for winter storage potatoes. Idaho potatoes are offered at approximately double the price asked for other stored stocks.

More Florida Celery Arriving.

Florida celery is arriving at the central market in greater volume, but the retail prices are about the same as they were a week ago. Fresh spinach is scarce and high on the central market and in retail stores. This situation is charged to adverse weather conditions in Texas regions that furnish a good portion of the late winter supplies of this crop.

Grapes are scarce and high. Some are coming from Argentina. Only a few retailers have grapes on their fruit counters.

Prices of fresh tomatoes are slightly lower than last week but they are still high. They are coming from Mexico and Arizona.

U. S. DROPS AAA APPEAL IN MILK LICENSING CASE

The government yesterday asked the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to dismiss its appeal from the injunction issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes against enforcement of the Agricultural Adjustment administration's milk licensing agreement in the Chicago area. The recent suspension of the federal milk license here was given as the reason for the government's abandonment of the case.

Judge Barnes issued his injunction last June 26. It was on the petition of the Edgewater Dairy company, the Joseph Wagner Jr. Dairy company, the Joliet Dairy Products company, and the Lakeside Dairy company.

STEAM COOKER AIDS IN USE OF CHEAPER MEATS

Saves Time and Fuel as Well.

A steam pressure cooker is one piece of home equipment which can be used every day in the year. It will soon pay for itself in time and fuel saved, says a nutritionist of the University of Arkansas.

Since steam is very penetrating, and when under pressure still more so, even the cheaper and tougher pieces of meat are made tender in a short time.

Menus should be arranged so that the foods selected take the same time to cook. Here is one suggestion for a quick meal. Get a piece of top round steak, cut about two inches thick; season with salt and pepper, and pound into it one-fourth cup of flour. Heat two tablespoons of fat in the cooker and brown the meat on both sides. Then arrange onions, carrots, and potatoes around and on top of the meat, and add one pint of tomatoes.

Fasten on the lid, but leave the petcock open until the steam is issuing from it freely, then close the petcock and allow the pressure to rise to ten pounds. Cook at this pressure for ten minutes, remove from the fire, and open the petcock. The lid should never be opened until the pressure gauge shows zero and the steam is all exhausted.

Serve Together on Platter.

The meat and vegetables are served together on a large platter. A fruit salad made of apple, orange, and nuts with a mayonnaise dressing may be served with this dinner and may be used in the place of a dessert. Or a pineapple and cottage cheese salad may be served.

Meat requiring longer cooking should be used with vegetables that also need longer time. With a four pound chuck roast of beef use beets, navy beans, and parsnips with a head lettuce salad. Cut off part of the fat and fry out in the cooker. Wipe off the meat with a cloth wrung out of cold water, and season with salt and pepper, rub with flour, and brown in the hot fat. First, the navy beans should be washed and soaked in hot water until they are plump. They should then be drained and turned into an inset pan, partially covered with hot water, the seasonings added, and heated through on top of the stove. The parsnips should be peeled and the beets washed. These vegetables should be placed in separate inset pans.

Vegetables in Rack.

When the meat is browned add one cup of boiling water, place the rack over the meat, and place the vegetables on the rack. Fasten the cover and leave the petcock open until the steam is issuing from it freely, then close the petcock and cook thirty minutes at fifteen pounds' pressure. Always count the time from the minute the desired pressure is reached. When the time is up open the petcock and wait until the steam pressure is down to zero. Many people have been badly burned by not observing this simple rule. Most burns from steam pressure cookers are from this cause or through using too high pressure.

The woman who has learned how to take proper care of her cooker will find it lasts a lifetime. In the first place, the petcock and safety valve should be taken apart and cleaned thoroughly every time it is used. A damp cloth with a little baking soda sprinkled on it is used to polish the spring and ball in the safety valve. Nothing should be used that would tend to scratch the ball, or it may be difficult to keep the pressure up.

Household Hints

Butter for sandwiches will go farther and spread more easily if it is first creamed with a little hot milk.

Something tasty to serve with salads is the mayonnaise puff. To make a flock of them, fold one stiffly beaten egg white into a cup of mayonnaise. Pile on crackers and toast in the broiler until they are delicately browned and puffed.

LAMB BEST BUY OF THIS WEEK, SAYS COUNCIL

The committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago yesterday issued the following report for the guidance of housewives purchasing meat in Chicago retail meat stores:

"Lamb is recommended as the best meat to buy in Chicago retail meat stores at the present time. Breast of lamb, stuffed and roasted, or roast stuffed shoulder of lamb are unusually attractive buys."

SHAMROCK GETS PRAISE AS CHIEF OF IRISH WEALTH

"The shamrock has contributed more to the support of the Irish people than any other plan, the potato included, and its is destined to play an important part in New York state because of the development of the dairy industry," says Prof. D. B. Johnston-Wallace of the New York state college of agriculture.

"According to tradition, St. Patrick used the three leaves of the shamrock to illustrate the doctrine of the Trinity. The plant that has the strongest claim to the honor of being the original shamrock is believed to be wild white clover.

"The greenness of Ireland, its wonderful pastures, its famous horses, and its importance as a cattle raising country are due to a large extent to the abundance of wild white clover that grows in its fertile soils.

"Wild white clover increases the feed values of pastures and contributes to the health and productivity of livestock. It not only obtains enough nitrogen from the air for its own growth but passes much of it to the soil with great benefit to the grasses."

New Revolving Pusher for Pureeing Food Saves Time

One of the gadgets designed for saving time and work is a wooden pusher for pureeing foods. When fruits and vegetables are to be rubbed through a sieve, the ball of wood which revolves on a metal holder makes quick work of the job.

Birthday Party Is Staged for Allerton Woman, 90

SOY BEAN RANKED HIGHEST OF ALL AS PROTEIN FOOD

Soy beans contain the only complete protein found in the vegetable kingdom and are usually listed along with eggs, milk, and meat as a source of this necessary food principle, says Miss Gertrude E. Conant, nutritionist of the University of Arkansas.

Millions of people in the orient, particularly the Japanese, utilize soy beans more than any other food, substituting them for bread, meat, and potatoes.

In times of food shortages many farmers become interested in the more common types of human foods, such as cowpeas and soy beans, which are not much thought of during prosperous times except as stock feed.

Soy beans are rich in fat, contain a high percentage of calcium, and also are extremely good sources of pellagra preventive vitamin. The darker varieties of soy beans have a rather strong taste, which may be modified by soaking for twelve hours in cold water, parboiling for ten minutes, and draining, adding a slice of onion to the water in which the cooking is completed. The beans may be boiled until tender and served as baked beans or in soups and loafs.

In China the beans are soaked in water, roasted, and used the same as roasted peanuts. The Japanese prepare a soy bean milk which is comparable to cow's milk.

To prepare this milk, ground beans, meal, or pressed cakes are used. The ground beans are mixed with seven parts of boiling water, boiled ten minutes, stirring constantly, and then strained through cheesecloth. The product may be used in the same way as cow's milk.

WOODEN BOWL SET, MATCHED, IS SMART FOR BUFFET TABLE

Last year every housewife wanted a large wooden bowl for salads. This year she wants not one bowl but a set of bowls.

The large bowl and matching individual wooden bowls are smart on informal buffet tables. Italian spaghetti, salads, and berries are but a few of the foods that are being served in them.

MILK FOR BUTTER, CHEESE.

It takes 22 pounds of milk to churn a pound of butter, 10 to 15 pounds of milk to manufacture a pound of cheese.

IDA BAILEY ALLEN IS RIGHT! THE NEW NUCOA IS WONDERFUL FOR ALL COOKING!

YES—AND THE CHILDREN SIMPLY LOVE IT SPREAD ON BREAD!

And how much money you save with THE NEW NUCOA!

By Ida Bailey Allen

"Really, I have never seen women so enthusiastic over any product as they are over the New Nucoa!

"To me, of course, it is a truly amazing product. For it is one of the most delicious spreads for bread you ever tasted. Yet, it saves as much as 1/3 to 1/2 over the spread you are probably now using.

"Then, too, it is splendid for every cooking purpose. You'll find it is a perfect shortening, a delightful seasoning for vegetables, and wonderful for making sauces, candies and for frying.

CUTS FOOD BILLS AMAZINGLY

"No wonder thousands of women are so thrilled with this remarkable new margarine . . . a margarine that is perfect for every table and cooking purpose! You see, the New Nucoa is made from cultured whole milk, finest American vegetable oils and a little salt . . . all combined by a new process. I know your whole family will love its delicious flavor. And you'll find that it cuts your food bills amazingly. Why not get a package? If you are not in every way delighted, you get double your money back!"

IDEAL FOR EVERY TABLE AND COOKING USE!

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK! If you don't feel that the new NUCOA is all that Mrs. Allen has said about it here, return the package and unused portion of NUCOA, with your name and address, and your grocer will give you double your money back.

He can't sleep and tomorrow is his busy day

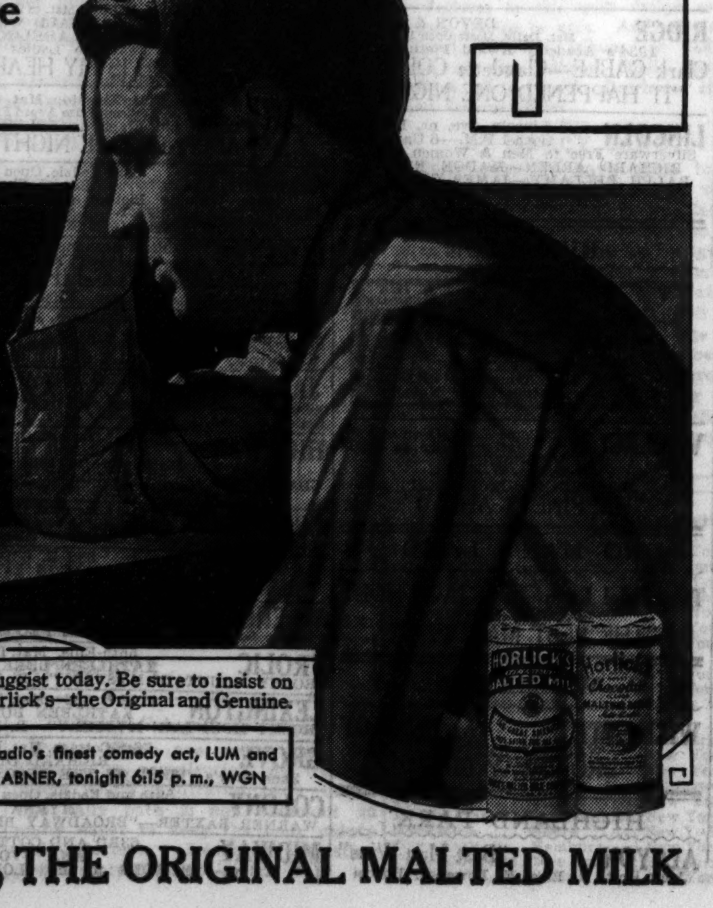
too bad he doesn't know the secret of a good night's rest

—a cup of Horlick's, hot, at bedtime



THIS gentleman will tell you how miserable a sleepless night can be. He went to bed early. Tomorrow is his busy day and he wanted to get a full night's rest. But sleep won't come. He's been awake for hours. The morning will find him still tired and weary. Worn out before his day begins. Too bad, of course. What a pity he doesn't know that a cup of Horlick's, hot, before retiring induces sound, refreshing sleep.

A bedtime drink of Horlick's Malted Milk relaxes the body, soothes the nerves. Helps you to fall asleep quickly, and to sleep peacefully all night long. Horlick's is just the sort of nourishing, easily digested food which science says should be taken before going to bed. You will sleep better than if you had gone to bed on an empty stomach.

Horlick's—a fine food drink

For nearly half a century Horlick's Malted Milk has been known as the great American food-drink for persons of all ages, and as an excellent infant food. Let Horlick's serve you as it has served so many thousands of others. Get a package from your druggist today. Be sure to insist on Horlick's—the Original and Genuine.

Rogers Insists on Trousers in Bedroom Scene

Also Wears Vest Under Blue Pajamas.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 14.—[Special.]—Will Rogers is so opposed to the flowery, ornate and unconventional that when assigned to wear orange pajamas and electric blue dressing gown in "Doubting Thomas," his current picture, with Billie Burke, he insisted on wearing the trousers and vest of his blue serge suit under the bedroom wear. When Will is assigned to a new picture the stock question to his director about his wardrobe is this: "Which suit should I wear—the blue serge or the brown?"

A Los Angeles publishing firm is bringing out the scenario of the Max Reinhardt-Warner Brothers version of a "Midsummer Night's Dream." Illustrations are stills shot on the movie sets. The added rôles, added scenes, added dialog and added stage directions which Shakespeare didn't have in his fantasy are included.

The leading man's [Kent Douglass'] real name is Isador Weiss . . . Warner Oland, who was brought to this country by his parents when 10 years of age, will satisfy an ambition that gets stronger every year by visiting his native Sweden this summer. His wife, the former Edith Shearn, will accompany him. She wants to collect some Scandinavian recipes. . . . Will Rogers says he never had a cigar in his mouth until he filmed "Connecticut Yankee" a year ago. . . . Rosemary Ames has been entertaining her mother, Mrs. Adelaide Ames, and brother, John D. Ames of Chicago, at Fox studio and on location trips.

They let Harry Langdon pick his own type of short reel comedy and develop his own gags under his new contract at Columbia and he chose "Sore Feet," a story in which he plays a chiropodist mixed up in a Latin-American revolution.

Carl Randall, who staged the dances for Cochrane's London musical shows for several years, and did the same for other producers in Monte Carlo and New York, has been signed to a long contract to handle presentation of all dance effects in M. G. M. pictures. He has worked in only one film, coming here recently to boss the dancing and at the same time act as partner for Jean Harlow in the Harlow film "Reckless" . . . Lillian Bond has been summoned back to Hollywood from the Bahama Islands to play Mrs. Timmons in "China Seas," the current starring vehicle of the newly divorced Miss Harlow. Jean and Bill Powell both insist there is nothing marital in the air as far as they are concerned.

Married Man as Beau Must Be Dismissed

BY DORIS BLAKE.

When the gentleman in the case confides, after a period of courtship, that he has a wife tucked away somewhere in the background, give him the gate.

Of course, he'll tell that he and his wife never got on. They haven't been living together as man and wife for a long time. That the kids have been weaned away from him by this awful creature to whom he innocently submitted his future. That he'd get a divorce and marry you in a minute, only——. There's always an only, an out for him.

In Gene's case the inspiration of today's attack, the ONLY has after it a couple of youngsters. Only for the youngsters, he says, he would have had a divorce a long time ago. Also there's an old mother with some money whose sympathies obviously are with the wife and mother of the children.

A bird like that is zero in the hands of a young woman of 23. Knowing nothing about a wife in the background until a recent forced confession, naturally the girl is not due for censure, unless now she keeps on with the gentleman.

Wouldn't it be a good idea, however, for young women seeing a man every week to do a little inquiring into his background?

Don't Dictate to Child About His Allowance

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"O, I forgot to tell you" is the way in which a friend of mine always begins a piece of news. Well, I forgot to speak of one more thing in connection with allowances before we leave the subject for good.

That one thing is: Having decided to give your child a weekly allowance, don't dictate beforehand how he shall spend it, nor criticize him after he has done so. Of course, some children have more of what we call native good sense than others, but given time, most of them will learn how to use an allowance with a measure of good judgment.

But you mustn't expect that to come all at once. If your son is little and you expect his allowance to cover just one small item, or he's bigger and has to "treat" on it, or your daughter has to make her allowance cover materials for her hobby, give them time and they will, after a few mistakes, learn to apportion their money to make ends meet.

The other thing it is best to let them learn through first hand experience is not to waste their money or to buy trashy things with it.

Exceptions there always are—and so we must step in where the foolish expenditure may injure health. For instance, one should make a rule for the younger child against buying candy.

If you have missed our other articles on this subject or feel that there are some points on which you are not quite clear, you might like to send for our written-in-full booklet called "Allowances, or The Wise Use of Money" which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Schumann-Heink to Give Benefit Concert to Aid Hull House

Hull house, founded by Jane Addams 45 years ago, will hold its first benefit on April 22. To aid the settlement's music school, Miss Addams has agreed to a benefit concert to be given by her friend, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, and the Women's Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall.

The music school gives instruction to those showing the greatest aptitude. The students range in age from very young children to mothers. In some cases mothers once young students in the school are now bringing their own families for musical education.

A number of students have gone from Hull house music school into professional music careers.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mark Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. The evil looking gardener of the De Bellesnaves arouses Sarah's suspicions. Sarah calls to get a prescription of Miss Venables' from Marjory Barrows, Dr. Gilcrest's dispenser, and finds Beryl Tomlins there. Sarah goes home with Miss Tomlins after they both get the capsules they came after. Miss Tomlins gets a stomach attack. Dr. Gilcrest is called, but she is dead before he arrives. Sarah goes to return a bracelet which the baroness had dropped at Miss Venables'. She finds Harry there and he walks home with her. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter, telling her she has one more day to live. She and Sarah report it to the police.

INSTALMENT XXIX.

COLD BLOODED OFFICIALDOM.

The chef looked up. "I do not read English," he said. "Will you favor me with a translation?"

When Sarah had given him the French rendering he sat in sceptical silence.

"And what was the final word of advice?" he inquired unemotionally.

"I was told to keep away from water," the spinster replied.

"Ah! And you have done so?"

"Yes—after crossing the channel; but how is one to know just what is meant?"

A shrug was the only answer to this, but presently, leaning back in his chair, and weighing his sentence with scrupulous deliberation, the chief delivered the following pronouncement:

"Mademoiselle, every itinerant vendor of the sort you suspect, as well as all orientals of whatever description, have been subjected to close observation with entirely negative results. The police have concluded that the threats you have received—empty ones, thus far, as you yourself will admit—cannot emanate from the alleged source. We must therefore continue to regard them as a species of hoax, the purpose of which I do not venture to postulate. That is, unless your own knowledge can suggest an alternative theory?"

"I have given you my explanation. I know of no other."

He shrugged again, raised resigned brows, and tapped the paper with unveiled contempt.

"If you choose to leave this with us we can test it for finger prints. Is that your desire?"

Miss Venables, who had winced and grown a shade more rigid, gave an indifferent consent.

"There was nothing but my own finger prints on the other letters. I imagine this will be the same."

"Precisely. That is the answer I anticipated," retorted the official.

"Then——" She flushed dully. "You can do nothing for me?"

"I fear not, mademoiselle; but pray let me impress upon you there is nothing to dread; the danger is not real."

Sarah detected a lurking smile on the bearded face. That smile seemed to indicate some private assumption on the speaker's part, some hidden conviction which nothing could shake, but what it could be she was at a total loss to imagine.

"You see how it is?" Miss Venables burst out as soon as they had quitted the building. "I must be murdered before the law can make a move. Well!" Her lips tightened in stoical restraint. "Come what may I shall not set foot inside that building again. At least let me cling on to some shreds of self-respect."

That she had suffered deep mortification Sarah did not doubt. What she could not guess was whether the impression gleaned from the interview coincided with her own.

"Why," she hazarded delicately, "did he behave as though it were the height of folly to take these threats seriously?"

"But surely you understand! To me it is as clear as day. If he admits danger it is tantamount to saying Maj. Frampton was murdered—a thing in no circumstances to be conceded.

"We will speak to no one of this," Miss Venables was saying with great earnestness. "No one, mind—not even the doctor. If I go on crying 'Wolf!' each time these excitements occur I shall soon turn into an intolerable nuisance."

"Never!" cried Sarah loyally. "You couldn't be that."

"O, but I could! And now that another, and possibly the final test has come, I intend to take a firm line. Until the seventeenth is past I shall take reasonable precautions, but after that, if I still live, none at all. I am tired of cringing."

"I think you are splendid!" murmured Sarah, squeezing her arm. "And do you know? I've a feeling this will be your last fright. Something tells me our precious lunatic—for it is a lunatic; can't be anything else—is weary of the game and wants to quit."

"I am quitting, which is more to the point," returned the good woman grimly. "And if I keep you on—which I should much like to do—it will be in a different capacity from that of private nurse. We get on well together, don't we? I——" She had stopped in the middle of the pavement and was staring straight ahead. "S'sh! There is Dr. Gilcrest coming out of that house."

Sarah's pulses gave a bound as she saw the doctor glance with particular interest at herself. He approached, with slight diffidence, and explained that he had just dropped in at the local vet's to inspect a young wire haired terrier he was proposing to buy for the baron.

"Six months old and a lively chap. Perhaps you'd give me your advice? I've said I'd think it over."

Either Miss Venables welcomed the diversion, or else, as Sarah had noticed on former occasions, she was always ready to sink her personal worries in the concerns of others. They walked round to the kennels at the back and soon she was exclaiming over the antics of a frolicsome terrier which tore at her gloves and leaped frantically to lick her cheek.

"But he is a darling! No, no, he is not at all too lively. The baron cannot help but take to a friendly little creature like this. Why do you hesitate?"

"He'll chew things. The baroness may object."

"Maddalena object to what gives her husband pleasure? Never in this world! What is the vet asking? A thousand francs? O, dear, I cannot permit you to do this! It must be my gift. See, I have my checkbook in my bag."

"Keep it there," retorted Gilcrest, smiling but firm. "No, I won't lend you my pen. If you approve of the dog, then it's all settled and I shall take him home with me. Miss Barrows will keep him a day or so just to see if his habits are respectable. Will you come and see him installed?"

To Sarah's joy the invitation was accepted, and soon the dispenser was exclaiming over the mass of affection strung on steel wires which made an exuberant onslaught on her orderly appointments.

"O, how adorable? What's his name? Max? A real bundle of mischief—no, I don't mind. We'll borrow one of your cushions, doctor, to make him a bed in the laboratory. See, here's Polly's saucer, washed clean, and—but do look at his lordship, already rooting out those dreadful old slippers! Leave him alone, Miss MacNeil, this will force the doctor to buy a new pair."

Before leaving Miss Venables asked permission to look through the doctor's books in search of something light to read. Sarah fancied that he hesitated slightly as he went ahead to switch on the lights, and when, after a brief interval, he invited both guests to help themselves to whatever books might please them, the reason for the delay became apparent. Sarah's first thought on entering the room was the baroness' photograph, which her employer had probably not seen. She glanced swiftly toward the corner of the book shelves and felt a blankness descend on her.

The picture was gone.

The three pored over the book shelves while the spinster made her selection, but soon the latter returned to the dispensary, leaving Sarah still ostensibly absorbed in titles. Gilcrest, at her side, glanced after his patient with a questioning frown, then at herself.

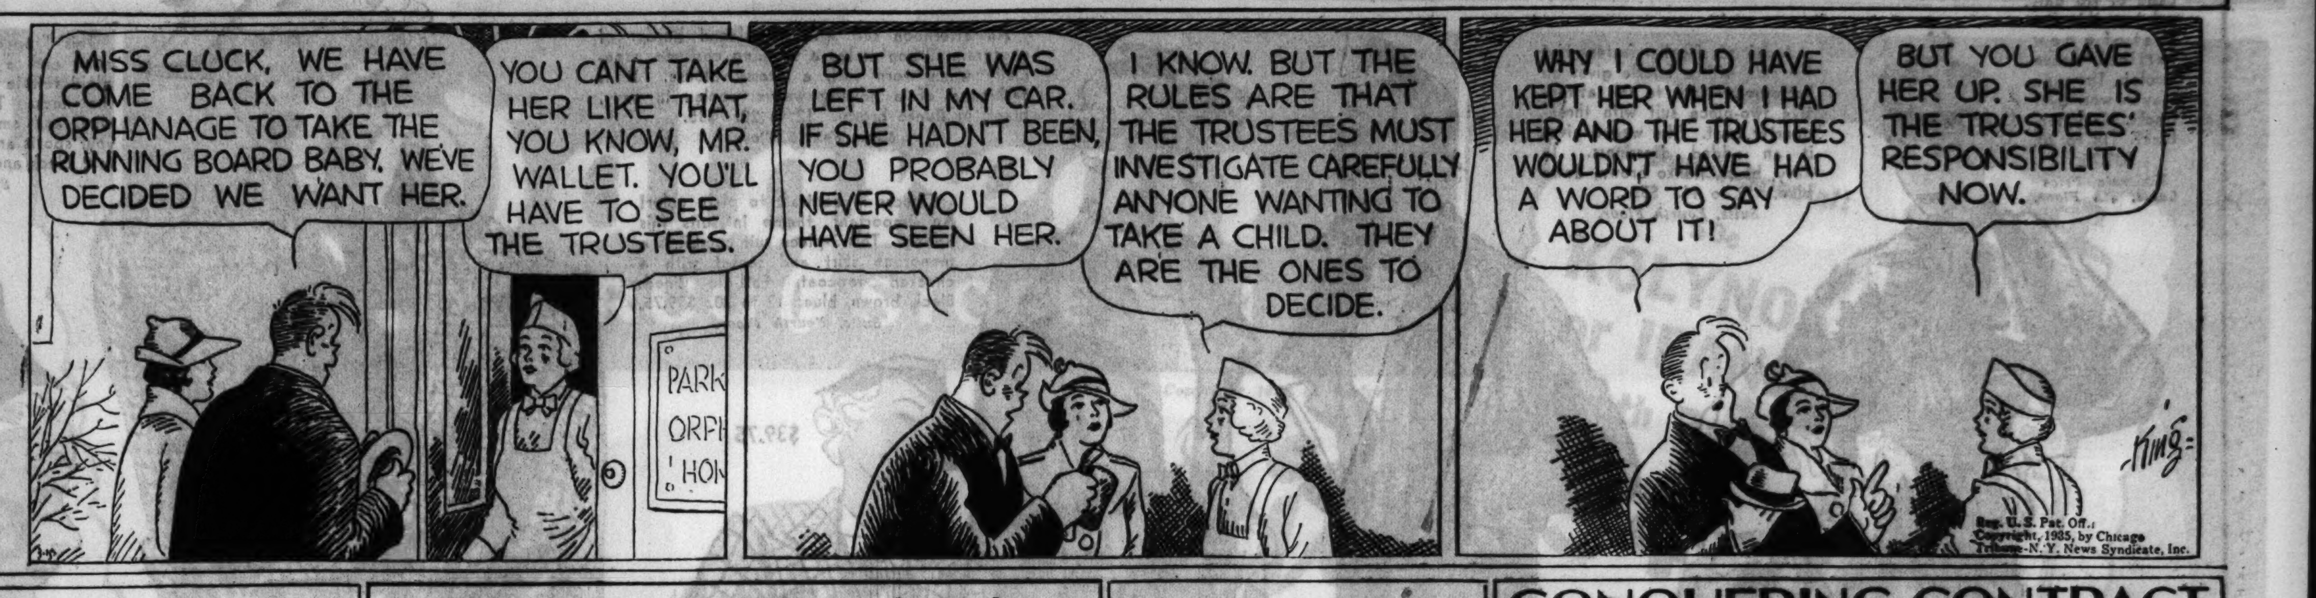
"Blowing Feather" Good Exercise.

K. C.: The blowing of an imaginary feather is an exercise which will work wonders on the mouth and jawline. I have the neck and double chin exercises in illustrated form, and ask you to send along a stamped, addressed envelope for them.

Neutralizing Body Odors.

P. K.: There are preparations for diminishing perspiration, as well as others which neutralize body odors. The daily bath is not sufficient in many cases to keep the body dainty and odorless. Deodorant dusting powders are helpful.

GASOLINE ALLEY—SUPPLY AND DEMAND



Here's Praise for Beneduce Water Colors

Exhibit Is Entertaining and Exciting.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A most interesting and exciting exhibit of water colors by Antimo Beneduce has opened in the Robert Breckenridge gallery, 908 North Michigan avenue.

It is practically impossible to speak of as fine an exhibit as this without bringing in the names of John Whorf and Winslow Homer for comparison, but this time we made a solemn promise to the artist that no matter how great the temptation to limit the virility of his work by such comparison, we would put the temptation behind us and let his painting stand on its own merit.

The water colors are of scenes on the Maine coast, the Italian Riviera, from the heart of North Africa, and, discarding landscape for the minute, of flowers. There are only three flower studies, but they are stunning. The arrangement of carnations is possibly the most unique and the most charming.

Maine has been seen when the glass was low and several of the paintings depict stormy or sullen weather. A brisk wind is blowing through the fascinating "By the Sea," a very lovely painting of wide reaches of sky and water with three figures etched along the margin of sand. The gradations of blues in this is delightful.

"Bass Rock" shows the turbulent eddy of waves fighting an obstruction that has no idea of yielding to their onslaught. "The Engine House" is magnificent for its solid color and atmosphere of solitary self-sufficiency.

North Africa is a place of sun and shadows, costumed figures and picturesque trees. The painter has brought back a number of vivid impressions. "Market Place, Kairouan," "Reflections," and "Palms in Tunisia" are among the finest.

The Italian Riviera was seen in dark weather and its more familiar radiance is clouded with sullen shadow. The "Cloud Capped" makes one think of anything rather than sunny Italy. On the other hand, the Square of St. Mark's in hot sunshine with a few pigeons and sightseers brings us up short with delight.

These water colors have been exhibited in many of the important museums in America and abroad. Mr. Beneduce is a recognized exhibitor in the Chicago Art institute's international water color show. His exhibit is well worth seeing. It will continue to March 31.

Quilt Founded on Symbolic Figure of 'Eastern Star'

Eastern Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Many requests have come to my desk for a quilt design which would be suitable to be used in an Eastern Star quilt. There are numerous patterns which might well be recognized by that name; but, since the emblem of the lodge is so simple and attractive, the members may have their own design, adapted from the lodge emblem. "Eastern Star" may be appliquéd on a white or colored ground. The blocks may be set together with bands of plain yellow gold material, joined block to block, or alternated with plain blocks.

"Up on the Toes" Is Good Motto for Lovely Carriage

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The other day I had a chat with Judith Anderson, well known actress, now appearing in a Broadway production. I was trying to track down the secret of that gorgeous walk of hers, a lovely lilting movement of body as light as the proverbial thistledown.

It's obviously something Miss Anderson has come by naturally. She says the youngsters in school all used to laugh at the way she walked and ran. She was always on the run, up on her toes and moving swiftly along. We'd recommend the youngsters to do more of it if it would bring them to maturity with the elastic spring in the sole that obviously is Miss Anderson's gift. Yvonne Printemps, the French actress who played not long ago on Broadway, is the only other person I've noted with that lovely lilt of foot motion.

Out to dinner after seeing Miss Anderson, I was telling the women guests of this hidden spring of grace in the foot, as illustrated by the clever actress. They insisted upon trying for it. A funny thing I noted was that the minute those women got up on their toes to walk across the room, a transformation came over their bodies. So much more alert, chests up, heads up, with that tall-stretched look that gives youth and grace to the figure as nothing else will. Out of which incident comes the suggestion that walking around on the toes be practiced frequently and often.

You have no idea what it does to the whole silhouette construction. When Miss Anderson walks, her heels just skirt the floor. She tells me that she stands with the weight of her body on the balls of the feet, that even in shoes she finds herself constantly clutching the floor with her toes. And believe me, in strengthening that front part of the foot, you have a wonderful secret of body carriage and lovely, flowing motion.

Try it often around the house, even at the risk of having hubby think you are sneaking up on him. If you have any leg reducing work to perform, it's still a great trick to adopt.

Union League Club Party for Commanders.

Welcoming and farewell parties are being combined at the Union League club this evening in a dinner which is being given for Gen. and Mrs. Frank R. McCoy and Admiral Wat T. Cluverius. Gen. McCoy arrived in Chicago recently to take command of the 6th Corps area, and Admiral Cluverius, who has been in command at Great Lakes, is leaving shortly to take command of the base fort of the fleet in the Pacific.

John McKinley, president of the club, will welcome Gen. McCoy in the name of the club, and both Gen. McCoy and Admiral Cluverius will speak. As the trustees of Lake Forest college are conferring a degree on the admiral tonight at their annual dinner at the Congress hotel, Admiral Cluverius will leave the Union League dinner long enough to accept the honor in person.

Princess Alexandra Kropotkin, writer and lecturer, will address members of the Union League at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. She is appearing at the Cordon club this afternoon between 4 and 6 o'clock.

Buffet Dinner Tonight at Glen View Club.

Members of the Glen View club will enjoy a buffet dinner tonight at the club at the final dinner-dance of the series held this season. To judge by the reservation list it will be a gay evening. Special entertainment has been planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. McNally are going to entertain, and so are the Roland Wearys, Mr. and Mrs. David Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Ames, and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad H. Poppenhusen. Still others who made early reservations are Mr. and Mrs. Gardner B. Van Ness, the Raymond P. Hoovers, the Frederick Gillespies, and the Shepard Roberts.

Tomorrow afternoon Royal C. Vilas Jr., David Crawford, and William Graham, who are considered Glen View's top notch skeet shooters, are going to compete in an interclub tournament at the Knollwood club. The other clubs entered are the South Shore Country club, the Onwentsia, and possibly a Milwaukee club. Stuart A. Prosser holds the record for skeet shooting at the Onwentsia and John E. Wheeler and Thompson Ross at Knollwood.

Members of the D'Oyly Carte company as well as those of "The First Legion" will be guests of the Tavern at the supper-dance the club is giving tomorrow night.

Alfred Shaw, Walter Frazier, Walker G. Everett, Ambrose Finn Jr., Joseph Stanowicz of the Polish consulate and Walter J. Greenebaum are among those who have made reservations for the dance.

Two Fashion Shows Planned.

Many small but interesting parties are in prospect the next month. The Kenilworth Center of Infant Welfare is to hold its annual bridge tea and fashion show on April 10 at the Kenilworth club.

Mrs. Lester Dunbar has accepted the general chairmanship, with Mrs. George H. Willis handling the publicity. The president of the center is Miss Nona Jane Handwork.

More spring fashions will be on parade next Wednesday afternoon in the drawing room of Mrs. Clara H. Bates' handsome home at 335 Wellington avenue when the Tower Town group of the Chicago Junior school holds its spring party. Assisting Mrs. Bates as hostess will be Mrs. Harrison O. Willey, president of the group, and Mrs. Alden Scott Boyer, the secretary.

The Faulkner Alumnae association is to have a benefit bridge luncheon at 12:30 Tuesday at the South Shore Country club.

Mrs. Daniel Green and Mrs. Daniel Peterkin have issued invitations to the board members of the Chicago Home for Convalescent Women and Children for luncheon Monday at the Casino. Mrs. Charles Middlebrook is the board president.

Mrs. Lennox Haldeman will entertain the board of the Sunbeam league at luncheon today in her home, 7000 South Shore drive. The members will discuss plans for the league's annual card party, which is to be held April 30 at the Stevens hotel.

Kentucky Society Will Meet Today.

Mrs. Walter Franklin of 529 Michigan avenue, assisted Mrs. Edward Boswell and Mrs. Louis Williams, will entertain the Kentucky society this afternoon. The society was founded by the late Mrs. Eugene Buffington and Mrs. William Allen Pusey and supports the Hindman school at Hindman, Ky.

Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and her daughter, Miss Mary Reed, and Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe and her daughter, Miss Jean Schweppe, are planning to go to Florida Sunday. They will be joined by the sons of the two families, John Shedd Reed and John Shedd Schweppe, for their spring vacations from the schools they attend. Mr. Schweppe is at St. Paul's and his cousin is at Hotchkiss. Miss Reed's engagement to John Peale Bent was announced several days age.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Veeder of Winnetka will leave today for a month's visit in the west. They will spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Veeder at Pebble Beach and then motor to southern California and Palm Springs.

Mrs. John L. Cochran and her younger daughter, Nancy, are leaving today for a trip to California.

Mrs. Arthur Cable and Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson are expected to arrive at home on Sunday from a trip to Mexico.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine arrived at home Wednesday from a short trip to California.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 14.—(AP)—A report that Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark would arrive in Stockholm tomorrow increased belief here tonight that his engagement to marry Princess Ingrid of Sweden will be announced shortly.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

RESPONDING WHEN VERY WEAK AFTER PARTNER'S SECOND-ROUND DEDUCTIVE DOUBLE.

Continuing directly with yesterday's article, if the bidding has been

East. Pass.
South. One no trump.
West. Pass.
North. Pass.
East. Double.
South. Pass.

What should West do with a worthless hand, containing no five-card suit to bid from weakness, and whose only four-card suit is either that bid by North, or is hopeless—J x x x or less?

Bear This in Mind.

Your partner presumably has no safe refuge suit of his own, otherwise why did he not make an immediate first-round strategic double?

Further, even if his hand has support of a kind for your wretched four-card suit, it was not strong enough to enable him to make an immediate first-round distributive double.

Surely, therefore, your side will be penalized—almost surely doubled—if you get into the bidding. After all, one opponent had an opening bid and the other one had something with which he kept the bidding open. In this situation, with a worthless hand and no even faintly biddable suit, West must TAKE A LICKING AND CHOOSE THE LEAST SEVERE PUNISHMENT by passing and let the opponents play, if they wish to, at one no trump doubled, and probably make it. They may even make three or four odd—but it will not give them a game. Their overtricks will probably not amount to much more than the penalty they might inflict on you if you get into the bidding—and may well be much less. Your partner may be amply justified in his double; it just happens that he has caught you with a useless hand, and probably the opponents have a better fit than they know; in fact, they may have underbid because of their system or from poor judgment. Maybe the no-trump response was of the old fashioned denial type, and that player should have bid two hearts or two on a minor suit or even one spade. Or else the opening bidder should have made a further move despite the weak response. Or both may be at fault. Possibly neither opponent was wrong, but the cards are clamped around your partner's values from both sides in such manner that he is trapped in the play, and can neither defeat them nor make any bid of two himself, nor come close to it. In that case it is cheaper to pass the double. I have even got top scores on boards by doing this. They made their one doubled with two or three overtricks. Had I bid, they would have doubled or rebid in such manner as to get to a game which they could make, probably doubled by East. When you are vulnerable and they are not, it is especially necessary to limit your possible loss by passing the double. Your pass will very likely slow them up if they really can bid and make game, despite their early sign-off. Knowing the limitations of your partner's hand, as evinced by his failure to bid or double on the first round, do not shirk the decision of preferring the frying pan to the fire. Doubles must go wrong sometimes. Contract is a game, not a calculating machine. In such cases as we are considering, do not reproach your partner for not passing the one no trump contract if he really had doubling material. On the next five or six similar hands, such double will probably be profitable. Do not accept his censure if it should turn out that the opponents can make two no trumps, and only two, whereas had you bid your J x x x suit, the cards lay so that your side could make three odd in that suit, or perhaps could make only two odd and that therefore it would have been better to go down at three rather than let the adversaries make one doubled with an overtrick. This is result judgment carried too far. When each has used proper judgment in the action taken, accept defeat gracefully. The cards have on this one hand beaten you—you have not beaten yourselves. Rightly treated, the cards will reward you amply and often in the fullness of time.

U. of C. Exhibits Sumerian Statues 5,000 Years Old

Several Sumerian statues of 5,000 years ago, unearthed with scores of others from a "burial pit" beneath the shrine of the ancient Babylonian god, Abu, near Bagdad, Iraq, have been placed on exhibition in the museum of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago, it was announced yesterday. The excavations are being carried on by Prof. Henri Frankfort, field director of the Iraq expedition of the institute.

The statues, mostly of women, are in almost perfect condition and resemble figures carved in early Gothic cathedrals. The excavations and study have established cultural relations between the ancient Sumerians in southern Babylonia and the people of early India.

A detachable cape of kid galyak tops this slim coat of a new vertical weave woolen. The cape may be worn over frocks. Navy, tan, black. 14 to 20. $39.75.
Moderate Price Coats, 4th Floor.

A soft scarf collar fastened at the side with a buckle gives an "afternoon" look to this attractive two-piece suit with three-quarter coat. The weave gives it an added dressiness. In navy, black, Runko brown, dawn blue. 12 to 44. $55.
Suits, Fourth Floor.

An afternoon suit with hand-laced border of grosgrain ribbon makes a stunning costume, especially when worn with a dressy blouse. It is fashioned of a novelty weave woolen in navy, black, or Runko brown. 12 to 20. $35.
Suits, Fourth Floor.

Checks in contrast to plain color! An important theme in suits this Spring. This 3-piece suit combines a monotone skirt and jacket with a checked topcoat, Earl-glo lined. Black, brown, blue. 12 to 20. $39.75.
Suits, Fourth Floor.

This "topcoat suit" has a broken-check coat and a tailored monotone skirt. A plaid taffeta tie strikes a note of color at the neck. The coat is double-breasted, slim, and smart, and goes perfectly with your sports and street frocks. In brown and tan; black and white. Sizes 12 to 20. $35.
Suits, Fourth Floor.

This two-piece tailleur carries out the smart "ruler silhouette." Single-breasted, with an action back. Of men's wear flannel. In gray, brown, navy, oxford. 12 to 20. $16.75.
Suits, Fourth Floor.

The flaring border on the cape gives a youthful verve to this fashionable coat for misses. In black with detachable galyak cape; green, brown, or black with baronduki. 14 to 20. $79.75.
Better Coats, Fourth Floor.

Carson's HAS PUT THE SUM TOTAL OF NEW SPRING FASHIONS INTO THESE

COATS and SUITS

$15.00 TO $79.75

Weeks ago, while you were still thinking about winter clothes, we were studying up on new spring fashions in coats and suits, learning about the importance of such features as

Cape Treatments	Novelty Fabrics	Boxy Lines	Furs, Flat or Fluffy
Rippling Collars	Mixtures for Sports	Bloused Backs	Taffeta Trimmings

We made our selections for your outdoor spring wardrobe with these points in mind—not forgetting our insistence upon Carson quality and budget-respecting prices. The fruit of our labors you see on this page—prices vary according to garment, $15 to $79.75.

Moire galyak trims the wide rippling revers of this dressy coat—and galyak is the most important of the flat furs. A galyak scarf follows the line of the revers. In one of the new woolens, black only. 36 to 44 and 33½ to 41½. $69.75.
Better Coats, Fourth Floor.

A white pique flower accents this slim young Teenya coat. It may button on the shoulder for a smart high neckline. Novelty weave woolen in navy, black, beige. 11 to 17. $22.75.
Teenya Coats, Fifth Floor.

Shirred taffeta weave revers give this coat a charming feminine "prettiness." It has the new bloused sleeve emphasized by a tight cuff. Navy, black, or Runko brown. 12 to 20, at $16.75.

This coat is a twin to the "afternoon suit" with the hand-lacing of ribbon. It is dressy enough for any occasion, yet not too "fussy" for every day. Navy, black, Runko brown. 12 to 20. Priced at $29.75.

Moderately Priced Coats, Fourth Floor.

This camel's hair coat (at right) is the regulation style with an upstanding collar, a vent back, and leather buttons. Also in Balmacaan, paddock, and reefer styles. In natural camel's hair; also brown and tan, or black and white mixture tweed. 12 to 20, at $15.
Moderately Priced Coats, Fourth Floor.

A capelike oversleeve gives a 1935 silhouette to this smart coat for women. It comes in one of the smart new woolens with definite weave pattern. Blues, brown, tan, black, gray, accented in white pique. 36 to 44 and 35½ to 41½. $39.75.
Better Coats, Fourth Floor.

Left: The perfect coat for women who wear half sizes. It has a soft, flattering neckline, and a new rather full below-elbow sleeve. The weave-interest woolen comes in navy, black, brown. Sizes 14½ to 28½. Also 36 to 46. $25.
Moderately Priced Coats, Fourth Floor.

Checked mixtures are the foremost entry in fashion's list of sports favorites. This one, which buttons high at the neck, comes in blue or green with eggshell; rose with gray. 12 to 20, at $29.75.
Better Coats, Fourth Floor.

A detachable cape trimmed in wolf, flying squirrel or silver fox, trims this stunning coat which has the new bloused back. In blue, black or tan. Sizes 12 to 18, at $45.
Better Coats, Fourth Floor.

We stress the fact that in this sale there are sizes for every one—regular sizes for women, half sizes for women, misses' sizes, and even one especially selected coat in Teenya sizes. As for colors—there's plenty of black and navy, with a good selection in brown, tan and gray.

90-Proof Straight Whiskey 79c PINT

Bonded 6 Years Old 2.55 PINT

Judge by the Stars 1.39 PINT

London Dry Gin Distilled 1.19 FIFTH

Highest Quality Blend 1.58 PINT

"Say—that's a good idea—for those special occasions that come along."

"Better step lively, if you want some. Walgreen's still have it at a low price now, but once it's gone, it's gone, you know."

Bonded Old McBrayer

Here's one of the best of the real Kentucky Bourbons! This fine old whiskey was distilled way back in 1917 and aged for 17 years in charred white oak barrels. Old McBrayer was a great favorite even before prohibition. Nowadays the supply is diminishing every hour. 2.89 PINT

Bonded Old Grand-Dad

Another of the best Kentucky Bourbons, with the flavor and bouquet that comes from ripe old age. It was distilled in 1917, and aged in wood for 16 years. The distillery has entirely run out of Old Grand-Dad. We still have a few more bottles in our stores, with no more to be had. 2.98 PINT

Bonded Old Briargate

The famous Mellwood Distillery produced this excellent whiskey 18 years ago, in the heart of the Kentucky Bourbon country. Old Briargate is a pre-Prohibition prize, made mellow by long years of careful ageing. It has always ranked high among the finest whiskies ever produced. 3.29 PINT

Old Quaker Dry Gin 74c Fifth
A Schenley product. London dry gin.

Old Quaker Whiskey 98c Pint
Schenley's popular straight Bourbon

Fells London Dry Gin 1.39 Fifth
Distilled after an old formula.

Rock and Rye 1.85 Full Quart
Du Bouchett's delicious cordial.

Booth's High and Dry Gin 1.45 Fifth
Now made in U.S.A.

Jamaica Green Label Rum 3.49 Fifth
Genuine imported.

JOHN JAMESON'S IRISH WHISKEY

What could be more appropriate for St. Patrick's Day than this good old Irish Whiskey. Every drop is aged in wood at least 7 years. 3.69 FIFTH

"You must be getting wealthy —to be able to serve such delicious wine as the one you gave us at dinner last night."

"Well—I don't bring out real imported wine every night—just on special occasions. But I could serve it much oftener without worrying about it. Fine wines don't cost as much as you might think, when you buy them at Walgreen's."

Harvey Gold Cap Sherry

One of the finest products of Spain's great wine producing districts. A golden, medium sweet wine, excellent with dessert and preferred by many as an appetizer instead of a mixed cocktail. Gold Cap Sherry is bottled by John Harvey & Sons of Bristol, for years wine merchants to British royalty. 1.89 FIFTH

DaSilva 5 Crown Port

A choice import from one of Portugal's most famous vineyards in the Douro Valley—source of the finest port wines in the world. A favorite with desserts, or when poured over small cakes. DaSilva 5 Crown was chosen for its richness and rare bouquet by the former King Manuel II. of Portugal. 1.89 FIFTH

Darvand Sauterne, 1928

A golden, medium sweet French wine, of such delicate flavor and bouquet as only the famed Bordeaux district of France can produce. This Sauterne is of great vintage, 1928—the vintage prized by most critical judges of the finest wines, who like it served with the meal or with dessert. 1.49 FIFTH

Imported Burgundy 1.49 Fifth
Nuits St. George, serve with meat.

Imported Claret 1.49 Fifth
1928 St. Julien dinner wine.

Hostess Port 89c Fifth
Vintage of 1922 California wine.

Virginia Dare Wines 89c Fifth

Sparkling Burgundy 2.39 Fifth
Brotherhood domestic.

Renault Champagne 2.69 Fifth
Domestic. Greatly reduced price.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 14.—The goodly crowd of fans who turned out to see the Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates in their first 1935 exhibition game today were treated to a winter rariety, a 1 to 0 contest, with the Cubs on the winning end.

Hugh Casey, the Georgia quail slayer, was the main man of the July performance presented on this fair March day. "Old Casey," as this 21 year old Atlanta right hander is pleased to call himself, not only contributed four of the shutout innings, but it was his single in the sixth, one of four hits made by the Cubs, which drove in Cuyler with the lone counter of the afternoon. Roy Henshaw pitched the first five innings and confined the Pirates to three of their seven hits, including the only extra baser of the day, a double by Manager Pie Traynor with one out in the fourth.

Hack Makes Great Play.

Casey yielded a hit an inning, but was in no serious trouble until the ninth when Stanley Hack pulled him out with a great stop back of third and a throw for an eyelash decision.

Despite the nip and tuck character of the game, Manager Grimm gave 15 members of the cast a chance to crowd into the inaugural performance. Bill Jurges and Woody English were the only starters who played throughout.

To add to the midsummer illusion the Cubs executed two double plays and the Pirates reeled off one. The fielding, with the exception of excusable boots by Jurges and Traynor, was snappy indeed. The batters were slashing well enough, but as per evidence supplied in the two Cub intraclub games at Catalina Island, the pitchers appear to be far far ahead of the slugging gentlemen.

Pitcher Hits Cuyler.

The one run of the game was the outgrowth of one of the few instances of wildness. To start the sixth Birkofer grazed Cuyler with a pitched ball. Ki advanced to second on an infield out by English. Casey came to bat, by virtue of a substitution jumble on Demaree's entrance as a fielder after pinch batting for Henshaw. And Casey, reversing poetry, lined a single to right. Cuyler raced home a split second ahead of P. Waner's throw and the day's tabulating was over.

JOE SULLIVAN OF NOTRE DAME IS SLIGHTLY BETTER

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—A slight improvement in the condition of Joe Sullivan, Notre Dame football captain elect, was reported tonight at the New York hospital, where he is confined, seriously ill from a streptococcus infection and mastoid condition which developed after an attack of pneumonia.

Sullivan has rallied after a blood transfusion last night, his third since he was operated on twice Tuesday, and is doing as well as can be expected, hospital authorities said.

MISSES ORCUTT, BAUER LOSE IN BELLEAIR GOLF

Belleair, Fla., March 14.—[Special.]—Maureen Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., and Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., strong favorites to reach the title match of the annual Belleair women's golf tournament, today were eliminated in the semi-final round in two of the biggest upsets of the winter season.

Two Wisconsin girls scored the surprise victories, Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, defeating Miss Orcutt, 5 and 4, while Frances Hadfield, Milwaukee, rallied on the last three greens to defeat Miss Bauer, 1 up.

THE GUMPS—CHEER UP—THE WORST IS YET TO COME

NOW, LET'S KEEP GOING UNTIL SEPTEMBER!

WHITE SOX PLAY LOS ANGELES IN 1ST GAME TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 14.—The White Sox, having absorbed their final day of exercising on the training premises here, will set forth tomorrow on their ambitious preseason barnstorming expedition. The inaugural will occur at Santa Monica against the Los Angeles club, and the scene will be the town's new ball park

Jim Dykes, Sox manager, doesn't care whether the Angels whip his boys or vice versa, but is vitally concerned at the moment about some of the pitching youths assembled under his wing. He is going to employ these freshmen tomorrow and their showing will determine just how long they are going to remain with the squad. If they look worthy they might stick for a month. Otherwise it might be only a matter of days.

Rigney to Be Honored.

The honor of starting against the Angels will fall on J. Dungan Rigney, and in his case it is an honor because his previous high mark in competition was in Chicago semi-pro circles. The next pitching phenom to be involved will be Richard Bock, a bespectacled southpaw collegian, and after him one Monty Stratton, a long legged performer from Omaha of the Western league.

Dykes will open the exhibition campaign with the lineup he will regard as regular until developments force a change. The regulars, however, will be given only part time work. Luke Sewell, for instance, will be succeeded behind the plate of Bob Fenner, the portly athlete from the St. Paul team. Glenn Wright will follow Zeke Bonura at first base, Dykes will find a successor for himself at third, and at least a couple of the outfielders will enjoy relief.

Has Doubts About Washington.

The manager admitted during today's sweating process that he wasn't as sure as he had been about Vernon George Washington playing regularly in left and Al Simmons in center. During most of his career Washington has played in right, and apparently doesn't show much enthusiasm over the prospects of being turned into a new pasture. However, he will be given a trial in the new surroundings and if the experiment isn't satisfactory something will be done about it.

The outfield as planned also offers one other complication. Rip Radcliff, who for the time being is tagged for regular work, plays only right field. If he falls down on the assignment, making necessary the summoning of old Mule Haas, the latter will go to center, Simmons back to left, and Washington will be shifted from left into right.

The starting lineup tomorrow will be Hayes, 2b; Ratcliff, rf; Simmons, cf; Bonura, 1b; Washington, lf; Appling, ss; Dykes, 3b; Sewell, c, and Rigney, p.

STRAY REFLECTIONS.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 14.—What has impressed us most at the Hollywood studios is the meticulous detail to obtain perfect results from the camera, in sound and in scenic effects. Remember that besides the principal actors and extras in the cast there are twenty to fifty persons, depending on the picture, engaged in direction, including technicians and wardrobe and makeup assistants.

Much of this technical detail is quite beyond The Wake. An attempt to explain would simply be cluttering this column with a wastage of words which would not mean much when we ended. Let's turn, then, to reliable figures.

The average length of a picture on the public screen is an hour to an hour and fifteen minutes. Let's say 75 minutes. The average time allotted for making a picture is 30 working days. More elaborate productions take much longer. Shooting in "Dante's Inferno," in which we were an extra for two days, began early in December and just finished last Saturday. If we take 75 minutes for an average film and 30 days for average production, that's one day's production work for each 2½ minutes of film.

Just think of it! One whole day's work, and sometimes long days, by 50 to 100 persons, including actors, for two and one-half minutes of finished product before the theater audience!

We turf reporters were sitting in the presscoop on the last day of the Santa Anita meeting writing our stories of the stake to feed into clicking telegraph wires. In our coop was one of the transmitters of the public announcement system presided over by Señor Joe Hernandez, a really informative announcer.

All afternoon Joe had been urging patrons to get their bets down early as many were being shut out as the windows closed because of the congestion. Through the transmitter came: "Again in the race just finished, many patrons, through delaying, were not able to place their wagers. Again I warn you. For —— sake, get your bets down early." We looked up surprised and startled. Joe's voice continued, "How many times must I tell you? Don't be d——n fools by waiting until the last minute." Had Señor Hernandez gone berserk? Presently more from Joe:

"Now a final word to the newspaper writers. This has been a clean meeting. All you so-and-sos are cleaned, aren't you? It served you right. Never has such a bunch of so-and-sos written such infantile vaporings about gallant steeds whose breed we are trying to improve for cavalry remount purposes. And now you blank boobs, the management hopes you'll be more intelligent next season."

The indignation committee which went to Señor Hernandez' perch to protest found a plug had been inserted into that part of the public address system going to grandstand and clubhouse and only the press coop transmitter had been left open to receive the razzing words.

That's right! Tickets for the Intercity Golden Gloves bouts, Chicago vs. New York, at the Chicago Stadium, March 29, originally were available in five price classes.

But Chicago's fight fans didn't let that situation prevail very long. They stormed the ticket counters; they flooded the mails with orders, and now the only tickets which remain are those at $3.30 and $2.20.

The supply of these is limited. Get yours today! Tickets on sale at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, and at Tribune Tower. Or send check or money order to Golden Gloves Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

CANZONERI AND WOODS BATTLE IN STADIUM RING

Lightweights Head Show Tonight.

The Card

Chuck Woods vs. Tony Canzoneri [10].
Wesley Ramey vs. Frank Sagilio [10], 138.
Mike Belloise vs. Varias Milling [10], 129.
Sammy Chivas vs. Dick Sisk [6], 145.
Billy Treest vs. Lee Savoldi [6], 175.

A ten round lightweight elimination bout between Tony Canzoneri, veteran New York boxer, and Chuck Woods, Detroit youngster, will head tonight's card at Chicago Stadium. The winner will be in line for a title contest with Champion Barney Ross. In a battle at Detroit last month, Woods won the ten round decision.

Canzoneri's followers held that decision was in error, pointing out that Tony finished stronger and had Woods near a knockout in the late rounds. The fighters completed workouts yesterday by doing loosening up exercises. Both appeared in fine condition and trainers said each would easily make the stipulated poundage of 137 when they weigh in this afternoon at the Illinois athletic commission.

Woods Is Right Type.

Woods' backers are of the opinion he will repeat his recent triumph. They content the Detroit lad has the boxing style needed to whip Canzoneri. This style involves the scoring of points with left jabs to the face, and counterpunching. Records show such boxers have been the only ones able to whip the popular New York fighter. Sammy Mandell, Wesley Ramey, Johnny Jadick and Champion Ross are examples.

Nevertheless, Canzoneri is determined to obtain revenge by knocking out Woods and thus stepping closer to another championship encounter with Ross. In his workouts here the last few days Tony has concentrated on punching, paying little attention to boxing finesse. Regardless of who wins, however, it appears that Canzoneri and Woods will engage in the hardest battle of their respective careers—Woods to remain in the spotlight and Canzoneri to regain lost ground.

Sagilio Faces Ramey.

A match attracting almost as much attention as the main event will be the ten round semi-final between Frank Sagilio, chesty Cicero slugger, and Wesley Ramey, clever Grand Rapids, Mich., boxer, at 138 pounds. Sagilio has been paying more attention to boxing and has neglected his natural slugging ability in workouts. On the other hand Ramey has added hitting power to his boxing finesse.

Ramey defeated Jimmy Vaughn of Cleveland at Detroit recently in his first start in this country upon his return from a successful European tour. He is listed among the first ten lightweights. Sagilio has not fought since Jan. 4 when he knocked out Lou Jallos in three rounds at Cicero. It was his 20th triumph in 22 professional appearances, only one of which he lost.

Belloise vs. Milling.

A third ten round encounter will pair Mike Belloise, New York featherwegiht, and Varias Milling, Filipino battler. Two matches at six rounds will round out the program. They will pit Bill Treest, last year's Golden Gloves middleweight title holder, against Lee Savoldi, St. Paul, Minn., light heavyweight, and Dick Sisk, Chicago welterweight, against Sammy Chivas, Detroit.

IMPELLITTIERE, CARNERA BOX AT GARDEN TONIGHT

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Primo Carnera, the Italian giant who is now attempting to win back the world's heavyweight championship he lost to Max Baer last summer, tonight was a 3 to 1 choice to defeat Ray Impellittiere of Peekskill, N. Y., in their battle at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The bout will be Primo's first important step in the direction of a title comeback. The management of the Garden has planned to match the winner of tomorrow's fight with the winner of the battle between Art Lasky and James J. Braddock, which is set for March 22. The winner of that argument would then be sent against Max Schmeling of Germany, recent conqueror of Steve Hamas, for the right to challenge Baer for the championship.

In Impellittiere, however, the huge Italian will be meeting one man whom he will not dwarf, for the young boxer from upstate stands 6 feet 7½ inches tall, giving him a ½ inch height advantage over Primo. The Italian, who weighs 260 pounds in top fighting condition, has only a two pound weight edge over Impellittiere.

The only common denominator in the records of the two giants is Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia. Carnera found difficulty with the clever Tommy, but scored a decision victory over him. Impellittiere, on the other hand, had hammered Loughran all over the ring during the early rounds of the fight, but Tommy rallied to box his way to a decision.

MARSHALL PINS YOUSIF IN 37:12 AT COLISEUM

Everett Marshall threw Mehmet Yousif in 37 minutes and 12 seconds with a flying tackle and a body slam in the featured wrestling bout at the Coliseum last night. The crowd of 1,563 paid $1,312.

News of Mehmet's embarrassment no doubt will be a shock to his father, Yousif Hussane, an old journeyman wrestler himself, in faroff Turkey. But Mehmet did himself proud for the first half hour of the match. His mistake, if it was such, was in throwing Marshall into the ropes. Marshall bounced outward with tremendous speed, his head hitting Mehmet's stomach. Mehmet sat down. Marshall then picked up the Turk and placed his shoulders on the canvas.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Detroit Red Wings, a last place team playing Stanley cup hocky, left a convincing memento of its final visit of this season to the Chicago Stadium last night—a well deserved 4 to 3 victory over the world champion Blackhawks.

The Wings, comporting themselves like men possessed, were definitly out of the cup playoffs when the game began, but when it was over they had just as definitly put the Hawks in second place in the American section of the National Hocky league. The champions are in that position for keeps, since they have only three regular games remaining and, even though they should win all three, could not overhaul the Boston Bruins, who took a three and a half game hold on first place last night by beating the Americans.

Wings Play Vigorously.

The Wings, who have had a sorry season after winning the league title and going to the cup finals last year, poured all of the pent-up wrath of a losing year into last night's game from start to finish. The Hawks, on the other hand, with the exception of such stalwarts as Gottselig, Chabot, March, and Levinsky, suffered attacks of partial paralysis during the game, which would not seem to augur well for their impending road trip winding up the season. This cannot be called a holiday jaunt, involving visits to the Bruins, Rangers, and Canadiens within four nights.

The Hawks' first two goals, scored in the first period, were made while Wings were in the penalty box. Paul Thompson delivered the first of these and Johnny Gottselig the second. In between that pair was one by Scotty Bowman, and Cooney Wieland delivered the second near the end of the period.

Fight Breaks Out.

In the second session John Sorrell put the Wings ahead after the opening of the period had been enlivened by an honest-to-goodness joust between Ebbie Goodfellow and Art Wiebe. Gottselig tied it up with a neat goal in the third period, but Laurie Aurie put the game on ice four minutes later with the fourth Detroit goal.

The attendance was 7,000.

At the three minute mark in the first period the stage was set for the Hawks' first goal when Lewis was sent to the jailhouse for high sticking Kendall. Coughlin immediately dispatched four forwards on the ice, adding Morenz to the Romnes line, and they delivered.

Levinsky made a neat backward pass to Romnes, standing in front of the Detroit cage, and the latter nudged the puck to Thompson, who sent it into the wide open cage, Roach having been lured out by Romnes' feint. The time was 3:55.

Wings Tie Score.

The Wings came back and scored the tying goal at 6:55, their two defense men engineering the play. Bowman and Buswell trailed Howe and Wiseman down, and after considerable scrimmaging, Bowman fired the puck through Chabot after the latter attempted to make a split stop.

The Hawks scored their second goal with the Wings again short handed. This time it was Buswell, sentenced on a charge of tripping Romnes. After Roach had made a great save of Gottselig's closeup shot Coulter let a long one fly from the blue line. The puck struck the boards and bounded out to where Gotselig was stationed. Johnny lined it past the sprawling Roach. The time was 9:55.

Next the Wings made the red light blink Wieland scoring with an unexpected angle shot from far out after a confused skirmish with the Hawk defense. The time was 15:45.

Cook Is Penalized.

After 11 minutes of the second period, Cook was penalized for slashing at Bowman, and the Red Wings sent on four forwards to take the lead. Sorrell finally delivered the New York Loses Second Game in Three Days.

MONTREAL, March 14.—(AP)—For the second time in three days the Montreal Canadiens whipped their prospective Stanley Cup rivals, the New York Rangers, in a National Hocky league game tonight, 5 to 4.

A five goal attack in the second period gave the winners the decision, although they were hanging on at the finish in the face of a desperate Ranger rally.

BRUINS WIN, 5 TO 4

New York, March 14.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins took another step toward the playoff with Toronto for the National Hocky league championship by defeating the New York Americans, 5 to 4, tonight. It was Boston's tenth straight game without a loss, and made it almost certain that the Bruins would lead the American division.

The losers' final home game of the season was saved from being a dismal affair for the 8,000 fans by two comeback bursts, one which tied the score in the second period, and another which just missed a tie in the last two minutes. The final drive brought three goals in 25 seconds while Babe Siebert of Boston was in the penalty box. Lineups:

combination pass from Wieland and Howe, lofting the puck over the prostrate Chabot in 12:15.

Early in the third period Gottselig and March decided to do something about the situation. The two gave Roach a real workout, and then Levinsky joined them. Gottselig finally struggled through a pile of Wings near the Detroit cage, enticed Roach out and then drove home the tying goal in 6:15.

But the Wings came back to take the lead again within four minutes. Wieland took a pass from Aurie, shoved it back to him, and the latter burst along the right board to beat Chabot, who was unprotected. The time was 10:00.

TEAM AND OWNER DENY REPORTS OF HOCKY STRIKE

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—The reported revolution among players of the New York Americans Hocky club today was denied by the players and was news to the owner of the club, William V. Dwyer. The players gathered today and signed a statement in which they denied the possibility of a strike or that the club owed them a considerable amount in unpaid wages. Dwyer, reached in Miami, Fla., said that a strike was out of the question, since all of the players are under contract. He admitted that payment of salaries might be a trifle tardy, but pointed out that the Americans have had a poor season.

Yesterday the New York Daily News published a story which said the team was in a state of revolt because of improper medical care and nonpayment of salaries.

Sang Froid Is Driving Victor at Tropical

Miami, Fla., March 14.—[Special.]—The Howe stable's Sang Froid, 5 year old son of Kai-Sang, was something of a surprise at Tropical Park this afternoon when he ran one of his best races to win by a neck in the featured Aucilla purse. It was a thrilling stretch drive with Bobby Merritt turning in a driving finish to defeat Don Meade aboard the favorite, Biography.

The latter ran for the first time in the new colors of E. F. Seagram, having been sold before the race by E. R. Bradley. A length back in third position finished Beaver Dam, carrying the silks of T. S. and J. S. Mulvihill. The order of finish after that was Chastity, Chrysmute, and Ridge Mor.

Big Crowd Watches Sport.

The test was at a mile and a sixteenth and saw the winner finish in 1:46 1-5 at 4 to 1. The track was fast and one of the largest crowds of the meeting saw the victory of the Howe stable racer. For practically all the way the victory lay between Sangfroid and the favorite, and there were some who thought the latter might have won if ridden differently.

Getting off fast with Biography, Meade immediately permitted his mount to drop back. Merritt rushed Sang Froid to the lead. Meade did not let Biography crop too far back, rating just behind the other's pace.

They Step on It.

Rounding into the stretch Meade attempted to come on with Biography, but Merritt went to a drive on Sang Froid and was able to hold a slight advantage all through the stretch. Beaver Dam tried hard, but was not equal to the task of overtaking the two in front.

Jocky Glen Haines scored a double in the early races aboard Mrs. P. J. Wall's Play Off and Hal Price Headley's Sandy Beach.

I. A. C. BOWLERS COMPETE TODAY IN A. B. C. TOURNEY

Syracuse, N. Y., March 14.—[Special.]—The first Chicago bowlers to invade Syracuse seeking a part of the $93,000 prize money of the American Bowling congress are scheduled to compete tomorrow night.

Two teams from the Illinois Athletic club are booked on the first squad of the night session. They will be led by Gilbert Porter and Bob Wagner.

The feature of today's program was the failure of Fred Tucker, Watertown, N. Y., to capitalize on an opportunity to land among the all event leaders. He rolled his singles and doubles in the afternoon and piled up a total of 1,248 as he entered the team event at night. He dropped to 499 and fell far short of his mark.

Demetral, Grueber Meet Tonight on Midway Mat

Jimmy Demetral and Phil Grueber will be the principals in Johnny Coulon's wrestling windup at the Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue, tonight. Gorilla Parker meets Al Williams, Frank Malcewicz faces Ernie Peterson, and Buck O'Neil and Ralph Garibaldi will meet in other matches.

Jack Coleman, Irving Park Y middleweight champion, and Joe Jawgiel will be opponents in the main event.

Purdue Squash Squad to Play in Chicago Tourney

Lafayette, Ind., March 14.—[Special.]—Purdue's varsity squash squad will complete its season's competition Saturday when the Boilermakers journey to Chicago to compete in the intercollegiate tournament sponsored by the Western Squash Rackets association at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Lehman, Ulrey, Carr, Jordan, Barry, and Noll will comprise Purdue's entries.

6-DAY BIKERS ARRIVE FOR RACE OPENING SUNDAY

Start Work of Building Track Tomorrow.

Practically all the six day bicycle riders who are to compete in the grind which starts Sunday night in the Stadium had arrived in Chicago last night. The rest of the riders will arrive tonight.

Tomorrow will be a busy day around the Stadium, for all the riders will be getting their bikes in shape and Pat Mulvey, track builder, will be banging away getting the track ready. Mulvey has to work fast for this race, for he won't get possession of the Stadium until after the fights tonight.

Italian and German bicycle fans are talking about the coming race, for there are five German riders and four Italian entries. The race also marks the return to Chicago of Franco Georgetti, the little Italian who won the recent New York six day race and who has chalked up victories in eleven other races. Gaetnao Belloni, another old favorite, will be back. Georgetti, besides being a great six day rider, held the motor paced championship of the United States four years in a row.

Germany is sending two old favorites in Ewald Wissel and Franz Deulberg besides three new riders who made an excellent showing in the New York event. The new German riders are Lothar Ehmer, Hans Carpus and Willie Krosmeier.

With Georgetti riding with Alfred Letourner and Gerald Debaets paired with Bobby Thomas fans expect plenty of action throughout the week.

ENTRIES CLOSE MONDAY.

Entries for the South End Open basketball tournament will close with Lowell Zippel, 105 East 115th street, Monday. The tournament will be held at the 111th street Y. M. C. A. March 21 to 30.

the Englishman's Scotch

Old Orkney
SCOTCH WHISKY

Not a Drop Less Than 8 Years Old

To an Englishman, too much "smoke" in a Scotch Whisky means much too strong a flavor. He prefers a smooth, mellow, fragrant Scotch—such as Old Orkney. That's why Old Orkney is a great favorite in England... in London... That's why no other Scotch ever sold in America quite as quickly as Old Orkney. Old Orkney has just enough of the smoky taste... never too much!

Old Orkney comes in the handy flask—as well as the distinctive decanter-shape bottle. Fifths and Tenths.

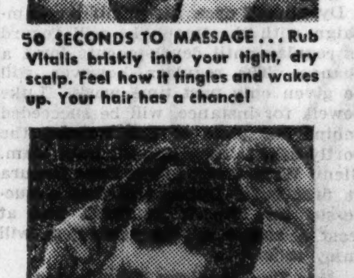
VITALIS AND THE 60-SECOND WORKOUT

For Healthy and Handsome HAIR

50 SECONDS TO MASSAGE... Rub Vitalis briskly into your scalp, dry scalp. Your hair looks up. Your hair has a chance!



10 SECONDS TO BRUSH... Comb and brush your hair. It looks rich, lustrous—but without a trace of that unnatural "patent-leather" look.

YOUR DRUGGIST HAS VITALIS

STEP UP your good looks. Improve your appearance. Wake up your scalp and keep your hair healthy and handsome with the 60-Second Vitalis Workout.

Tight, dry scalp is a common cause of thin, sickly and even dandruff-ridden hair. For tight, dry scalp means hair robbed of the natural, the nourishing oils it needs for good health and perfect grooming. It needs to have a workout—it needs stimulation—it needs Vitalis and massage.

Vitalis and massage rouses the scalp—quickens the circulation—revives the flow of natural oils. Loose dandruff disappears. Your hair looks healthier, because it is healthier. It's better looking and it stays in place. And it never has that "patent-leather" look.

Buy a bottle of Vitalis. And enjoy the freshening, healthy glow of the 60-Second Workout today.

ASK YOUR BARBER
When your barber prescribes Vitalis—he's giving you good advice! Take it!

GOLDEN GLOVES SQUAD ANSWERS CALL TO DRILL

All Fighters Report at Illinois A. C.

BY FRENCH LANE.

"You're going to whip New York."

The members of Chicagoland's Golden Gloves squad didn't appear a bit startled when they gathered in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium yesterday to get their first instructions from Johnny Behr, coach of the Chicago team, to hear him start his talk in that way.

"Does he think that's any news to us?" Patsy Urso, the flyweight champion, whispered to Johnny Brown, the bantamweight champion.

The noisy little fellows didn't even quiet down when he went on to tell them that it will be their own fault if they don't shellack the tar out of the New Yorkers.

New Yorkers Strong.

"I've had my reports from our scouts who watched the New York finals," Behr continued. "New York has probably the best team it has ever sent to Chicago. We also have a great team. If you train like we want you to train during the next two weeks there isn't any reason why each and every one of you should not win your fight against your New York rival."

Twenty members of the Chicago squad were on hand when Coach Behr called the gladiators into their first meeting. The others checked in late last night and they will get their first complete round of work today.

The boys next were asked to step on the scales and there wasn't a lad on the squad who couldn't have made weight at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

No Boxing Yet.

As a result the first few days of training will include only a small amount of road work. The strenuous grind through the Tournament of Champions provided every lad with just about as much boxing as he will need for a few more days at least.

So hard fighting in the ring in the Illinois Athletic club gymnasium probably will not take place until early next week, but in the meantime there will be plenty of calisthenics, rope skipping, shadow boxing, and bag punching in order to keep all the muscles in the big party well oiled up and ready for action at a moment's notice.

Otis Thomas, whipped in the Tournament of Champions by Lorenzo Pack, hard hitting colored champion of Detroit, had fire in his eyes when he reported to Coach Behr yesterday.

"He hit me with a lucky punch in the first round and I couldn't get going after that happened," Thomas told a group of Golden Gloves boxers. "I'll show 'em who is the best heavyweight in Chicagoland when we get to going in our training matches," Thomas said.

Wyatt Is Late.

King Wyatt, the welterweight champion from Fort Wayne, arrived too late to hear Coach Behr make his opening address to the boxers. It seems that such a large delegation of Fort Wayne admirers insisted on giving him a rousing sendoff that he missed a couple of Pennsylvania trains before he was finally able to get away from his neighbors and swing onto a train that landed him in Chicago early last night.

Despite the round of dinners given in his honor in Fort Wayne the King was less than a pound overweight when the trainers of the Chicago squad put him on the scales soon after he arrived.

Workers in the Golden Gloves ticket offices hardly had a breathing spell yesterday. Large orders arrived from Detroit, Cleveland, and New York. A steady stream of Chicago Golden Gloves fans filed past the ticket salesman picking up the ducats that had been set aside for them.

N. Y. DRILLS OPEN

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—The drive for a New York victory over Chicagoland's Golden Gloves champions at the Chicago Stadium March 29 officially gets under way tomorrow. The New York inter-city squad will move into the St. Moritz hotel, Manhattan. Later in the day the opening drill will be staged at Stillman's gymnasium.

For the next eight days, the flashy New Yorkers, including Marty Pomerantz, George Coyle, Jim Howell, Chester Rogers, Phil Sommese, Billy Genz, John Cabello, and Johnny Clinton, first stringers on the team, will devote most of their time to training sessions under the supervision of Chief Trainer Al Copeland and the Daily News A. A. coaches.

50 to Make Trip.

A week from tomorrow the Golden Gloves party of nearly 50, including the boxers, coaches, trainers, officials, photographers and newspapermen, will board a special train and take off for Chicago. Five days will be spent in Chicago preparing for the matches.

The first meeting of the young men who will sport the blue and gold colors of New York was held last night in the News building. Champions, runners-up and other men of the Golden Gloves held court and talked over the impending invasion of Chicago. The fighters bore scars and marks of their recent battles, but all feuds and personal dislikes were shoved in the background as champion and the boy he defeated sat together and dreamed about fighting a tough Chicago representative before a capacity crowd.

Fight for No. 2 Spots.

While the rules of Golden Gloves inter-city matches carry a provision that the eight New York open winners must oppose the eight Chicago champions in the No. 1 bouts, the posts for the secondary bouts are wide open to any member of the squad. There will be two bouts in each weight division.

Baby Ruth Girls Win in A. A. U. Basket Tourney

St. Louis, Mo., March 14.—(AP)—The Chicago Baby Ruth girls' basketball team entered the semi-final round of the A. A. U. invitational tournament tonight when they defeated the Louisville Kentucky Dairies, 53 to 6.

Giants Pound Ferrell; Beat Red Sox, 9 to 3

Miami, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Wes Ferrell was no puzzle to the New York Giants today. They jumped on the offerings of the Boston Red Sox's right-hander for seven runs in the first three innings and then went on to defeat the American league club, 9 to 3, and square the two game series.

While Carl Hubbell was holding the Red Sox to one single in the first three innings the Giants staged a four run attack, featured by homers by Dick Bartell and Travis Jackson, in the first, and then counted three more times in the third.

DODGER VARSITY WINS.

Orlando, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—The Dodger Regulars beat the Yannigans, 11 to 5, today, getting 16 hits, against the rookies, Frank Lamanske and Bob Logan. Danny Taylor and Buzz Boyle made three apiece.

Southpaw Watson Clark, who got the first real test of his comeback attempt, and the veteran Tom Zachary, yielded a dozen hits, including a homer by Farrotto, rookie first baseman.

TIGER REGULARS WIN.

Lakeland, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Izzy Goldstein, the Bronx right hander, yielded nine hits and five passes in four innings today as the regulars beat the Yannigans, 9 to 1, in a practice game at the Detroit Tiger training camp.

Bridges relieved Goldstein for the last two innings of the six inning game and held the Tiger regulars hitless.

YANKEES TIE YANKEES.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—The Yankees divided their squad into two teams, the Gehrigs and Lazzeris, and played an eight inning 4-4 tie today in their first practice game of the training season.

George Selkirk and Jack Saltzgaver, on opposite sides, got two hits apiece. Russ Van Atta, one of the dollar a year men, yielded only one scratch hit in four innings.

CARDS MEET GIANTS.

Bradenton, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Frankie Frisch led his world champion St. Louis Cardinals out of here today for Miami Beach, where they will battle the New York Giants three times, starting tomorrow.

It will be the first time these two clubs have been together since last September, when the Cards went into New York and began cutting down the Giants' big lead and on the season's final day won the National league pennant.

JOHNSON DRILLS BATTERS.

New Orleans, La., March 14.—(AP)—Manager Walter Johnson decided today that the Indians' pitching talent will be utilized while his batters train their eyes for fast breaking curve balls.

Johnson expressed his reaction to the Indians' 7 to 1 defeat at the hands of the New Orleans Pelicans in these words:

BROWNS FACE RED SOX.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby sent the St. Louis Browns through one of their hardest drills of the season today as he prepared for tomorrow's invasion by the Red Sox.

A special batting school was conducted for Pepper, Heath, Bettencourt, Strange, Bell, and one or two others. The balance of the squad practiced double play combinations.

SENATORS MEET ALBANY.

Biloxi, Miss., March 14.—(AP)—The Senators will get thieir first test under fire tomorrow when they meet the Albany International League club.

Russell Digges and Archie Scrivener, rookies, will be on the mound for the Senators, and Manager Bucky Harris will loan two other rookies, Orville Armbrust and Henry Coppola, to Albany to handle the pitching duties.

RUTH PLAYS GOLF.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—Although Manager Bill McKechnie declared today a holiday, more than a score of his Boston Braves went through an hour's informal workout.

Babe Ruth was not one of them. The slugger spent most of the day playing golf, which met with McKechnie's approval.

REDS HAVE FIELD DAY.

Tampa, Fla., March 14.—(AP)—The Reds held a track meet today, sprinting from home plate to third base for cash prizes and practice.

Junie Barnes, rookie pitcher, covered the distance in 11 seconds to lead his division and win the $5 prize General Manager Larry Mac Phail hung up.

ST. MEL PLANS EVENT TO HONOR PADDY DRISCOLL

The Fathers and Friends club of St. Mel High school will honor Paddy Driscoll at a reception Monday evening in St. Mel auditorium. The event will mark Driscoll's completion of ten years as athletic director at St. Mel.

During Driscoll's régime twenty-four championships have been won for St. Mel including football, basketball, swimming, national Catholic basketball in 1924 and runners-up in 1931.

OLD FOOTBALL INJURY BOTHERS STEVE HAMAS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 14.—Steve Hamas was examined by the famous surgeon, Dr. Sauerbrueck, today on the recommendation of the Nazi sports leader, Hans von Tschammer-Osten. Dr. Sauerbrueck did not find any serious injuries, but stated that an old football injury received at Penn State again is troubling the American boxer.

Hamas still appeared sore as a result of his recent defeat by Max Schmeling, but was in good spirits. He was the guest of honor at a tea given by Capt. von Tschammer-Osten and representatives of various organizations promoting better foreign relations.

His companions pointed out that Hamas' bad showing at Hamburg may well have been due to an arm injury treated by a doctor a week before the fight, and assert they had requested the fight be postponed until the American could get into proper shape. Hamas refuses to discuss his condition before the fight, because he doesn't want to be "handing out alibis."

15,000 JAPANESE WATCH AMERICAN FOOTBALL DEBUT

TOKIO, March 14.—(AP)—Fifteen thousand mildly interested Japanese and 200 American enthusiasts saw American football introduced into Japan today.

With an expression of distaste Genji Matsuda, minister of education, kicked out the ball for the opening of an exhibition game in Meiji Shrine stadium between two teams of American collegians, mostly from the Pacific coast.

The Blue team, led by Corwin Artman, formerly of Stanford, defeated the Red eleven, headed by Al Maloney, former University of Southern California player, 17 to 12.

Among the spectators was Joseph C. Grew, American ambassador.

BENEFIT CARD OF BASKETBALL GAMES COMPLETE

Completion of the benefit basketball program to be held at the 132 Regiment armory March 27 was announced yesterday by Sam McAllister, head of the committee sponsoring the game in behalf of St. Viator college. Three games, the feature of which will be the meeting between the Duffy Florals and the St. Cyr council team of the Knights of Columbus league, fill out the card.

Preliminary contests will bring together the St. Viator college varsity and the C. Y. O. champions, and the Spencer Coals and Andy Frain's Ushers.

OLD TIME BOXER IS CONVICTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Newark, N. J., March 14.—(AP)—Joseph Handler's punch drunk defense did not save him from conviction today on a charge of atrocious assault and battery with attempt to kill.

The former lightweight boxer, whose mind, according to his lawyers, was affected by the beating he took from Joe Gans in 1902, was convicted of shooting Jacob Metsky, news dealer, and Ammanuel Kampf in a restaurant last Nov. 25. Sentence will be passed Wednesday.

St. Mel Plays De Paul for Title Tonight

De Paul academy, north section leader, will meet St. Mel, west section champion, tonight at Loyola gymnasium, 6500 Sheridan road, for the Chicago Catholic High school league heavyweight basketball championship.

Paddy Driscoll, coach of the west side five, will send a veteran team with a height advantage out on the floor. Four of the regulars, Harold Palm, Clem Naughton, Will Coughlin and Robert Neu, are six footers. Paul Pare, the other starter, is five feet eight inches tall.

Driscoll's Tenth Season.

This is the tenth season as coach at St. Mel for Driscoll. He has had five teams in the section playoffs, and championship quintets in 1929 and 1931.

The De Paul team is coached by Tom Haggerty. Five of Haggerty's teams have reached north section playoffs, and one of them won the league championship in 1933.

The probable De Paul starters will include Gordon Kearns and James O'Malley at forwards, Francis Rowland, center, and Mario Tonelli holding down the guard position with Gerald O'Reilly. The latter three are the tallest men on the team, each being five feet eleven inches tall.

Play for Lightweight Title.

Two other titles will be decided tomorrow. In the afternoon, Farragut and Roosevelt clash for the Chicago Public High school league lightweight title at White City. The Roosevelt is the defending champion.

The lightweight championship of the Catholic league will be decided in the evening at De La Salle gymnasium. St. Mel, defending the 135 pound title, will meet Leo for the third successive season. Leo won the championship in 1933 and St. Mel last year.

INDIANA STARTS TODAY

Indianapolis, Ind., March 14.—[Special.]—Sixteen survivors of the two weeks' play that has reduced the record field of 781 teams will compete tomorrow and Saturday at the Butler university fieldhouse here in the final phase of the 24th annual Indiana High School Athletic association basketball tournament.

Rushville and Princeton will start things at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, followed by Frankfort and Richmond, Mentone and Michigan City, Jeffersonville and Montgomery, Berne and Roachdale, Logansport and Shelbyville, Brazil and Anderson, and Nappanee and Tipton. The championship game will be played Saturday night.

Princeton Won at Evansville.

Rushville and Princeton both are regional darkhorses. Princeton defeated Lynnville after the latter had upset Bosse in the Evansville regional last Saturday. Rushville whipped its old rival, Connersville, to dominate lower southeastern counties.

Frankfort, twice champion, upset Jefferson of Lafayette, 31 to 29, in the Frankfort regional. Richmond, too, is an outsider, defeating Muncie and New Castle, both former champions, in regional play.

Mentone, a school having only 61 boys, will tackle the best of the Calumet region when it plays Michigan City. The Red Devils lost only once in pre-tournament games last year, and survived the rugged La Porte regional.

Jeffersonville Has Great Record.

Jeffersonville has won 28 consecutive games. It is favored by many to be the 1935 champion. No team ever has won the tourney and been undefeated an entire season. Montgomery, surprise victor over Vincennes and Washington, both former champions, represents a town of only 400.

Berne and Roachdale are here for the first time. Berne dominated the northeastern counties by stopping South Side of Fort Wayne in the regional final. Roachdale beat Greencastle and Clinton in its tourney. Logansport, present champion, which will play without the injured Dick Carr, star forward, faces a real test in Shelbyville.

Anderson Comes Close.

Brazil is the Wabash valley hope. Anderson three times has advanced to the title game, but always lost. Tipton surprised Noblesville, Wabash and then Kokomo to win the right to play Nappanee, unexpected victor over Rochester.

ANDREWS NAMED SPORT DIRECTOR AT ST. VIATOR

Kankakee, Ill., March 14.—[Special.]—Charles Andrews, wrestling co-captain at the University of Illinois, today was named to head the newly created physical education department at St. Viator college. Andrews will come to St. Viator after his graduation from Illinois in June. Reports are current on the campus that George Melinkovich, Notre Dame star, has been picked as the new football coach.

MOSTLY about DOGS

By Bob Becker

The Question Box

I have a male collie. He is now a little over two years old. I have always had more or less trouble feeding him. He doesn't seem to want to eat. I feed him once a day. He gets a pound of meat—a strictly meat diet. This is raw beef cut up in small pieces with suet. Boiled hearts, too. What do you think of feeding a dog raw beef every day? Would you advise this during the summer months if given late in the evening. I give him the very best meat—the same as we would eat, but no matter how good it is, he just will not eat. He doesn't show signs of being unwell. On the contrary, he is full of play. In fact, he demands that some one play with him. He gets exercise and drinks lots of water. What, in your opinion, is a good, sensible, and proper dog diet which can be prepared for a dog every day? MISS T. A. G.
Chicago.

It looks very much as if your collie is suffering from an extreme case of taste boredom. Furthermore, your dog is getting an unbalanced diet. Meat is not a complete diet for a normal, healthy dog. Because he is getting nothing but meat naturally he isn't keen about his daily meal. If you or I had to eat steak every day for a year doubtless we would feel pretty fed up with the job of eating just like your collie now is.

I have experimented with a lot of different dog diets. Moreover, I have spent a lot of time recently discussing the food requirements of dogs with authorities on canine nutrition. These are scientists who have made laboratory studies of the effects of various diets on animals. Just as one of these scientists remarked a few nights ago when we were discussing this all meat diet, a dog that is fed nothing but meat is not getting the proper vitamins and other food elements to be a normal dog.

Dogs need meat. That is basic in a canine's diet because it is necessary for proper development. But a dog also needs minerals, vitamins and other important food elements just as we do. In fact, the food requirements of the dog are very similar to ours.

I am now conditioning a dog for the forthcoming dog show. He is in good flesh, full of pep, and his coat, always a good indicator of condition, is sleek and shiny. This dog is getting what I believe to be a balanced varied diet, not a sameness of food such as you feed your collie. The diet is made of these items mixed in different proportions from day to day: A canned dog food of known quality and proven vitamin content, some raw beef, a dry meal prepared dog food which contains good beef, cereals, vitamins, etc., small amounts of cooked vegetables [tomatoes, etc.], some raw chopped lettuce, raw bones to chew on and some very hard biscuits that make the dog work his teeth to crunch them. My dog never refuses a meal, and he never leaves a crum in his dish.

I would suggest that you try a little beef broth poured over some slightly cooked meat for a change in diet. Try adding just a tablespoonful of tomatoes to this. Or some powdered vegetables. Try him on canned dog food in combination with another food. I am sending you THE TRIBUNE leaflet, "Feeding the Dog."

MANGIN REACHES SEMI-FINALS OF INDOOR TOURNEY

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Paced by Gregory S. Mangin, the favorite to recapture the crown he lost last year, the first three seeded players and a dark horse today gained the semi-final round in the thirty-sixth men's national indoor singles tennis tournament.

Mangin was accompanied into the semi-finals by Berkeley Bell, No. 2, J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., No. 3, and Julius Seligson, formerly national intercollegiate champion and unranked in this tournament.

Mangin beat Frank J. Bowden, 6-4, 8-6, 8-6 today. Hall disposed of Herbert L. Bowman, 6-3, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1.

Seligson, who came out of a four year retirement to launch a comeback, eliminated Eddie Jenkins Jr., 6-4, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4. Bell's advance was at the expense of Leonard Hartman, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

JURY DECLARES BUNKER HILL C. C. TO BE SOLVENT

The Bunker Hill Country club was declared to be solvent yesterday by a jury in the court of Federal Judge William H. Holly when it found for the club in an involuntary bankruptcy suit that had been filed against it by three holders of notes amounting to $39,000. The petition had been filed last January. In the answer filed by the club, and supported by the jury's verdict, it was set out that the club was not responsible for the notes and that suits were pending in the state courts on the question.

GAMES TONIGHT.
[Semi-finals.]
South Side vs. Morton, 7:30 p. m.
Joliet vs. La Grange, 8:30 p. m.

Joliet, defending champion, had an easy time winning from the Morgan Park quintet, using ten men in the game. The score at the half was 28 to 11. In the second half, Brummond, substituted for Bretz at forward, scored five baskets and three free throws for 13 points.

In the opening game of the second round, South Side, one of the new schools in the Chicago board of education system, defeated La Salle, 39 to 25. Conwill scored 11 points for the victors. The score at half time was 17 to 10 in favor of South Side.

Morton opened the evening schedule by winning from Thornton, 49 to 27. Morton, co-champion in the Illinois junior college conference, jumped into an early lead, and at the end of the first half led, 29 to 6.

La Grange was the final team to enter the semi-final round by beating Springfield, 57 to 17. This was the highest score registered in the tournament. The score at the half was 30 to 6.

WALDORF TELLS ALUMNI SYSTEM WILL FIT TEAM

Northwestern university's new football coaching staf is going to formulate a system that will fit the team and the available material, Coach Lynn Waldorf told more than 250 members of the Northwestern University Club of Chicago at a welcoming luncheon at the La Salle hotel yesterday. Jack Vance and Burt Ingwersen, new assistant coaches, also were honored at the luncheon.

Waldorf asked the alumni to refrain from criticizing players who make mistakes on the field. He said that he was proud of the enthusiasm shown in the spring football practices, with an average of seventy-five men calling for uniforms every night.

Other coaches present at the luncheon were Elmer Layden, Notre Dame; Noble Kizer, Purdue; Jim Kelly, De Paul, and Clark Shaughnessy and Nelson Metcalf of the University of Chicago.

Central A. A. U. Track Meet Will Be Held Tonight

The last minute entry of eight men from Marquette for the thirty-seventh annual Central A. A. U. indoor track and field meet which will be held tonight at the University of Chicago fieldhouse, assures spirited competition in all events.

The Marquette squad includes Phillips, who was hailed as Metcalfe's successor in the dashes. All the 1934 Central A. A. U. champions will be on hand to defend their titles.

More than 200 men have been entered for the eleven regular championship events. The two special college relay races, 1600 and 3200 meters, have attracted entries from most of the teams which will compete tomorrow night in the Armour relay games.

Men who were unable to file their entries by mail may do so at the fieldhouse before the meet starts tonight.

TWO CALIFORNIA QUINTETS ENTER LOYOLA TOURNEY

Appearance of two California quintets in the National Catholic Interscholastic basketball tournament which opens at Loyola university gymnasium next Wednesday night was assured yesterday with the acceptance of invitations by St. Elizabeth High school of Oakland, Cal. The Oakland team is a member of the same league as Serra High school, Hollister, Cal., which already has entered the meet, and tied with that team for first place.

Two other entrants were also announced by the tournament officials. St. Joseph-Mt. Oliver High school of Pittsburgh, undefeated champion of the Pittsburgh Parochial league, consisting of thirteen teams, has accepted its bid, together with St. John's Cathedral High school of Milwaukee, Wis. The latter was a quarter-finalist in last year's tournament.

Tonight's Catholic High School league championship game between De Paul and St. Mel will determine the Chicago entrant in the tournament, as present plans call for only one representative of the local league in the national meet.

The entire entry list is expected to be filled by tomorrow, with the drawings tomorrow night or Sunday.

HUGH M'MILLAN CHOSEN TO LEAD PRINCETON FIVE

Princeton, N. J., March 14.—(AP)—Hugh McMillan, Cumberland, Md., and Benjamin C. Milner, Columbus, O., have been chosen captain and manager, respectively, of the 1936 Princeton basketball team, Asa S. Bushnell, graduate manager of Princeton athletics, announced today. McMillan has been a letter man in both basketball and football for the last two years.

The assistant managers will be Fred B. Smith, Syracuse, N. Y., and Thomas C. Werbe Jr., Anderson, Ind., while alternates are John E. Jones, Columbus, O., and Alan R. Johnston, Glencoe, Ill.

SEVEN RECORDS ARE THREATENED IN ARMOUR MEET

Track Stars to Compete Tomorrow at U. of C.

Seven meet records may fall at the University of Chicago field house tomorrow night when Armour Institute stages its seventh annual relay carnival. Five marks are threatened in the university class competition, and two are endangered in the college class.

Additional entries yesterday brought the number of institutions competing up to 35, a record total for the meet, and the number of individual entrants up to 408. The entries represent a cross-section of the best track strength of the Big Ten, the Central Intercollegiate league, and the Bix Six.

Big Entry List.

Thirteen schools will be represented in the university class, and 22 in the college division. The former group consists of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Kansas State, Marquette, Michigan State, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh, Purdue, Washington of St. Louis and Chicago.

College entrants are Beloit, Carleton, Chicago Normal, Illinois State Normal, Iowa State Teachers, Loyola, St. Viator, Wayne, Butler, Bradley, De Paul, DePauw, Elmhurst, Hillsdale, Kalamazoo, Lawrence, Lyons Junior, Michigan State Normal, North Central, Northern Illinois State Teachers, Wheaton, and Armour.

The 440 yard and 880 yard records are among the marks likely to be lowered in the university division. Chief threat to the existing record of :50.4 for the 440 is Kiger, Pittsburgh, who won the Central Intercollegiate quarter mile last week in :50.2. He will be pushed by Jessell, Marquette; Crowell, Wisconsin, and Smith, Chicago. The field in the 880 includes Abe Rosenkrantz, Michigan Normal, who appears to be the outstanding half miler in this section, and who ran 1:55.1 in the intercollegiate meet, a second faster than the Armour record set by Hornbostel, Indiana, three years ago. Rosenkrantz may be pressed by Beckett and Kubash, Marquette, and Karl Kleinschmidt, Wisconsin, Big Ten champion.

Murphy May Break Mark.

Capt. Vincent Murphy, Notre Dame, who leaped 6 feet 7¼ inches last week, is favored to break the present high jump mark of 6 feet 5 inches held by Nelson, Butler.

Three men who seem capable of clearing 13 feet 6 inches in the pole vault, Seeley, Illinois; Siebert, North Central, and Wonsowitz, Ohio State, endanger the record of 13 feet 5¼ now held by Lennington, Illinois. Pittsburgh's one mile relay team is favored to crack the mark in that event.

Randall Herman, former Oak Park High school star, who equaled the record of :07.1 for the 70 yard sprint last year, will be back for another try.

The field in the one mile run is exceptional, including Sears, Butler; Lash, Indiana; Hurd and Ottey, Michigan State, and Zepp, Michigan Normal, but the mile record of 4:14.1 made by Henry Brocksmith, Indiana, in 1932, seems secure.

Great Field in Shot Put.

Don Elser, Notre Dame; Frank Davis, Hillsdale, who is the defending record holder; Irving Rubow, Wisconsin, and Jay Berwanger, Chicago, will make an assault on the shot put mark of 47 feet 7½ inches. In the college division Michigan State Normal threatens existing marks in the mile and two mile relays.

Preliminaries in six events, the dash, high hurdles and low hurdles for both college and university classes, will be held at 4:15 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

BASEBALL LEAGUE TO MEET.

A meeting of the Chicago Industrial Baseball league will be held at 155 West Madison street on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—The gyrations in United States government bonds following the treasury's announcement this morning of its plans for calling of all of the First Liberty loan bonds for redemption eclipsed all other movements of bonds today.

Attesting to the surprise of the call, the Liberty 3½s broke 1 and 18-32ds points on the day, closing at approximately the low, and the First Liberty converted 4¼s dropped 10-32ds point. The balance of the treasury list was bid up sharply after the announcement, some issues as much as half a point. At the close, prices on this section of the list were up 10-32ds to off 2-32ds point.

Trading Is More Active.

The turnover in the government issues amounted to $6,757,000, compared with total dealings in bonds on the exchange of $16,516,000. The volume yesterday was $15,250,000.

Domestic corporation bonds displayed considerable irregularity. Many issues, notably the better rated ones, were pushed higher earlier in the day, but lost a considerable portion or all of these gains later. The high grade rails, on the average, made a better showing than did the utilities or industrials. Higher prices were paid for some loans of Delaware and Hudson, Central Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Northen Pacific, Kansas City Terminal, Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago and North Western, and Erie.

State, Municipal Bonds Rise.

The treasury's announcement worked like magic in the state and municipal bond market, forcing prices up a point or more. The federal tax exempt 3½s are held by wealthy individuals who will not be interested in any long term bond that the government can offer in exchange.

The best that the government can do to interest such investors in an exchange is to offer notes which are exempt from income surtaxes. These, however, would yield the investor such a low rate that many holders of the old 3½s would elect to take long term municipals, offering a higher yield and the same tax exemption.

Lehigh Coal and Navigation.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me what information you have as well as your opinion on Lehigh Coal and Navigation?—J. M.

Answer: Lehigh Coal and Navigation company was originally established in 1822, which makes it one of the oldest domestic corporations. Operations are varied. Its chief source of revenues is holdings of railroad properties, either in fee or through subsidiaries, about 80 per cent of which are leased. This provides a steady source of income.

The company also owns about 13 per cent of outstanding common stock of National Power and Light company, a holding company supplying utility services to a population of about 3,400,000 in a thousand Pennsylvania, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, and Texas communities.

A substantial investment is represented by coal holdings. Reserves total about half a billion tons and annual capacity is about four million tons. The coal division has operated at a deficit since 1929, although operations in 1934 were the most favorable since 1931. The continuing losses of this division were eliminated from the nonconsolidated statement of the company in 1930, when properties were transferred to a subsidiary.

Nonconsolidated earnings of the company during 1934 dropped to 92 cents a share from $1.01 a share in 1933. Improved coal operations, however, boosted consolidated earnings to $1,591,000, or 82 cents a share, against $826,000, or 43 cents a share, for 1933. Consolidated net income for 1932 was $942,000, or 48 cents a share, against $2,027,000, or $1.07 per share, for 1931.

Current assets at the close of 1934 totaled $11,040,000, including $4,361,000 cash, and current liabilities were $3,001,000. Funded debt totals $32,904,000 and equity consists of 1,930,065 shares of no par capital stock. The stock pays dividends of 25 cents a share semi-annually.

Air Brakes Not Obsolescent.

Investors' Guide: Would the electrification of railroads [such as the recent electrification of the Pennsylvania road] and the greater use of Diesel powered locomotives [such as on the Zephyr] have an adverse effect on Westinghouse Air Brake?—Mrs. P. I. A.

Answer: No, air brakes are used on electric and Diesel powered trains as well as steam powered trains.

DOUBTS HOLDING TRADE IN CHECK, AYRES ASSERTS

Economist Sees Business Holding About Even.

General business activity has held about even during the first quarter of the year, Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, said last night in his monthly bulletin.

"Under the circumstances that prevail," he said, "business has done well so far this year, for these are not conditions that are favorable to vigorous trade and industrial revival."

Business continues to be held back by a cloud of doubt as to what the future holds for it, Col. Ayres explained. The one important buoying influence is the automobile industry, well on its way to producing a million cars in the first quarter.

Changes Hold Business Back.

"It has been long and truly observed," the economist stated, "that business can adapt itself to almost any set of conditions, and can go forward more or less successfully, once the new rules are made definite and constant. It does not, however, readily adapt its methods and procedures in an atmosphere of diverse changes."

Among the disquieting elements of uncertainty cited by Col. Ayres are the numerous federal court decisions denying the constitutionality of various pieces of New Deal legislation, and which means that the rules can't be determined until the Supreme court has given its opinions.

Others are "rapidly shifting values in international exchanges which hamper all trade"; the prospect of radical banking legislation and further changes in the dollar; the possibility of further changes in the rules of competition, and the fact that congress continues discussing important measures without deciding on them.

Urges Prudent Political Activity.

"The prospects for other forms of business would be greatly improved if they could include a large measure of prudent political activity," said Col. Ayres, in referring to the relatively good showings of retail trade and the automobile industry.

Using figures on industrial production in 10 countries over the period of 1925-'34, the Cleveland economist shows that the poorest record of recovery is shown by the United States, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Czechoslovakia. Sweden has the best record with 1934 production above 1929. The United Kingdom is next, while Germany, Italy, France, and Canada follow in the middle bracket.

Technological unemployment as a result of progress in labor saving machinery should not be considered seriously as a factor either in causing or continuing business depression, said Col. Ayres, in pointing to the fallacy of the 30 hour week proposals as a cure-all. Figures since 1870 show that "the working population has increased more rapidly than the general population despite the great advances" in labor saving machinery, he added.

CHICAGO BANK TO OCCUPY NEW OFFICES MONDAY

The Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank will occupy its new quarters at the southeast corner of Monroe and Dearborn streets on Monday morning, officials of the bank stated yesterday. It will occupy the second floor of the recently completed structure. Its quarters will be air conditioned.

A feature of the new quarters will be a solid expanse of windows on three sides, which will permit employés to work under daylight conditions—a novelty for downtown banks. The Amalgamated Trust, which is the only labor bank in the city, has deposits of around $4,000,000.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES SHOW EASIER UNDERTONE

A slightly easier undertone prevailed in butter and eggs yesterday, but the markets as a whole showed considerable resistance to pressure. Losses on the Chicago Mercantile exchange were confined to fractions despite the break in grains and stocks. Butter closed ⅛ to ⅜ cent per pound lower, while eggs were unchanged to ¼ cent per dozen lower.

More activity was shown in potatoes for future delivery, with prices gaining 2 cents per 100 pounds. Reports of excessive moisture in parts of the early potato belt had some effect on sentiment. Sales aggregated 23 cars of butter, 72 cars of eggs, and 5 cars of potatoes, with 3 cars of eggs delivered on March contracts. Prices follow:

JONES DEFENDS RFC SEIZURE OF UTILITY SYSTEM

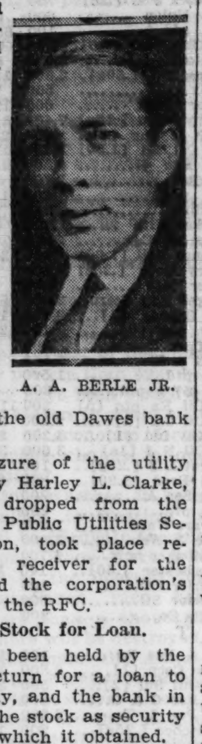
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—The New Deal's seizure of control over a privately owned public utility system in Missouri was defended today by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.



A. A. BERLE JR.

Jones, who made Uncle Sam "the gas man of St. Louis" by seizing control of the Public Utilities Securities corporation and ousting its board of directors, claimed his action was necessary to safeguard the RCF loan to the old Dawes bank in Chicago.

Government seizure of the utility empire built up by Harley L. Clarke, whom the RFC dropped from the presidency of the Public Utilities Securities corporation, took place recently when the receiver for the Dawes bank voted the corporation's stock on behalf of the RFC.

Bank Pledged Stock for Loan.

The stock had been held by the Dawes bank in return for a loan to the utility company, and the bank in turn had pledged the stock as security for the RFC loan which it obtained.

Jones said that he had instructed the receiver to vote the stock and seize control of the company after being informed by RFC lawyers a week ago of the situation. He insisted that RFC control of the utility empire was essential to protect the RFC Dawes bank loan, collateralized in part by the utility stock.

The government has no desire to continue in the gas business, Jones claimed, and would be glad to release the Clarke utility empire if the Public Utilities Securities corporation will repay to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, now in receivership, the $2,000,000 which the bank loaned it.

May Control Other Businesses.

Whether the RFC may hold potential control over hundreds of other private businesses through the assets it has taken over from the Dawes bank and other closed banks is not definitly known. Jones professed to have no information on the RFC's latent power to control other businesses, as it now controls the Clarke utility system.

By seizing control of the Public Utilities Securities corporation and installing its hand-picked board of directors, the RFC became the master of a complete utility system. The Securities corporation is a super-holding company such as those President Roosevelt wishes to abolish, and controls the Utilities Power and Light corporation, which in turn controls the Laclede Gas Light corporation, dominant utility in the St. Louis area.

How RFC Got Utility Stock.

The old Dawes bank, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, loaned $2,000,000 to the Webster corporation, a financing company for the Public Utilities Securities corporation. The Webster corporation gave the bank as security the entire common stock issue of the Securities corporation, and the Dawes bank put up this common stock as collateral when it obtained a 90 million dollar loan from the RFC. Since the RFC has foreclosed its loan to the Dawes bank it now controls the stock and the utility system.

A. A. Berle Jr., Roosevelt brain truster, and a group of New York and Chicago lawyers were installed by the RFC as directors. Harley Clarke, the creator of the system, was ousted as president.

RFC ORGANIZES FIRST $10,000,000 MORTGAGE UNIT

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation's program to aid in the reestablishment of a sound mortgage bank, in coöperation with other governmental agencies and private interests, got under way today with the incorporation at Annapolis, Md., of the RFC Mortgage company.

The corporation, which will be wholly owned by the RFC, may have a capital of $25,000,000, and will start with paid in capital stock of $10,000,000 supplied by the RFC. Under its charter, it may carry on business in any part of the country, and Jesse H. Jones, the RFC chairman, said today that he hoped it would contribute materially to recovery.

James B. Alley, assistant to the general counsel of the RFC, and Earl Schwulst and John B. Slacks, members of the RFC staf, were the incorporators. Alley will probably be the first president.

RAILWAY TO CUT SPENDING; WON'T ELECTRIFY LINE

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—The Pennsylvania railroad will materially reduce its capital expenditures this year, W. W. Atterbury, president, informed stockholders today in a statement accompanying dividend checks.

The statement on expenditures reflects the decision of the Pennsylvania to shelve a plan to electrify its main line to Pittsburgh. The $200,000,000 electrification from here to Washington is virtually complete.

Retailers Rap Giving AAA More Powers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—The National Retailers' council, reporting 1,500,000 employés in 200,000 stores and doing a 10 billion dollar annual business in almost every form of retail activity, today added its protests against the proposed amendments to the agricultural adjustment act.

H. C. Petersen of Chicago, secretary-manager of the National Association of Retail Grocers and representative of the retailers council, told the senate agricultural committee that the proposed AAA amendments were "so autocratic in nature that it is inconceivable to believe they will be enacted into law." The committee will conclude its public hearings on the Wallace-Tugwell scheme tomorrow and then go into executive sessions for further consideration of the measure.

Protest Licensing Powers.

Others who appeared to add their protests to the bill giving Secretary of Agriculture Wallace power to license all manufacturers, handlers, and distributors of farm products today included W. F. Jensen of Chicago, manager of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers, and E. T. Springer of Cimarron, N. M., representing the New Mexico Cattle Growers' association.

Mr. Springer objected to the proposal to place a processing tax on cattle and then distribute the proceeds to feed grain producers in other states. He argued that under this plan hogs, cattle, sheep, and milk would be taxed and the proceeds used to encourage reduction of feed grains. Senator McGill [Dem., Kas.] asked Springer what form of farm relief the western sections wanted.

"We feel that we are out of the woods and want to be left alone," the witness said.

Fears Political Control.

"This bill," said Mr. Petersen, the retailers' representative, "would give a political appointee power, under certain conditions, to take control of our stores out of our hands. It would give the secretary of agriculture power to impose licenses and quotas on industries handling agricultural products, derivatives and competing products, if, in the opinion of the secretary, he could improve the purchasing power of the farmer by so doing.

"There are certain limitations, but within these limitations he could go to such lengths in an ironclad control of business handling agricultural products that individuals selling foods, clothing, and other necessities of life would be compelled to do virtually as he saw fit.

Warns Against Vast Powers.

"He would have power under certain conditions to go into our private records to investigate costs, profits, wages, sources of supply, allowances for advertising, and to investigate whether we were obeying any number of regulations.

"The power to license which this bill seeks to give the secretary can also give him the power to destroy any business because it can establish a quota for any retailer and it can reduce the number of sources of supply.

"It is unthinkable that any individual should receive such a grant of power over business and industry and over the good, clothing, and other staple commodities of 125,000,000 people."

ARGUES RAILS' INCOMES WON'T PERMIT PENSION

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—The Supreme court heard the railroad retirement pension act assailed today as a "blank check which congress signed with the name of the nation's railroads." The constitutionality of the law, held invalid in a lower court, was taken under advisement.

Jacob Aronson, general consul for the New York Central, said that annuities provided for past services alone would cost the carriers the staggering sum of $4,400,000,000.

"Your honors have said very recently," he asserted, "that conditions and circumstances play a part in the construction of statutes. Against this huge cost we submit the present financial condition of the carriers."

Aronson said the record showed the average earnings of the railroads in 1932 was 1.48 per cent of their capital, and 2.18 per cent in 1933. "And we can't procure additional revenue through increased rates to pay our increased wage and material costs without considering the $67,000,000 we would have to contribute this first year for the pension fund," he said.

Aronson argued that the carriers were required to pay the expenses of administering the act and for a survey of conditions. He likened this to "making us carry our own coffin to the grave." He challenged the act as discriminatory, retroactive, unfair, confiscatory, unprecedented and inequitable.

BANK CLEARINGS LAST WEEK 17% ABOVE YEAR AGO

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Last week's bank clearings for the nation ran 17 per cent ahead of the same period in 1934 and were close to the best volume for the year to date.

The total, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet today, was $5,624,416,000, against $4,807,301,000 for the same period a year ago. The gain topped that of the previous week, which was 13.3 per cent.

New York City clearances amounted to $4,017,467,000, a rise of 18 per cent over the amount reported last year. The aggregate for centers outside New York was $1,606,949,000, an increase of 14.6 per cent.

Chicago reported $238,000,000, against $185,600,000 last year, an increase of 28.2 per cent.

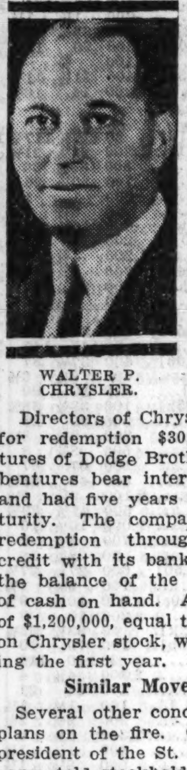
CHRYSLER CORP. TO PAY OFF 30 MILLION LOAN

Saves on Interest; Others to Refund.

The Chrysler corporation yesterday was added to the growing list of corporations that are taking advantage of existing easy money conditions to retire high interest bearing debt. With money begging for hire and willing to accept low wages, corporations, like the federal government, can effect substantial savings in debt service costs by calling in obligations issued when money was commanding high interest rates.



WALTER P. CHRYSLER.

Directors of Chrysler decided to call for redemption $30,150,500 of debentures of Dodge Brothers, Inc. The debentures bear interest at 6 per cent and had five years to run before maturity. The company will meet the redemption through a $25,000,000 credit with its banks and will supply the balance of the needed funds out of cash on hand. An interest saving of $1,200,000, equal to 28 cents a share on Chrysler stock, will be effected during the first year.

Similar Moves Pending.

Several other concerns have similar plans on the fire. Clinton H. Crane, president of the St. Joseph Lead company, told stockholders at the annual meeting in New York yesterday that the company was considering steps to cut its fixed debt charges. The company has $8,000,000 of 5½ per cent debentures outstanding which may be refunded, he indicated. The issue does not mature until 1940.

Among the recent important refunding operations announced was that of Swift & Co. The packing firm will retire 43 millions of 5 per cent bonds and substitute an equivalent amount of 3¾ liens. Cudahy Packing company is known to be considering a similar step by refinancing 10 millions of 5½ per cent bonds. Joseph T. Ryerson & Sons recently called upwards of 3 millions of 5 per cent debentures which will be paid out of funds in the treasury.

Rail Refunding Planned.

The Chicago Union Station company and associated railroads are seeking authority of the interstate commerce commission to issue $16,000,000 of 4 per cent bonds which will replace a like amount of 6½ per cent bonds, for redemption at 110 and accrued interest.

The Pacific Gas and Electric company early this week announced the refunding of 45 millions of 5½ per cent bonds at an interest saving of $675,000 annually.

Chrysler's operation will clear up the last of the funded debt of the Dodge concern, which was assumed at the time of acquisition. Last November $10,000,000 of the Dodge obligations were called by Chrysler. The company will pay a premium of 5 points in order to call the bonds in. Prior to the redemption notice they were quoted at 105⅝.

Loan Runs Five Years.

Walter P. Chrysler, president, explained that the bank loan of $25,000,000 used to meet the redemption will mature at the rate of $5,000,000 a year during the next five years. This, he said, would provide and orderly liquidation of the debt which would have had to be met in full at maturity of the debentures in 1940.

The rate of retirement on the bank notes is at a rate substantially less than half of the corporation's annual amortization and depreciation charges for the last few years.

The corporation's current daily cash balances are running considerably over $40,000,000, and the retirement could have been effected without resort to bank loans.

Newspaper Advertising in February Above 1934

New York, March 14.—(AP)—February newspaper advertising gained from 69.2 to 73.2 in terms of the monthly index of "Printers' Ink," as compared with a year ago. The index number on which the compilation is based uses 100 to represent the average of newspaper advertising for the five year period , 1928-1932.

First Liberty Bonds Called by Treasury

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—A call for redemption on June 15 of all of the outstanding first Liberty loan bonds totaling $1,933,209,950 was issued today by Secretary Morgenthau and it was indicated that the holders would soon have an opportunity of exchanging them for other governmental obligations.

When this operation is completed and $1,850,000,000 of fourth Liberty loan bonds previously called for redemption on April 15 have been retired, all except about $1,325,000,000 of the Liberty bond issues sold to finance America's participation in the world war will be wiped out and their holders will have new government securities in exchange, or be paid off in cash.

May Call Others.

The Liberties for whose retirement no action has been taken are a block of the fourth issue which the treasury may redeem on Oct. 15 if a call is made by April 15. There are strong intimations that this will be done.

Announcement of the call for the first Liberties was made when the treasury officials, after a final canvass of money market conditions, reached a conclusion that factors would remain favorable for some time.

Morgenthau said late reports showed that the current refunding of the $1,850,000,000 of called fourth Liberty bonds was proceeding satisfactorily. Unofficial estimates were that about $800,000,000 of exchanges had been made.

The First Liberties, called today, and the Fourth Liberties being refunded, both carry the gold clause contract. That this has had anything to do with the large refinancing programs staged, no treasury official will admit. Rather it is contended that the operations are being undertaken to effect a saving in interest charges, and rearrange the debt structure.

Loan Issued in 1917.

The First Liberty loan, in the form of 3½ per cent bonds exempt from all taxation except estate and inheritance taxes, was originally issued June 15, 1917, in the total of $1,989,455,350. Three conversion privileges were later offered and a part of the 3½ per cent bonds were converted into other First Liberty bonds paying 4 or 4¼ per cent interest. These, however, were not exempt from income surtaxes.

First Liberty bonds now outstanding are divided among the four issues, totaling $1,933,209,950 as follows: First 3½s, $1,392,226,250; first converted 4s, $5,002,450; first converted 4¼s, $532,489,100; first-second converted 4¼s, $3,492,150.

Actual saving in interest, if the treasury accomplishes refunding at or slightly below 3 per cent interest, will probably be about 15 million dollars annually.

South Africa Asks Ford to Make Airplane Engines

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, March 14.—(AP)—The government today opened negotiations with the Ford Company of South Africa urging the establishment of a factory to provide engines for state, civil, and military aircraft. It was understood that the state was offering concessions to assist in the manufacture of automobile and truck motors as recompense for the possibility that the aircraft motor manufacture would be unprofitable.

RFC WILL TAKE HAND IN MANAGEMENT OF WHEELING-LAKE ERIE

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—With holdings of collateral carrying 53 per cent control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie pledged with the Reconstruction Finance corporation as security for nearly $20,000,000 of loans, the RFC has moved to exercise a voice in its management, correspondence on file with the interstate commerce commission reveals.

The Van Sweringen interests of Cleveland bought control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie a few years before the market crash of 1929. They later sold the property to the New York, Chicago and St. Louis [Nickel Plate] railroad, which pledged its Wheeling stock for a $15,511,000 RFC loan.

Opposing the Van Sweringen interests in the control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie are the Taplin interests of Cleveland. Their minority holdings are vested with their Pittsburgh and West Virginia, which has pledged them with the government for a loan of $3,975,000.

The Van Sweringens and Taplins from the start have engaged in disputes over the Wheeling control and this situation has caused the RFC to intervene by acting to place a neutral trustee to vote the Wheeling stock, a vacancy having been created through the death of E. R. Fancher. The RFC notified the commission of its Wheeling policy and, in reply, the commission postponed consideration of a successor.

C. F. Taplin, president of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, helped precipitate the latest managerial move of the RFC by objecting to nominations for the Wheeling trusteeship.

HOUDAILLE CORP. REPORTS NET OF $931,401 FOR 1934

Reflects 85 Pct. Upturn in Business.

Houdaille-Hershey corporation earned a profit of $931,401 during 1934, as compared with losses of $113,900 in 1933 and $640,523 in 1932. Net income last year equaled $5.34 per class A share and 63 cents per class B share.

This improvement reflected the 85 per cent increase in volume of business over 1933, according to the annual report released yesterday.

The corporation, which is primarily a producer of automobile parts and accessories, developed new processes and products during 1934, among which were hydrogen brazing and welding, which enabled it to procure a sizable amount of new business.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1934, including cash of $2,293,050, totaled $4,833,889 and current liabilities were $958,805. The year before current assets were $3,350,622 and current liabilities $561,543.

Profit and loss deficit during the year was cut $931,401 by application of net income, $10,957 by profit on sale of stock by a subsidiary, and $73,280 by adjustment of Muskegon Motor Specialties company [a subsidiary] investment. This brought the deficit down from $1,511,924 at the beginning of 1934 to $496,286 at the close.

Rise of Dollar Brings Gold Imports Near

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—The gold-bloc currencies today fell to the levels at which gold imports to this country from abroad become profitable. Any further fall tomorrow, even of small proportions, will reopen the flow of gold bullion from continental Europe to the United States. This further weakness of the gold standard exchanges of Europe, following upon several days of successive declines, reflected accumulating anxiety of the financial world over the position of the gold bloc as the conference of this group of nations at Brussels next Monday approaches. Timid short-term money, which had been flowing from London to Paris up to the end of last week, dragging down the pound sterling, was in full retreat back to London in fear of the safety of the French franc and other gold exchanges.

Franc Near Gold Point.

The French franc fell to 6:59¼ cents, the lowest price since Feb. 18, the day the Supreme court announced its decision in the gold clause cases, and closed at 6.59½ cents, off 3½ points net. Its low for the day was approximately the gold import point. Dutch guilders fell 38 points to 67.70 cents, slightly above gold import point; Belgian belgas fell 12 points to 23.33 cents, and Swiss francs fell 15 points to 32.41 cents, both currencies being below their gold points.

At the closing value of the French franc the dollar was worth $1.0058 against Francs, compared with $1.0005 yesterday when the dollar was above parity with the franc for the first time since Feb. 25.

The gold value of the dollar, based on the old parity of the franc was 59.41 cents, compared with 59.09 cents yesterday.

British Pound Rallies.

As the gold currencies fell the pound sterling, only lately the "sick man" of the foreign exchange market, recovered strongly. The pound rose to $4.77⅛ and closed at $4.76¾, up 2½ cents net. Currencies of the sterling group followed their leader with corresponding gains. The Scandinavian exchanges were up 10 to 14 points, the yen rose 12 points to 28.05 cents and the Canadian dollar gained ⅛ cent to a discount of 1 3-16 per cent.

Bar silver prices again reached new high levels since 1928 with the price in New York rising ¼ cent to 57⅞ cents a fine ounce, and in London closing at 27⅜ pence a fine ounce, equivalent to 58.45 cents. The market was described as quiet.

Gold prices in London were off 4 pence at 147 shillings, 8 pence a fine ounce, equivalent to $35, or at the same level as the American fixed price.

STEEL BASING FIGHT TOSSED IN PRESIDENT'S LAP

Charge NRA Aid to Monopoly.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 14.—President Roosevelt today was put in the position of having to decide on his own authority whether to hold the steel industry guilty of monopolistic practices and to implicate the NRA as aiding and abetting the monopoly.

The breach between the NRA and the federal trade commission, first revealed officially yesterday by Donald R. Richberg, New Deal coördinator, broke into the open today when the NRA and FTC filed with the President violently disagreeing reports on the legality of the steel industry's "basing point" price system.

Leave It Up to President.

The two New Deal agencies, failing utterly to agree, left the decision on the price system's legality up to the President. The FTC insists that the price system, which the NRA permitted to be drafted into the steel code, is a violation of the anti-trust laws and should be stricken out by the President. The NRA defends the system with some liberalizations which fail to satisfy the FTC.

Behind the steel controversy lurks a fundamental disagreement between the NRA and the FTC over whether industrial coöperation to ban certain types of competition is necessary for recovery. The NRA insists it is. The FTC distrusts all industrial coöperation.

Wants Test in Court.

In its recommendations to the President, the FTC asks that he withdraw code protection from the basing point price system and let it stand the test of court action under the anti-trust laws. The FTC makes plain its own belief that the system will be found to be in restraint of trade and monopolistic. It excoriates the NRA for allowing it in the code and for permiting the American Iron and Steel institute to enforce it with code fines.

The NRA in its defense of the code and the basing point price arrangement, stresses that necessity of not disrupting overnight the long established practice of the industry. It advocates that the basing points be increased so that every major steel producing center shall be within 50 miles of a price basing point.

19 New Basing Points.

Nineteen new price basing points would have to be created to bring the present system into line with the proposal for price spheres having a 50

The Nation's tax bill in 1934 was about $9,500,000,000.

The Nation's residential electric bill was about $677,000,000 — less than 8% of the tax bill.

Which is more important to the citizens of the United States?

A 4% reduction in taxes would mean more to the country than a 50% reduction in residential electric rates.

● Passage of the Rayburn-Wheeler Bill now pending in Congress would abolish utility holding companies, and would place local electric and gas companies under strict and stifling bureaucratic control from Washington. It might even result in government ownership and operation of local campanies. It is an ominous instance of Federal usurpation of States' rights, because the utilities are now regulated by State commissions.

This bill means more government in business, and that means more taxes. Ask your Senators and Representatives to vote against this unnecessary and destructive bill, and to write and advise you promptly of their attitude on it. It is your Constitutional right to do so.

STOCKS RESUME DECLINE; EARLY RISE FADES OUT

Steels and Utilities Lead Downward Drift.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 14.—Better prices prevailed for a time on the stock market today but the bashfulness of standard shares, notably the steels and utilities, to climb on the band wagon of recovery was interpreted by traders as a sign that the adjustment process had not yet been completed.

New low prices were registered in a number of issues, including American Safety Razor, Borden, Case, Laclede Gas preferred, and Westinghouse, as minus signs ranging from major fractions to more than 2 points were chalked up in a large variety of issues. United States Steel was a particular target for the selling, declining more than a point to enter the lowest quotation since the middle of 1933. Bethlehem Steel dropped over a point to register a new year's low, while Youngstown and Republic suffered fractional losses.

Washington News Paramount.

As usual, Washington influences, helped along by a fresh outbreak of liquidation in the commodity markets, overshadowed the market situation. Trade news from home and abroad was either colorless or somewhat unfavorable.

The utilities continued depressed. American Telephone, ex dividend, dropped more than a point. North American and American Water Works equaled their record lows. Consolidated Gas drifted fractionally lower.

Curiously, the harassed rails behaved fairly well. Current talk of a request for a lower wage scale, as soon as the present restoration of higher wages is completed, and hopes for early permission to lift freight rates sufficed as excuses for traders to stop unloading carrier shares. At any rate, it is believed the rails have been sold to the point of a rally.

Sears-Roebuck Advances.

Sears-Roebuck reacted favorably to the extent of a point in response to the announcement of a 75 cent dividend and its earning report showing a gain over last year. Montgomery Ward was steady.

The pivotals were poor examples for the rank and file of list, American Can dropping over a point and Westinghouse following suit.

Chrysler displayed strength for a time on news of the company's bond call, but sagged with the rest of the list, declining more than half a point.

General Motors did no better, while the new Studebaker issue managed to keep an even keel.

DECLARES U. S. SPENDING POLICY WILL BRING RUIN

Douglas Sees Destruction of Middle Class.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 14.—(AP)—Destruction of the nation's currency and "middle class" population, and establishment of a dictatorship were seen today by Lewis Douglas, former director of the federal budget, as ultimate possibilities in a continued policy of governmental spending.

In a criticism of the national administration's "spending policies" and the "increasing deficits" in the federal budget, Douglas painted an 'extremely black and forbidding picture of events" which can follow continuance of such a fiscal course.

"If the spending policy continues, quite irrespective of the disguised and concealed inflationary methods which have been employed, quite irrespective of the absence of the standard tests of government credit, quite irrespective of the amount of gold which we may hold, the effect must be catastrophic," he declared in an address before a student school of commerce and finance.

Says Dictatorship Looms.

"If the emergency in the spring of 1933 was sufficient to vest in the chief executive greater powers than ever before in our history have been vested in him, is there any reason to doubt that the sheer weight of economic forces will force a complete change in our political organization?

"Only a dictator—whether it be a dictator of Socialism or Fascism is unimportant—will be adequate to cope with the situation. Thus there will be wiped out all of the liberties for which the Anglo-Saxon race has struggled for more than a thousand years, and thus there will be destroyed, with the 'forgotten man,' the America which created the highest standard of living the world has ever known.

Wants Budget Balanced.

"The only method known to man of protecting a currency is to balance the budget of the money making power. This could be done in two years in the United States." He warned that the exercise by governments of their "power to coin money for the purpose of paying their bills" always has "and always will destroy the medium of exchange."

"This, it seems to me," he said, "is the most brutal and cruel thing which any government can do to its people, for it destroys the middle class.

"Hitler in Germany perhaps would not now be nor would revolution in Russia have gone to extremes nor the eighteenth century revolution in France with the guillotine with blood flowing in the streets, had it not been for the destruction of the middle class through destruction of currency.'

LIFE INSURANCE SALES INCREASE 11% IN FEBRUARY

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Sales of new life insurance last month was 11 per cent larger than in February, 1934, according to the figures submitted b ythe Association of Life Insurance Presidents to the United States department of commerce. For the first two months of this year the cumulative total was 17.6 per cent above the amount for the corresponding period a year ago.

The total of new business of all classes written in February by forty-two companies was $719,593,000, against $648,073,000 in the corresponding month last year. New ordinary insurance amounted to $490,193,000, against $424,395,000, an increase of 15.5 per cent. Industrial insurance amounted to $209,017,000, against $196,816,000, an increase of 6.2 per cent. Group insurance was $20,388,000, compared with $26,862,000, a decrease of 24.1 per cent.

City of Chicago Will Pay More of Its Tax Warants

City of Chicago corporate tax anticipation warants, levy of 1929, numbers 1,845 to 1,974, were called for payment on March 20, 1935, yesterday. Warants numbered 133A41 to 136A21 of the 1933 levy were also called yesterday by R. B. Upham, city controler. Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium warants, 277 to 300, and firemen's fund, 484A5 to 486A4, both of the levy of 1933, were likewise called for payment as of March 20, 1935.

Commodity Price Level Is Unchanged for Week

Washington, D. C., March 14.—(AP)—For the second consecutive week, wholesale commodity prices as a whole were reported by the labor department today to have remained unchanged for the week ended March 9. The level held at 79.6 per cent of the 1926 average, the highest point wholesale prices have reached since December, 1930. Food prices eased slightly.

Charges Nonprofit Firm Does Insurance Business

Assistant Attorney General William C. Clausen yesterday filed a petition in Circuit court for leave to file information against the American Travelers Health association, 100 North La Salle street, on the grounds that it is an insurance business while organized as not for pecuniary profit.

¾ Cent Commission Rate Adopted in Soy Bean Trade

A commission rate of ¾ cent per bushel on transactions in cash lots of soy beans was adopted yesterday by members of the Chicago Board of Trade. A special committee has under consideration a proposal to start trading in soy beans for future delivery, but no report has been made.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, March 14.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.00c per lb for spots. A better inquiry was reported, and after sales of 46,500 bags of porto Rican for prompt shipment were confirmed at this level there was nothing available below 3.05c. Refiners continued to show interest at the 3.00c level.

Prices at best showed net gains of 3 to 5 points but realizing checked the upturn, and the close was 2 to 4 points net higher in both contracts. Sales were 6,400 tons in the No. 1 contract and 10,450 in the No. 3.

Prices in cents per pound:

STEEL BASING FIGHT TOSSED IN PRESIDENT'S LAP

Trade Commission Says NRA Aids Monopoly.

mile radius, the NRA report said. Of these 19 proposed new basing points, three are in the Chicago district and would, therefore, pare down the advantage held by steel mills in the Chicago-Gary region. The 19 new basing points suggested by NRA are:

Detroit, Mich.; Peoria, Ill.; Kokomo, Ind.; Alabama City, Ala.; Pueblo, Colo.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Atlanta, Ga.; Kansas City, Mo.; St. Louis, Mo.; Syracuse, N. Y.; Harrisburg, Pa.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Cincinnati, O.; Portsmouth, O.; Sand Springs, Okla.; Harrison, N. J.; Mansfield, O.; Troy, N. Y., and Johnstown, Pa.

Hits Chicago Area.

Since Gary is already a basing point for all steel products and Chicago is a basing point for many others, mills in these two centers may suffer from the proposal. The basing point system provides that all steel sold in the Gary area, for instance, regardless of whether it is made in Peoria and sold in Springfield, must be priced as though it included freight from Gary to the point of consumption, in this case Springfield.

Thus, basing point cities are to some extent protected from competing steel centers within the area. Gary and Chicago may, therefore, suffer from creation of the Peoria, Kokomo, and Detroit basing points, if the NRA proposal is accepted.

"Biased," Says Institute.

New York, March 14.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute charged tonight that the federal trade commission was "biased, inaccurate, and misleading" in its statement on the basing point method of quoting steel prices.

"The federal trade commission does not appear to have studied either jointly with the National Recovery administration or otherwise the questions referred to by the President," the steel institute declared.

"The report made by the commission to the President, if judged by its press release, is not a report on the study of the basing point system, but is an attack on codes and the codification of the industry under the NRA, with particular references to the steel code."

ELECTIONS WON BY UNAFFILIATED AUTO WORKERS

Detroit, Mich., March 14.—[Special.]—Seventy-two per cent of the 133,956 employés voting in collective bargaining elections in 34 plants favored candidates without union affiliations, the automobile labor board announced today. Eleven per cent favored employé association candidates, 6 per cent the American Federation of Labor, and 4½ per cent the Associated Automobile Workers of America.

Results of four primary elections in Saginaw and Bay City were announced by Prof. Francis E. Ross, election supervisor.

Unaffiliated candidates received the biggest vote in each plant. In the election of the Chevrolet foundry plant in Saginaw 4,466 employés participated. The unaffiliated group received 3,636 votes; employé association, 280; American Federation of Labor, 220; Mechanics Educational society, 67, and Pattern Makers League of North America, 37.

At the Saginaw Steering Gear division of the General Motors corporation, 565 voted of 644 eligible. The unaffiliated group was given 508 votes; employé associations, 26, and the A. F. of L., 25. At the malleable plant in Saginaw, 971 votes were cast of 1,080 eligible. The poll revealed 830 unaffiliated, 39 members of the malleable works council, and 47 Pattern Makers League of America.

The Bay City vote in the Chevrolet plant showed 1,503 unaffiliated, 107 in the employés association and 110 A. F. of L. of 1,797 eligible voters.

ALBANY PARK BANK TO REPAY ANOTHER 10 PCT.

Depositors of the Albany Park National bank will be repaid another 10 per cent within a month, raising total returns to 63 per cent. The joint announcement yesterday by the depositor's committee and Receiver Gordon A. Ramsay explained the delay is caused by the fact that the checks must be mailed to Washington for signature.

Because of the uncertainty as to the exact time this operation will consume, Mr. Ramsay will mail postal cards to depositors to notify them when the money is available.

The payment will amount to about $145,000. This was obtained partly from a new loan by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. A previous loan of $247,000 for an earlier payment has been repaid. Up to the coming payment, depositors have received 53 per cent, or a total of $776,411, and preferred and secured claims of $663,000 have been wiped out.

Foes of New Bank Bill Open Fight on 'Inflation Sections'

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—Opposition to the proposed banking act of 1935 began to crystallize at today's hearing before the house banking and currency committee when Representative Dirksen, Republican of Illinois, hinted in his questioning of Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, at potentialities of great currency inflation which many banks are understood to see in the bill.

These apprehensions center around the sweeping power proposed for the federal reserve board to prescribe eligibility requirements for assets to be discountable by federal reserve banks, and the removal of the commercial paper requirements as backing for federal reserve notes.

What Draft Provides.

The original draft provides that "subject to such regulations as to maturities and other matters as the federal reserve board may prescribe, any federal reserve bank may discount any commercial, agricultural or industrial paper and may make advances to any such member banks on its promissory notes secured by any sound assets of such member banks."

Some Republican committee members hold that federal reserve banks will get so choked up with unliquid paper under this provision that they can satisfy member banks' demands for currency in time of stress only by issuing notes.

Granting that note issue would be limited at present to 2½ times the federal reserve bank's reserves of gold certificates, they point out that further dollar devaluation would increase infinitly the dollar amount of notes that could be legally issued.

Defines Reserve Notes.

Federal reserve notes under the proposed bill would be "obligations of the United States, secured by a first and paramount lien on all of the assets of such [federal reserve] bank."

As backing for the notes, the only requirement would be "reserves in gold certificates of not less than 40 per centum against its federal reserve notes in actual circulation." Under present law, an additional coverage of 60 per cent of commercial paper is required.

The government's weapon against undue inflation, according to Eccles' testimony, would lie in the power that the federal reserve board, "in order to prevent injurious credit expansion or contraction may by regulation change the requirements as to reserve to be maintained against demand or time deposits, or both, by member banks."

Inflation can only come from the willingness of people or corporations to borrow money, and would be built on excess reserves, he said.

WRIGLEY ESTATE REPORTS CUT IN SHARE HOLDINGS

SEC Reveals Other Stock Changes.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—[Special.]—In administering the estate of the late William Wrigley Jr., Philip K. PLAN MEETINGS TO STIR INTEREST IN HOUSING ACT

In an effort to stimulate local interest in the national housing act, a series of meetings has been planned by the Federal Housing administration, to be held at the Palmer house next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Leigh R. Putnam, associate director of the FHA for northern Illinois, said yesterday.

Among the speakers scheduled for Monday are Percy Wilson, regional director; Carroll H. Sudler, district director for northern Illinois; B. J. Flynn of the Washington industries division of the FHA; Howard J. White, chairman of the Chicago Better Homes program; H. U. Nelson, Homer J. Buckley, Russell G. Creviston and Roland D. Wilcox.

The insurance of the first FHA loans made to an operative builder in the Chicago area was announced yesterday by Mr. Sudler. They are being made by the Prairie State bank of Oak Park, for the construction of two $20,000 brick and hollow tile residences on Bonnie Brae, between Greenfield and North avenues, River Forest. Charles A. Kristen is architect. Frank P. Ross of Oak Park is owner.

FIGHTS PUTTING HERTZ ON BOARD OF PARAMOUNT

New York, March 14.—[Special.]—Morris L. Ernst, a member of the Frank A Vanderlip bondholders' committee, whose campaign for more Hollywood and less Wall street representation in the new Paramount-Publix corporation has been treated lightly by financial interests behind the reorganization, is extending his fight into the bankers' ranks.

In an attack on banker domination, Mr. Ernst made known today that he will oppose John D. Hertz, a partner in Lehman Bros., international bankers, as a Paramount director, when the new board comes up for federal court approval on April 4.

His minority report, urging screen actor and writer representation on the board, was sent holders of $25,000,000 of Paramount bonds last week. Its opponents spoofingly greeted it with the suggestion Mr. Ernst would have Harpo Marx and Baby Leroy run the world's largest film producer.

In reply, Mr. Ernst will challenge the former taxicab magnate's confirmation as a Paramount director on the ground that Lehman Bros., are bankers for Radio-Keith-Orpheum, Paramount's leading competitor, and three of his partners are R. K. O. directors.

DEPOSITS OF IDLE FUNDS CONTINUE RISE TO NEW HIGH

Regarded as Forecast of Credit Inflation.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The rising curve in demand deposits in the nation's banks, regarded by many as foreshadowing a great credit inflation, was carried up further last week in Chicago and New York according to the weekly banking statistics which were released last night.

Figures covering the condition of banks in the 90 principal cities of the country will not be made public until next Monday. In recent months, however, the deposit figures in the two principal banking centers have shown the same trend as the country as a whole. Although the banks are bulging with funds begging for employment there is no indication yet of a genuine expansion in credit for private commercial purposes.

"When" Is a Question.

How soon such an expansion will get under way is the subject of endless speculation. Nearly all the experts agree, however, that the steadily rising trend in demand deposits can ultimately lead to only one end—a drastic credit inflation which may perhaps exceed that of 1928 and 1929.

The combined increase in demand deposits of the New York and Chicago banks last week was 60 million dollars. The aggregate of demand deposits today in the two cities is approximately 8½ billion dollars, an expansion of more than 1½ billions during the last 12 months. In the 91 principal cities of the country the last year has witnessed an increase of nearly three billions in demand deposits.

Reserve Funds Soaring.

Accompanying the upturn in deposits last week was another expansion in the reserve funds which member banks have on deposit with the 12 central banks of the reserve system. These reserve funds were 33 millions above the figure reported a week earlier. Of the current total of $4,588,000,000 of reserves approximately $2,400,000 are "excess reserve funds" or that which the member banks have on deposit with the central banks in excess of legal requirements.

The influx of gold into the United States which in part has been causing the big expansion in bank reserves slowed up during the last week. The combined reserve statement showed that the country's monetary stocks were up only 5 millions for the week. Holdings of gold certificates by the reserve system failed to keep pace with gold imports and last week registered a decline of 2 millions.

Retire "Asset Money."

Total money circulation last week contracted by approximately 24 millions. Almost complete retirement of the federal reserve bank notes or "asset money" was effected. Only $100,000 remains outstanding as liabilities of the reserve banks, as compared with $1,127,000 a week earlier.

The member banks in Chicago and New York reported little change in the volume of commercial credit. Brokers' loans were barely changed in New York and the banks there invested 62 millions more in government bonds. This accounted for the expansion of 55 millions in total loans and investment there. In Chicago government bond holdings were down 9 millions, while other types of credit showed practically no change. An increase of $399,000 in industrial loans was reported by the central reserve banks in their combined statement.

LAND BANK BOND WITHDRAWALS TO END TODAY

The period for withdrawal of bonds deposited in connection with reorganization plans for the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank will expire today, after which all bonds on deposit will be considered as assenting to the plan recently brought out by the bondholders' protective committee, which is headed by Robert Stevenson, 11 South La Salle street.

Under the plan the assets of the bank, which has been in receivership since Oct. 1, 1922, would be purchased by the new organization for liquidation in the best interests of the bondholders, it was stated.

Arizona Edison Company

NOTICE OF THE APPROVAL OF A PLAN OF REORGANIZATION

To Creditors and Security Holders:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a Plan of Reorganization of Arizona Edison Company, dated February 18, 1935, has been approved by the Arizona Corporation Commission and the District Court of the United States for the District of Arizona. The undersigned, being the Chairmen of the Bondholders' and Noteholders' Protective Committees, respectively, have been constituted a Reorganization Committee to have charge of securing acceptances and carrying the Plan into effect.

Copies of the Plan and Form of Acceptance are being mailed to such holders of Bonds, Notes and other creditors of the Company whose addresses are available to the Committee.

We suggest that you file your name, address and amount of securities held with the Secretary of the Committee so that you may receive copies of the Plan, Form of Acceptance and future communications.

GRAIN PRICES SINK IN WAVE OF LIQUIDATION

Some Options Dip to New Lows for Season.

New low levels for the season on May wheat, July and September corn and oats, and all deliveries of rye and barley were established yesterday on a wave of liquidation largely in sympathy with weakness in stocks and cotton. The latter at one time showed as much as $1.90 per bale decline from the early high.

While short covering brought about moderate rallies from the lowest figures, the close showed losses of 1¼ to 1½ cents in wheat and corn, 1⅜ to 1¾ cents in rye, and 2 to 5 cents in barley. July barley dropped the limit permitted for one day under exchange regulations.

May Futures Prices.

	Yesterday.	Wed.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .92⅝	$ .93⅛	$ .96⅛
Corn	.78¾	.80	.82⅜
Oats	.46⅛	.47¼	.49
Rye	.57¾	.59½	.63⅜

While traders were inclined to blame the decline in cotton for starting the recession in grain, many operators said the continued reports of arrivals of Argentine, Polish, and other grains at Atlantic and Gulf ports were the dominating influence. This movement has greatly undermined the confidence of buyers.

It was officially announced Canada exported nearly 17,000,000 bushels of grains to the United States during the last six months in 1934, compared with about 1,250,000 bushels for the same period in 1933. New Orleans received a cargo of 183,000 bushels Argentine corn on Wednesday, and a cargo of oats from that country was being unloaded at Houston, Tex., yesterday.

Cash Sales Small.

Only 4,500 bushels of cash corn were reported sold yesterday for shipment from the Chicago market, in one of the smallest day's aggregate business under normal conditions in the memory of some of the oldest cash handlers. No shipping sales of wheat, oats, rye, or barley were indicated.

There was a little buying of wheat early, based on relative strength in Liverpool and on continued dry weather in the southwest, but routine news was ignored as soon as the market turned downward. Liverpool closed ¾ to 1⅛ cents higher. Winnipeg unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, and Buenos Aires unchanged. Corn in Buenos Aires rose ⅛ to ¼ cent with May quoted at 38¼ cents, or 40½ cents under the same delivery in Chicago. A week ago the difference was 39¼ cents.

PROVISION FUTURES AT NEW LOW ON CURRENT DECLINE

Provision futures dropped to a new low on the current downturn yesterday as the result of a wave of general liquidation by commission house longs. Prices were carried off as much as 40 cents per 100 pounds on lard from Wednesday's finish. Cash interests bought steadily on the decline, but the market failed to show much rallying power and the close was at net losses of 35 to 37½ cents. May lard at the low was off $1.27½ from the high point of the season, established on Feb. 19. Bellies closed 30 to 40 cents lower.

Cash lard closed at $13.00; loose and leaf at $13.25, and bellies at $16.87 per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

PRODUCE MARKETS

Fresh eggs and butter were in fair demand yesterday with the markets showing a slightly firmer undertone. Egg receipts were 16,763 cases and butter, 7,028 tubs. Live broilers and fryers were ½c per pound higher and other poultry was steady. Receipts were 2 cars and 17 trucks. Potatoes were slightly easier on Wisconsins and steady on russets. Receipts were 114 cars with 363 cars on team track.

COTTON PRICES SINK AGAIN IN ERRATIC TRADE

Senator Smith Seeks $20,000 for Probe.

Cotton futures fluctuated in a most erratic manner yesterday. An early advance was followed by a liquidating movement which carried prices off as much as $1.90 per bale from the early high, but a partial recovery took place later. The pressure was largely confined to the new crop deliveries. The south was reported to be a heavy seller.

Trade and spot houses absorbed the offerings of the old crop months, with some buying said to have been based on a statement by Oscar Johnston of the cotton division of the AAA in an address to members of the Liverpool and Manchester, England cotton association that the United States government would not market any of its holdings unless the price was above 12 cents per pound level.

Different Markets Irregular.

Closing trades in Chicago were unchanged to 22 points lower, the latter equal to $1.10 per bale, while other markets were 4 points higher to 10 points lower, with old crop months showing the most strength.

The recent drastic break in the market which carried prices off nearly $10 per bale leaves the government facing a loss of approximately $45,000,000 on the 6,000,000 bales on which it had loaned 12 cents per pound to producers.

In Washington Senator Smith [Dem., S. C.] today demanded a full senate investigation of the break. He introduced a resolution asking a $20,000 appropriation for the probe which would be conducted by the senate agriculture committee, of which he is chairman. Under the resolution, which was sent to the agriculture committee and which Smith said would be reported out tomorrow, the committee would be empowered to subpena witnesses and demand market records.

"I think the same sinister forces that wrecked Hoover's farm program are at work to destroy our present cotton policy," he asserted.

The senator has expressed belief that Monday's break was caused by dissemination of information regarding the administration's cotton policy.

Spot Cotton Prices Easier.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 5 points lower yesterday with New Orleans, Galveston, and New York at 12½ cents per pound, while at Houston the price was 11.55 cents. Prices follow:

LIGHT RECEIPTS HELP CHECK DIP IN HOG PRICES

Light receipts of hogs yesterday served to counteract the effect of the bearish reports from the wholesale pork trade and the market escaped with little loss. Opening 5 to 10 cents lower, prices slowly reversed and part of the earlier downturn was replaced before the close despite the severe setback suffered by fresh pork cuts.

Prices of top loins fell $1 per hundred pounds to $24 and the lifeless trade caused some interests to withdraw offerings to relieve pressure on prices. This was the first cut in the wholesale price of loins since the market started upward from $18 a month ago.

Selected 195 to 255 pound butchers cost packers $11.60, of which $2.25 was processing tax. The average tax included at $11.45 was off only 5 cents.

Medium and heavy cattle retained the recent gains, but light kinds fell 15 to 25 cents, with some of the poorest grades unsold at the close. Plain classes under $8 as much as 50 cents below the recent high spot. The top was $14.10, but a range of $8.50 to $12.75 bought the bulk, with scattered lots of stock that will yield little beef selling at $7 and below.

Heavy receipts and a sluggish meat trade brought further slashing of lamb quotations. The market broke 35 to 50 cents to new 1935 lows.

Substantial weekly DRAWING ACCOUNT; must be strong closer and able to handle new men. Phone Village 8230.

Our most active season has begun. Business is good.

We have an opening for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishing House in the middle west. Previous experience an advantage but not essential. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives advanced commission weekly in full on a basis of average sales expectancy. Also allowing a daily drawing account privilege, if necessary, while getting started. An intensely interesting and dignified program for those capable of conducting enthusiastic conversation. Can earn $30 per week and upward consistently. No night calls. Apply from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. only. Can also use a few saleswomen.

Vital Profession Makes Quick Money

Here is something that concerns every man, woman and child. It is an electrical device that is replacing antiquated methods and revolutionizing one of the greatest and most active markets in America. Every man we accept will learn vital and little-known health facts of an astonishing nature—facts that will immediately earn him a new high percentage annually, if the experience of our present staff is any indication. BUT, we cannot offer this unique opportunity to any men who do not have executive capacity and [illegible]

NEAR NORTH SIDE
It's very nice when you close your desk at the end of the day to know that after a short, brisk walk, just 5 blocks north of the river, you will come to a studio in a quaint little lamp-lighted court that makes you feel far away from Chicago, or a bungalow tucked away in a little Pomander Walk that no one knows about, or a little top floor flat with a huge 35 ft. living room, or a roof garden, or a place where a whole family can live. Some with lofty ceilings and sun kissed rooms, all with fireplaces, all interesting; a little charm about them that makes you glad you live there. You are home before most of your friends, with a full evening before you. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 7 rooms. See them, or phone us.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

COME IN

To STUDEBAKER'S big Used Car Building at 26th and Michigan. One inspection of our outstanding offerings and you'll be willing to admit that they're the greatest bargains in town! 5 days' driving trial with each sale. Typical values below:

DODGE De Luxe Sedan, 1933. It was owned by a wealthy family who gave it the very best of attention; now every detail of the interior and exterior is 100%; has a sweet running motor. This looks like a real $800 value; only $525.

GRAHAM Spt. Coupe '33 de l. model with rumble seat and every conceivable extra. Examine this Graham from bumper to bumper and you'll agree it still possesses all the original newness. Driven only slightly more than 12 months. Only $585.

NASH 8 Sedan, 1932. It was in storage for almost 2 years; we checked it over carefully in our shop; now we recommend it as an outstanding Nash auto. It's a topnotcher throughout. Sidemounts. Easily worth more than our price of $445.

PLYMOUTH Coupe, 1933. You'll be surprised when you see this one. It looks and runs better than many cars priced over $700. Only $425.

STUDEBAKER Sport Coupe. Latest '33 with free wheeling and big rumble seat. This wonderful coupe saw so little service that we defy any one to tell it from a brand new car. It's a real winner at only $495.

CHEVROLET Sport Coupe. Late 1934. Rumble seat. This is a low slung car with a world of power and pep. It looks and runs as though never driven a mile. It can't be beat at $495.

BUICK BROUGHAM. A de luxe 1934. Has knee action. It has the appearance and performance of an auto fresh from the factory. Come in and find out what our special price is. It will surprise you.
